

Over The Valley Personals

To Pendleton—Smith-Hughes enthusiasts in this valley will be interested to know that George R. Dewey, who has been doing research work at Oregon State college, will teach Smith-Hughes agriculture, a new department, in the Pendleton High school, next year.

Members of the Alice Ladies Aid society will picnic tomorrow afternoon at Riverside park with the June committee in charge of the arrangements. The meeting is called for two o'clock.

Concludes Visit—Mrs. Annie Huff, who has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Hibberd, at Rhinehart, has returned to her home in La Grande.

Frank Martin and daughter, Mrs. George Conklin, of Imbler, visited with friends in Union last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ritchey have been residents of the valley for about a month now we learn. They have moved on to the acreage of his brother which is just southeast of La Grande out toward the Odd Fellows cemetery. It is a very attractive place and makes an ideal country home.

From the Enterprise Record-Chief-tain we read that Mr. and Mrs. Jay H. Dobbin will leave the last of the week for Seattle where their youngest daughter, Catherine, will graduate next week from the University of Washington. She will return with them and expects to spend the summer at home and will be on Snake river a while on the Dobbin ranches. Miss Dobbin expects to teach school.

In the Future Partners of America beef judging contest at the livestock show, Keith McKinnis, of near Summerville, was the high point man. The standing of the three highest teams in this event with their scores was as follows: Imbler—2,534.5; Wallawa—2,337.5; Enterprise—2,164.

To Give Exhibition—Friday evening at eight o'clock at the Island City Community church, an exhibition of the work being done at the Daily Vacation Bible school will be given. To this all the parents and friends are given an urgent invitation to attend. Some idea of the work of such a school may be gathered from the evening's program. Mrs. Clifford Blokland will add to the program by a group of piano numbers.

Mother Visits—Mrs. Grant Conley, of near Cove, has been having as her guest recently, her mother, whose home is at Endicott, Wash.

Mr. and Sam Knight and family, of Rhinehart, drove to Wallawa last week where they visited Mrs. Knight's son-in-law, John Turnbow, who is patient in the hospital there. We are told that the younger man was recently operated for perforated gastric ulcer and appendicitis and for a time his condition was regarded as being quite serious.

McIntosh Honored—The many friends of Prof. C. J. McIntosh of the industrial editing department at Oregon State college, widely known among newspaper folks of the state and that includes the rural correspondents of this paper, will be glad to know that he has been honored by having had the 1932 edition of the Beaver annual, yearbook of the Associated students, dedicated to him.

Thomas Collins, of Pumpkin Ridge, who was so painfully injured when a horse kicked him in the face, injuring one eye so badly that it had to be removed, is now making quite a steady improvement and infection which was feared at one time did not materialize.

A number of residents of this valley have driven up to the Flora neighborhood in Wallawa county today where the annual Flora picnic is being held. This is always a big event with the crowd running into the thousands, but it is entirely a social affair and not for any commercial purpose. The day was declared a holiday today in Enterprise where business houses were to have closed. Flora is located 35 miles north of Enterprise.

Mrs. Susan Williamson, of Cove avenue, has gone to Portland where she is making a visit among her relatives.

Announcement Engagement—Mrs. Olen Storie, Mrs. Bert Jerard and Mrs. Jack Mulligan entertained at a delightful tea yesterday afternoon to announce the engagement of Miss Ann Shell and Patrick E. Mahoney. Intimate friends of Miss Shell were guests.

Miss Shell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shell of Wallawa, is a charming girl and an exceptionally talented pianist. She has been active in the Woman's club, Delphian and Current Literature clubs of which she is a member. Her musical education was received in Eastern conservatories and also in Portland. Mr. Mahoney who is a graduate of St. Mary's college, New Jersey, is secretary of the board of control for the state of Washington and resides at Walla Walla. The wedding will be an event of this month.

The announcement tea was given in the lovely garden at the home of Mrs. Henry Dixon Jones and her daughter, Mrs. Storie. Summer flowers made a most attractive background. Vari-colored blooms and two quaint Dresden figures were used for the tea table where Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Ann Herrick poured. Assisting were Mrs. Mac Hoke, Mrs. Walter Holt, Mrs. Ruth Hinesgardner, Mrs. Brook Dickson, Mrs. Mary Johns and Miss Kate Stanfield, Helen Hoke and Lorna Marie Cook. Refreshments and presented the announcements.

Miss Shell left this morning for Wallawa where she will be honored this afternoon at a tea for which her mother, Mrs. Thomas Shell, and Mrs. Gregory will entertain. She will leave in a week for Portland to be the guest of Mrs. Thomas Garrick Burke. —Pendleton East Oregonian.

By Billie Johnson (Observer Correspondent) ENTERPRISE (Special)—Earl Canton, accompanied by his daughter Jean, Guy Skaggs and Fred Beckler, drove to Portland Saturday. Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Wallis drove to Walla Walla Monday to attend the commencement exercises at Whitman college. They will bring their son, Wilson, who is a junior at Whit-shugged George. "He would only tell you his side of the business, of course. Not that—"

Jenny went to her and took away the cigarette she was trying to light. "I want you to tell me something," she said. "Not about you or Eddie at all."

