

Golf Aces Flock To Rose City Meet

WESTERN CHAMPS TEE OFF FOR TITLE

Frank Dolp, Mrs. Potter Back To Hold Places in 34th Annual.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27 (AP)—The Pacific Northwest Golf association was scheduled to open its 34th annual championship tournament here this morning when golfing aces from the three Pacific Coast states and from British Columbia were to pair off for the qualifying rounds on two courses, the Alderwood and Columbia country clubs.

Fifty-six women players and 86 men have already been paired, and with the entry list held open until early this morning for late comers, officials anticipated a total of 150 contestants.

The present Pacific Northwest champions, Mrs. Brent Potter, of Palo Alto, and Frank Dolp, of Portland, will find an unusually strong field from outside of Oregon attempting to wrest their crowns from them, including virtually every title holder of consequence in British Columbia and Washington.

Two threats from across the border are Stan Leonard, British Columbia's champion, and Mrs. Vera Hutchings, present women's title holder and several times ex-Pacific Northwest champion.

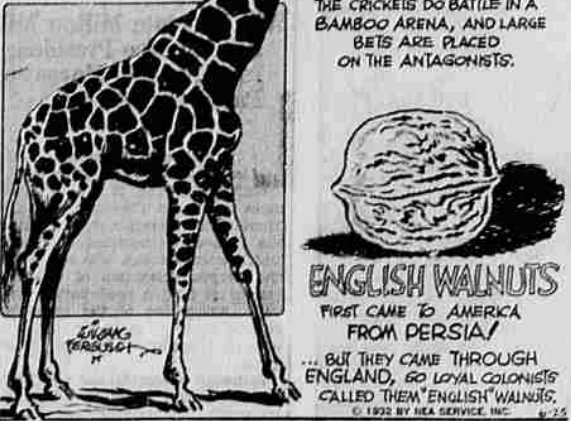

Washington state's champions, Johnny Shields, of Seattle, and Mrs. Guy Riegel, of Spokane, are entered, and Seattle's two city champions, Mrs. W. A. Kirman and Harry Given, are here to try for larger crowns.

In the qualifying rounds this morning Dolp was paired with Johnny Shields and Mrs. Potter was paired with Mrs. Martin Hunter, of Portland.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

A GIRAFFE'S FRONT LEGS ARE NO LONGER THAN ITS HIND ONES.

EARLY WRITERS almost invariably described the giraffe as having forelegs of considerably greater length than the hind ones, and today it is no wonder that this impression is still quite common. The greater height of the animal's foreparts is due to the peculiar formation of the vertebrae, which causes a hump on the shoulders. Qazwini, Arabic author of the 13th century, wrote, "As Allah knew that the giraffe would derive its sustenance from trees, He created its forelegs longer than its hind ones, to enable it to graze on them easily."

Pirates Command Hot Contest In National Circuit

By Herbert W. Barker (Associated Press Sports Writer). Quietly and unobtrusively, George Gibson's Pittsburgh Pirates have moved into temporary command of the hottest fight in the National League has ever known.

Winning both ends of a double-header 5 to 0 and 9 to 5 from the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, the Pirates snatched first place by three percentage points from the Chicago Cubs.

Jimmie Reese's pinch double in the ninth drove in two runs and enabled the Cardinals to trip the Cubs, 4 to 3, in the first game of a double bill. Charley Root outpitched Eazy Dean in the nightcap and the Cubs won, also by a 4-3 count.

In the American league, the New York Yankees protected their eight and one-half game lead by beating Philadelphia Athletics again, 6-3, touching Rube Wadberg for four runs in the first inning. The Athletics fell back into fourth place behind the Washington Senators who tripped the Boston Red Sox, 8-4.

Blanked by Milt Gaston for seven innings, the Detroit Tigers took advantage of three errors and two walks after two were out in the eighth to score five runs and down the Chicago White Sox, 5-1. Wes Ferrell won his 13th game as the Cleveland Indians stopped the St. Louis Browns, 10-6, in the first game of a double-header but the Browns came back to win the second battle, 6-5. Earl Averill clouted his 13th homer in the seventh inning.

Life's Just One Thing After Another For Jerome (Dizzy) Dean

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Life in organized baseball has always been more or less complicated for Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean.

The eccentric young hurler, who quit the world champion Cardinals last in Philadelphia, announcing he would "never throw another ball for that outfit" ran into trouble long before he reached the majors.

While with St. Joseph, in the Western league he tangled with opposing players who, knowing his weakness for fist fights, taunted him from the bench until they succeeded in getting him ousted from the game.

In the Texas league, his next stop, he came off second best in an encounter with his manager, Joe Schultz of the Houston club. It was an invitation affair back of the grandstand, to which Dizzy was hidden when he failed to realize that Schultz was running the team.

After he joined the Cards for a game or two late in the 1930 season, Dizzy ran up charge accounts—including one for several hundred dollars from an auto renting concern—which kept the business office in hot water.

To curb Dean's naive passion for doing anything that came into his head or buying anything he saw, he was given a "winter manager" in the person of Oliver French, official of the St. Joseph club.

French personally supervised Dizzy's daily routine that winter, and next spring Dean reported for duty without incurring too large a deficit. Because of veteran strength on the pitching staff, he was sent back to Houston, where he proved a sensation.

Last winter, lacking a chaperon, Dizzy accumulated some $4,000 in debts which the Cardinal front office settled, arranging to deduct the amount from the pitcher's reported 1932 salary of $7,000.

The further arrangement was made that Dean's wages should be paid to him in semi-monthly installments throughout the year, instead of during the playing season only, as was the practice.

It is the theory that since Dizzy was known to spend everything he received as fast as he got it, he might otherwise starve to death during the off season.

