WET AND DRY FORCES IN CAUCUS CITY

tions who discussed the prohibition plank the Republicans will adopt next week, the primary interest seemed to be the degree of wetness.

Plan Demonstration—The organized wets and drys carried their dispute from the statement stage into a series of demonstrations, with the former laying plans for a two day demonstration to begin tomorrow and the latter beginning a series of meetings, described by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, as "a call to arms."

The wet demonstration was arranged under the auspices of the D. Ruckelshier and the Republican citizens' committee against prohibition. Already Henry H. Curran, president of the association against the prohibition amendment had issued a statement demanding a repeal plank.

The dry rally was opened under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League and the Illinois conference of associations supporting the eighteenth amendment. McBride in the keynote speech before the meeting said a repeal plank in the Republican platform would be a "colossal blunder."

Curran pointed to the recent elections in Florida, Indiana, and North Carolina "as a concrete proof of what is going on in the popular mind."

Mrs. Smith Speaks—A statement came today from Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, vice president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, saying the "drive to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment is the pathway to putrid politics."

Curran said "there is an open revolt against prohibition throughout the country and it is the most amazing study in national psychology seen in years. The tide is running our way."

In an interview before he addressed the dry meeting, McBride said John D. Rockefeller Jr., "parted company with the league in 1925 when he took issue with prohibition by legislation." He added that if a repeal program "is ever adopted, Rockefeller will find a saloon alongside most of his filling stations in many states and gasoline and liquor don't mix."

Leaders Tight-Lipped—While incoming delegates were free to speculate over the platform possibilities, party leaders were tight-lipped. What platform proposals James Garfield, of Ohio, the chairman designate of the resolutions committee, may be bringing to Chicago from Washington remain to be disclosed but few believe that the consensus will be for less than a move for an advisory referendum. Garfield is expected tomorrow.

The decision of the Republican national committee to seat the delegates from South Carolina headed by Joseph W. Tolbert, from Georgia led by James W. Arnold, from Louisiana sponsored by Ernest Lee Jahneke, and from Mississippi headed by Perry Howard, negro, cleared away the last major detail remaining before the committee.

Speculation Revives—It left room for a revival of speculation over the identity of the person who will succeed Senator Fess, of Ohio, as chairman of the committee, but there was a definite lack of concentration upon any one name.

The desire of party leaders is to select a man whose name and personality will grip the nation, and Charles G. Dawes, recently resigned as head of the Reconstruction corporation to return to his business interests, is definitely understood to have turned the post down.

Talk has been passed about the flag draped lobby of the Congress hotel, too, about the possibility of a man to replace Curtis, but the speculation is as indefinite and shifting as the thin clouds that are continually passing over a picture of galloping horses that stand still in an electric sign at a far corner of the lobby.

filed for Dr. Lee B. Bouvy by his friends. Questioned by the Observer today, Dr. Bouvy said: "I believe there is already a fine representation of candidates in the field, from which two good directors undoubtedly will be selected by the voters. I was surprised yesterday when I learned that my friends had filed a nominating petition for me, but, in view of the fact that there are good candidates in the race and because of the stress of my professional duties, I do not expect to accept the nomination, although I am very appreciative of the honor paid me."

The school election will be held on Monday, June 20 from 2 to 7 o'clock at the Greenwood and Central grade school buildings. Retiring directors are W. C. Perkins and Dr. J. L. Eagle.

WORLD MARKS FALL AT CHICAGO MEET

Sport Finals

"BURN UP" TRACK STAGO FIELD, Chicago, June 11

Running in record breaking time, Glen Cunningham, University of Kansas, achieved a surprise victory in defeating Henry Brocksmith, Indiana university, in the mile run opening the finals of the national college track and field championships today.

Cunningham, catching Brocksmith in the back stretch, defeated him by five yards with an amazing burst of speed to set an American intercollegiate record of 4:11 1-10.

