Funeral services were held in the West and company parlors Friday afternoon. Interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Menus Of The Day

- By Mrs. Alexander George—SUNDAY SUPPER MENU—Salmon Salad, Mayonnaise, Potato Chips, Olives, Plum Jelly, Strawberry Tarts, Cream, Coffee.

- Salmon Salad, Serving 6 (Suitable for luncheon, dinner or supper). 1 1/2 cups salmon, 3 hard cooked eggs, diced, 1 cup chopped celery, 4 tablespoons chopped pickles, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

- MIX and chill ingredients. Serve on lettuce. Mayonnaise: 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup salad oil.

- Chill all utensils and ingredients. Beat egg in deep, narrow bowl or crock. Add dry ingredients. Beat 1 minute with rotary beater. Add slowly 2 tablespoons of oil, beating steadily. Add 1-3 of remaining oil, beating steadily. Alternate remaining oil with vinegar. Beat 2 minutes. Chill.

- Strawberry Tarts: 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup lard, 4 tablespoons cold water. Mix flour and salt. Cut in lard with knife, and mixing with knife, add water slowly. When stiff dough forms, break off bits and roll out and fit into deep muffin pans. Crinkle edges with fingers and prick sides and bottoms with fork. Bake 12 minutes or until little cases are well browned and easily removed from the pan. Cool and place on serving plates and add berry mixture.

- Berry Mixture: 1 1/2 quart berries, 1 cup sugar. Wash and hull berries. Add sugar. Chill. When ready to serve, place Exchange Rates Are Lower because less auto accidents occur in the country than in the city. Then why pay high insurance rates based on city traffic?

Here is a clean cut policy protecting your car, or any damage to others caused by it. The rates are based on the low accident risk of rural traffic. The rates are the lowest obtainable and the service is the best.

Health

SPINAL CURVATURES Old King Canute's command to the rising tide to recede was only a little more futile than a command to the child to stand up straight and to assume a normal and graceful posture.

The position of the spine, like the ribs of the side, is in obedience to physical forces not effectively opposed by the tone of authority. A good deal of study in recent years has been devoted to the problem of curvatures of the spine, for this condition has been found widely prevalent among school children.

You Can't Marry

empty bottles—frightfully awkward if anyone dropped in for a chat! Really, if Jenny is going to play housekeeper, she must do it elsewhere. I need someone reliable."

"Eddie?" Was it possible that he had not heard her? He was so motionless. "What's the matter?" she whispered.

Eddie took his head in his hands. "Nothing's the matter," he sounded drowsy. "I get sleepy, suddenly, like this. When I get—when I hear a crash. Thought I heard a crash in the street just now."

"How odd!" At a loss, she giggled—and saw the blood mount to his face. Then, feeling that she could bite out her blundering tongue, she ran across to him and took his head in her arms, cradling it gently. "You have forty winks, old darling, while I open all the emergency tins at once!"

His lips touched her hair as she released him but when she looked back at the door, he was asleep. She went quietly back to the kitchen and pulled Jenny's overall over her apricot gown.

If Jenny had been here now, George would have been particularly sweet to her, given her a present or something; for she was bitterly ashamed of the jealousy that had flared out in her against her little cousin. Bustling the remains of the supper off the table, she began to hum softly. Wasn't this exactly what she had dreamed of doing—showing Eddie how easily the modern girl can run a home and job at the same time? Come home at the end of a long day and toss a hot meal together might be out of the question for most; but she was strong and young and clever; she could do it. Eddie should see!

She inspected the emergency stores and the cupboard. Generously, she admitted that if her dinner was a success she would owe it to Jenny, for the body and substance of the meal were provided already. She decided that she would try an omelette.

Half an hour later, flushed and anxious, she took off the overall—and found Eddie in the doorway. "Woke to find the place dim with smoke," he grinned, unsympathetically; "thought it was a fire until I remembered you were cooking tonight. Can I do anything? Jenny showed me a first-class way of making eggs."

"Fortunately, she showed me once, too," laughed George. "That's all we shall get, I'm afraid—the omelette gets to be excused. And there are some cheese-sticks I've warmed up in the oven. And there will be some coffee—I really can make that."

"Did Jenny show you?" "I believe she did." Actually, it was George who had taught Jenny, but she was glad to make amends when she recollected her attitude of superiority. "Sit down, Ed. Our first meal together."

He drew a jug of drinking-water, which she had forgotten, and she tried hard to banish the picture of Jenny and him facing each other over this little checked table-cloth in just this informal way. No doubt he had laid the covers and drawn the water and placed the chairs and Jenny had whipped the dishes out of the oven, and urged him to help himself.

She forced her mind back to realities. She was Eddie's wife, she was George Townsend and Jenny—well, if she really would take a salary as their housekeeper and put her back into the work, it would certainly solve a good many problems.

"Do you mind if I take my coat off?" Eddie was asking. "It's hot in here. And I've got into the way of it ever since Mrs. Bigger told me that it flustered her to see a man sitting with his coat on in the evening."

"Who on earth is Mrs. Bigger?" "My landlady. She has a shop." George pulled herself together. Oh, opposite that hotel where Jenny is staying?

"She's back here, now. She has the room you get ready for my dressing-room." He met her gaze suddenly. "If I hurt your feelings just now, when I spoke about your job with old Matching, I'm truly sorry, girl. I know, by what Jenny has told me, how you slaved to make this place ready for me. But you wouldn't think me anything of a fellow, if I were to take up my quarters in that pretty little room and just live on your bounty; you wouldn't, honestly?"

"George must give up her job, Eddie says tomorrow. She refuses—who will break the deadlock?"

fingers is in a large measure true of the position of the chest, the head, the shoulder blades, the feet, and other parts of the body.

Each position is the expression of a difference in the tensions applied to the skeletal system and opposing and antagonistic sets of muscles.

If the position is to be altered, it must be done through physical forces. Thus, one could alter the position of one's fingers in a state of relaxation by developing the extensor muscles.

The TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) THE TINYMITES were tickled pink. Said Happy Duncy, "Geo, to think that we are going to have a ride right in a big parade."

"We'll sit upon this wagon, high, and wave at folks as we pass by. Tonight we will be dreaming of the hit that we have made." Just then they heard a huge blow and Scouty shouted, "Here we go! The parade is starting from the grounds. Say! When do we fill in?"

"Don't worry," said a man, nearby. "Just sit real quiet, lads, and I will turn and wave my hand when it is your turn to begin."

AND so the Tines sat real still. It really was a wondrous thrill to see the sparkling horses pass, with wagons painted bright. Soon Scouty said, "Unless I'm wrong, this great parade is very long. If anyone stands up to see it all, they'll stand all night!"

"Oh, your imagination's strong," said Windy. "I am sure you're wrong. We'll only stretch a dozen blocks." A man then