While Manager Gubby Street and Dean have never come to blows, so far as known, Street's habit of requiring his men to do as they are told has caused young Dizzy acute pain and distress.

A year ago he was about to quit spring training quarters at Bracerton, Fla., because of harsh words the old sergeant pointed in his direction for failure to report for drill.

Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, succeeded in saving Dizzy's lacerated feelings, but got nowhere with a suggestion to Street that the latter use softer language.

charged to the Republican party since 1920. He did so into the prohibition question rather deeply, however, and urged that the convention recommend the passage by congress of a resolution submitting a repeal of the 18th amendment for ratification by the people through state conventions whose delegates shall be chosen upon this issue alone.

"If the people are to pass upon this question," he declared, "let them pass upon it in such plain, naked and unequivocal terms as to make their decision intelligent and certain."

Stock Crash Laid to Leaders. The history of the stock market "boom" was recounted and blame for the collapse was placed upon the leaders at the helm of the nation.

Barley said expenses of the national government had increased under President Coolidge "more than $650,000,000." He gave credit to the present Democratic house for reducing President Hoover's requests for appropriations "by more than $100,000,000."

Farm Loans Suggested. He bespoke enactment of laws setting up co-operative agencies through which the farmer may work out his own problems over a period of years, along with a recommendation to take the government out of "the dubious adventure of speculation" in farm products, and installation at the head of the department of agriculture of a secretary who has "some knowledge of the subject and some sympathy for those who struggle with it."

Tariff Plan Held. He promised that the Democrats would "abolish every useless office, every unnecessary bureau and commission" and proposed that the Democrats solve the tariff problem by inaugurating friendly international conferences with a view of re-opening normal trade channels in the world and make the tariff commission a fact-finding body for congress.

To strengthen the banking structure he urged giving consideration to revising the federal reserve act to insure more direct contact with commercial banks and borrowers.

G. O. P. Reiter Railed. He ridiculed "fine spun" distinctions between local and national responsibility on unemployment and deplored "sophomoric dispute over the identity of first aid" while the nation's "defenders and their dependents suffer from want and neglect."

The keynoter advocated consideration of the five-day week or the six-hour day as a possible solution of employment problems growing out of the world and national advances and, concluding, declared:

"In all the generations of American history the people in every great crisis have turned to the Democratic party to lead them from the wilderness of disappointment and disaster."

Arkansas Is Threat At Olympic Tryouts

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas will send a "dark horse" entry to the semi-final Olympic tryouts in the 400 meter hurdles at Chicago, July 1 and 2.

He is Arthur "Bill" Burch, student at Arkansas Polytechnic Institute who covered the distance in 53.7 seconds at the mid-south tryouts at Memphis.

Burch duplicated that performance at Norman, Okla., a few days later when he paced McGuire, Oklahoma A. & M. athlete to the tape. His time was better than that of Hender son of Alabama, leader of the Southern conference tryouts at New Orleans.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City may have a "navy" as a result of the flood which recently claimed 10 lives.

Organization of a fire department motorboat squadron for emergency rescue work has been proposed to the city manager by Fire Chief George Goff.

If the plan is approved the members, clad in swimming suits, will drill weekly.

PROMISE PERSONALS

By Mrs. Bertha Carper (Observer Correspondent). PROMISE (Special)—Lillian Carper and Maxine Bethel returned Thursday from Eden where they had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carper several days.

Mrs. C. T. Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindsay and three boys, Norman, Dale and Donald, of La Grande came in Sunday. Mrs. Frank Lindsay and children remained with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Carper. Mrs. C. T. Lindsay and Frank returned to La Grande Sunday evening. Tuesday, Frank returned with John Waldron and a truck load of his household goods as he and his family expect to live this summer on the Jay Hamilton place now belonging to C. P. Carper.

Glenn Hasecock of Wallowa came in Monday bringing his grandfather, Will Swearingen to the home of David Garrett. His mother also accompanied him and spent the day with Mrs. Hazel Garrett. Glen came on down to Mr. Garrett's and he and Alvin went fishing. Mr. Swearingen remained at Garrett's for an indefinite period.

Lowell Fortberg and Lester Sannar of Enterprise came in Saturday and visited friends here until Tuesday. Melvin Carper returned home with the boys to Enterprise where he will visit a few days.

Obe Swearingen went to Wallowa Friday and brought in a truck of household goods for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bethel, who are staying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snuffer until they can find a place.

Ralph Carper is visiting friends at Palmer Junction. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carper and daughter, Loreta, are visiting Mrs. Carper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Burnett at Palmer Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. Ula Poulson and her mother came in from Enterprise Sunday and visited with Mrs. Alice Smith. Glen and Kathleen Poulson who had been staying with their grandmother for several weeks returned home with their parents that evening.

Henry Snuffer had the misfortune to have one of his good horses badly cut on barbed wire Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Carper, Lewis and Luella went to Harve Bursell's on West Grossman Friday. They went as far as the Snuffer place with wagon and team then they saddled the horses and crossed the canyon horseback. They brought 60 day-old chicks and some hens home with them. There is a good trail all the way. Mr. Bursell has a nice place and an abundance of water so he does considerable irrigating.

The Promise bill team met the Wallowa team at Maxville Sunday and at the end of an interesting game the score stood 8-5 in favor of Wallowa. The Wallowa boys were short cut man so Lester Sannar, of Enterprise, played with them.

Bill Nichols, Hinkle and Sturgeon drove in 1200 head of sheep from Pilot Rock, Oregon to Charles Johnson and are camped on the old John Sannar place.

Joe Carper, son of W. A. Carper, has been ill of smallpox but is recovering.