Metcalf Wins in 102—Ralph Metcalf, negro flyer from Marquette, Kentucky, tied the world's record of 39.5-10 in winning the 100 yard dash and continued on to eclipse the world's record for the 100 meters. His time for the Olympic event, the 100 meters was :10:2-10, two-tenths of a second better than the mark established by Charles Paddock in 1921 and equaled by Eddie Tolian in 1929.

Metcalf won by a yard from Donald Bennett, Ohio State. At 110 yard dash, Metcalf won by a yard and a half from Bennett. Metcalf began pulling away to convince his admirers that he was the fastest sprinter in America at the moment.

14.1 In High Hurdles—George Saling, University of Iowa, smashed all existing world's records for the 120-yard high hurdles when he sailed over the sticks in :14.1-10. Saling clipped three-tenths of a second off the accepted world's record established by Earl Thomson, Dartmouth, in 1920, and later equaled by E. Wenstrom, of Sweden, in 1929. Saling won by about two and a half yards from John Black, of Ohio State, with Jack Keller, another Buckeye, third.

Metcalf came back to smash the world's record for the 220-yard dash, reeling it off in :20 5-10. Metcalf by a remarkable performance knocked one-tenth of a second off the world's record set by Roland Locke, of Nebraska, in 1926. This 22-year-old negro streaked down the center path to finish six yards ahead of another negro, James Johnson, of Illinois State normal, with Donald Bennett of Ohio State third.

Jack Keller, Ohio State, shattered the world record for the 220-yard low hurdles, shaving three-tenths of a second off the accepted world's mark set a new figure of 32.7. Keller, beating George Saling, of Iowa, by a step, eclipsed the accepted world's record of 23 seconds hung up by Charles Brookings, of the University of Iowa, in 1924. He also trimmed a tenth of a second from the unofficial record of 22.8 made by Richard Rockaway, of Ohio State, in 1929.

With eleven events finished, Ohio State was leading with 46 points, with Indiana second with 38, Minnesota third with 24 and Marquette fourth with 20, Iowa fifth with 19.

TODAY'S BASEBALL GAMES (By the Associated Press) The Chicago Cubs fought their way back into the National league leadership today by defeating the Boston Braves 2 to 1. It was a pitching duel all the way between Warneke and Bets.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia split a double header, the Reds finally getting back into the win column by taking the second game 4 to 3. Brooklyn swamped the St. Louis Cardinals 12 to 3 with Henrich pitching five-hit ball, and the New York Giants romped through the Pittsburgh defense, defeating the Buccaners 6 to 4.

The A's hung one on Detroit 7 to 3 with Tony Pretas pitching nice ball and his mates playing errorless in the field.

Boston surprised Chicago with a 4 to 1 victory and the Yankees weren't good enough to day to defeat Cleveland. Ferrell pitching the New Yorkers into submission 6 to 3.

National League R. H. E. Chicago 2 5 1 Boston 1 6 0 Warneke and Hartnett; Bets and Spohrer, Hargrave. (First Game) R. H. E. Cincinnati 3 11 1 Philadelphia 6 12 2 Frey and Lombardi; J. Elliott, Ogden and V. Davis. (Second Game) R. H. E. Cincinnati 4 10 3 Philadelphia 3 11 1 Benton, Carroll and Mantion; Collins, Hansen, and V. Davis. R. H. E. St. Louis 3 5 0 Brooklyn 12 12 1 Derringer, Lindsey, Sherdel, Stout and Wilson; Heimach and Lopez, Pleinich.

A study of the legislative situation surrounding the bonus legislation in the house has led legislative leaders to believe a vote will come Wednesday, or late Tuesday at the earliest. It will first be necessary on Monday for the house to vote out of the rules committee a rule permitting consideration of the bill which now is tabled with an unfavorable report. Then that rule will have to be adopted, probably bringing up the bill on the following day. General debate and amendment attempts probably will consume a day.