"May I tell Garth Aveney that it was you and not I who married Eddie on Saturday?" Under her detaining hands, she felt George start and quiver. "Jenny, of course you mayn't! What possesses you? Why, I should lose my job there and then! Haven't you been told at Rochester Gate that the Old Man is putting him in full charge? Whatever Aveney might want to do, he wouldn't have any choice—he'd have to fire me."

"But I think I must tell him," persisted Jenny. George frowned herself free. "After all I've done for you? Jenny, you simply—you simply can't take my job away from me, Jenny, when it has kept you from starving, and clothed you, and sheltered you? Why, the very frock you've got on—"

"Oh!" cried Jenny, her hands pressed flat against her ears. "Oh, don't! Don't say it, George, it has such an ugly sound!"

For the second time that evening they stared at each other like enemies. There was a bewildered sadness in Jenny's heart and—perhaps—its echo in George's. For presently her face twisted up into a trembling smile.

"Something that isn't me is using my mind and my tongue tonight and it's something I loathe as much as you do," she muttered. "I don't mean anything I say and I'd like to take back everything I do. I suppose for once in my life I'm tired right out."

"Yes, you're tired," agreed Jenny, all eagerness to forgive. "It was silly of me to start a discussion like this tonight. Selfish. Don't let's go out, darling, let's—let's—"

George said it for her. "Let's have a cosy evening together, as we used to do. I'll brew some hot chocolate and we'll drink it in our pajamas on my bed." Lightly, she caressed Jenny's cheek. "No, on second thoughts, you'll make the chocolate. You've elected yourself housekeeper, I hear."

"Do you mind? Eddie—that is, I thought—"

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser

You Can't Marry

by Julia Cleft-Adams SYNOPSIS: "I'm going away for a year," Eddie Townsend tells his wife, George. She insists upon keeping her position although she must pretend she is not married, and that her cousin Jenny is Mrs. Townsend. Jenny makes friends with Gratton Matching, George's eccentric old employer.

Chapter 32

"BECAUSE—" Eddie's voice was gruff as he answered Jenny's question—"she only wants what she wants." "But I expect she is thinking just that of you," ventured Jenny. "And I'm much the same, Eddie—everybody wants their own kind of happiness, really. Oh, I can't bear you and George to be unhappy!" She looked up at him, troubled by the trouble in his eyes. To her surprise he stooped and kissed her. "Good kid!" he said. "You didn't mind my doing that, did you? I sometimes wish—" He checked himself, grinned and for the second time ordered her to run home. "You look like an ornament of a Christmas tree in that silver frock. Pretty enough to make anyone want to kiss you."

"You can't take my job away from me, Jenny, when it has kept you from starving."

through the heavy shadows by between the street-lights, her pale skirts gathered out of the dust and the jade and silver of shawl and shoes gleaming and dulling by turns, she knew that men's heads turned to watch her go. Even Old Gratton Matching had said it—"A pretty thing in all that silver."

"And in Garth Aveney's eyes she had seen that she was lovely, even though for her loveliness he had nothing but a sneer. She forgot Eddie and the wonder why he should be going back to Mrs. Higgin's alone and with such troubled eyes. Tomorrow she would think about him again and if he and George would let her, she would go on curing him. She felt absolutely certain that she would cure him, in the end. But tonight she must speak to George and George must answer her—and for once they would be talking about Jenny Revelt, a grown and lovely woman, and not George's pretty doll."

"She passed Gill in the doorway almost without seeing him, and she arrived at the door of the apartment without any recollection of climbing the stairs. It was like going up in a dream. And the quiet of the apartment was dream-like too. "Here!"

Jenny quietly turned the set off. "I think you're afraid, George," she said. She had not meant to say it, but she would stand by it. "You're afraid of being alone because you've sent Eddie away."

THE TINNITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING. Illustration of a man playing a saxophone and a woman playing a piano.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) THE cop who'd scared wee Cobby said, "Just follow me and you'll be lead into the tent where all the clowns put on their funny clothes."

ALL of a sudden Scouty cried, "I hear some music right outside." The other Tinnies followed him as he ran from the tent. A group of seals was practicing and one of them was trying to sing. "Come, hear them lads," exclaimed a very kindly looking gent.

THEY scampered 'cross the circus ground to reach the tent. Inside they found a lot of very funny things that made the Tinnies roar. Two clowns were dressing like a horse and they looked mighty strange, of course. They shortly got all twisted up and toppled to the door.

Another clown put paint in place, until he had a monkey face. And then he donned a monkey suit which had a real long tail. Said he, "In just a little while I'll make the circus audience smile. My act is such a good one that I seldom ever fail."

"Oh, let me lead your fine seal band," said Scouty. "My! That would be grand!" "All right," replied the trainer. "You can try it, if you wish."
