Above the Atmosphere

The stratosphere is the upper portion of the atmosphere above 11 kilometers, more or less, depending on latitude, season and weather, in which temperature changes but little with altitude and clouds of water never form, and in which there is practically no convection or distribution of the atmospheric equilibrium causing winds. It is often called the isothermal region; that is, region of equal temperature.

Toads Oddly Hatched

The eggs of the sarranin toad, of Dutch Guiana, are picked up by the male, one by one, as soon as they are laid, and imbedded in the skin of the back of the female. Here they remain for 75 to 85 days, at the end of which time they are hatched and come forth from their mother's back not in the polygynous stage but fully grown toads. From 60 to 70 young toads may be hatched in this way at one time.

Famous Old Vessel

According to Joshua Humphreys statement in regard to the Constitution, the frame of the vessel was made from live oak and red cedar; the keel of white oak; the decks of Carolina pitch pine. This wood was procured from Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C. Joshua Humphreys was the designer of this ship.

Cost of Carelessness

The Post Office department expends about $2,000,000 annually on the postal directory service, whose business it is to search city directories and other authorities in order to correct and complete improperly addressed mail.

Plumber Joins World-Wide

The jobs about the plumber going back for his tools is world-wide, according to a recent investigation in Europe. It persists in all European countries heard from, and has been traced to other lands. A correspondent in Palestine has just reported that native plumbers there follow the back-to-the-shop custom.

Minerals for Diet

The most important mineral substances required in food are the salts of iron, iodine, phosphorus, calcium (lime), manganese, potash and soda.

Danger From Bottles

It has been pointed out that bottles left in the woods by picnic parties, may start forest fires if the sun's rays are concentrated by the curved glass.

The Advertisements

... printed for your convenience

Suppose all the advertisers in your favorite newspaper should stop advertising for a week.

What inconvenience would result! How much telephoning and shopping around to get the answers to such questions as: "What's playing at the downtown theaters? When will that new vacuum cleaner be on sale? Who is offering shoe bargains? Where can I buy that dry shampoo Emily told me about?"

The answers to these questions, and to hundreds of similar ones that people ask every day, are news. Vital news. You're interested to learn who won yesterday's ball game. But you're really interested to learn that a certain store is selling a product you need for a price you can afford to pay.

Furthermore, the advertisements save your time, for you can read them quickly. They save your energy, for you can read them at home, away from the pushing crowds, and plan just what to buy and where to buy. And they save your money, by enabling you to adjust your needs to the limitations of your budget. In short, they are pocketbook editorials, condensing and interpreting for you the merchandise news of the day.