Meanwhile, an attempt to appropriate $100,000 for care of the bonus marchers was blocked in the senate. Vice President Curtis held an amendment offered by Senator Blaine (R., Wis.) for that purpose was not in order as an amendment to the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

Blaine offered several other amendments, designed to divert to the marchers some of the $600,000 carried in the bill for District of Columbia unemployed, but in each case Vice President Curtis sustained points of order by Senator Bingham (R., Conn.)

Pittsburgh R. H. E. 4 7 3 New York 6 10 0 French, Swift and Grace, Padden; Walker and Hogan. American League R. H. E. New York 3 6 1 Cleveland 6 13 2 Pippas and Dickey; Ferrell and Myatt. Philadelphia R. H. E. 7 10 0 Detroit 3 7 3 Freitas and Cochran; Bridges, Goldstein and Hayworth. Boston R. H. E. 4 10 1 Chicago 1 4 2 Andrews and Ttate; Gaston, Dagulla and Berry.

STELLA WALSH BREAKS MARK CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—Stella Walsh, Cleveland girl sprint star, shattered the National A. A. U. mark of 6.5 seconds by a tenth of a second in the 50 meter dash, and tied the world's record of 6.4, in the district A. A. U. Olympic trials here today.

She followed this by equalling the Olympic mark of 12.1 seconds in the 100 meter event, but fell one-tenth of a second short of the world's mark.

budget for the next two years will be balanced. Salary reductions in one of the moves being made to accomplish this purpose. Cut Held Imperative Administrative officials, it was learned, appreciate the fact that Oregon's salary schedule on the whole is less than in most states, but that a cut at this time is imperative despite this condition. The head officials likewise know that if a permanent reduction would be put into effect, it not only would be more difficult to get them back when improved conditions return, but would result in a probable deficiency in state government a few years hence.

Budget Director Hansen, in company with William Einzig, secretary of the board of control, the past two weeks has been outlining budgets for the various institutions, and Hansen said these will result in requests for appropriations considerably under those of two years ago. Among these is the state hospital, which not only would return $120,000 to the general fund at the end of this biennium, but would request a sum of $200,000 under its previous budget.

It was indicated here the budget will not include two items which have been appropriated by the legislature in the past, the $75,000 for the Pacific Northwest exposition and the $30,000 for the care of the battleship Oregon.

The appropriations for the livestock exposition in the past have been made upon recommendation of Portland interests, but Hansen indicated such appropriation was not a proper duty of the state, since the exposition is a private enterprise. Hansen has already started a move to make the state fair self-supporting, which because of its nature would be more entitled to the $75,000 appropriation usually voted, than the exposition.

Patriotic organizations were expected to protest elimination of the $15,000 a year for the care of the battleship Oregon, which is now tied to a Portland dock, but the administration was expected to oppose any money for this purpose. It was indicated if the state wishes to keep the ship, it could likewise be taken care of by admission fees and other means.

Hansen also had previously stated recommendations would be made for the elimination of three state departments from appropriations, and means are being devised to place them on a self-sustaining basis. They include the state engineer's office, the public utilities commission and the industrial accident commission. Still further recommendations are being considered along this line, Hansen said.

The committee on salary adjustments is composed of Lynn S. McCready, Eugene; Henry L. Corbett, Portland and M. H. Mahaffey, Bend.

July 1, and be made to the board of control in time to become effective at the beginning of the last half of 1932.

The committee, it was learned, will recommend that those receiving salaries set by law not wait for legislative action to make the reduction effective, but that they volunteer the cut and return the 10 to 12 per cent of their checks to the general fund beginning in July.

Effect Immediately The reduction of other salaries set by the governor and heads of the departments, including the board of control, will become effective immediately. Each department and institution head will be instructed to reduce their own employes on that basis, the exact amounts to be left to the department officials. In a few cases where the salaries were believed too low, an increase may be recommended.

Following the recommendations of the committee, it was further learned that the governor and budget director, Henry M. Hansen, would not only consider salary reductions for
