Proper Waves To Use In Television Not Yet Decided

By C. E. Butterfield (Associated Press Radio Editor)

NEW YORK (AP)—The division of opinion over what section of the wave spectrum is to be the locale for permanent television continues.

Some think that the allotted spaces between 100 and 200 meters are just the thing, while others speak as strongly for the waves under ten meters.

One argument for the higher of the short waves is the demonstrated fact that these channels are ideal for distance transmission of 100 miles or more. The other side admits this condition, but comes back with the contention that these waves tend to skip over local areas, giving poor reception results.

The tiny waves, around seven meters, are the ones that can be depended upon, they say, to deliver a good signal to this local area. But tests have demonstrated that around 60 miles is the maximum distance that can be obtained at present.

To Seattle—Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Halston left today for Seattle where he will attend the Pacific coast convention of eye, ear, nose and throat specialists. They will return July 4.

With Mrs. Ivanhoe—Fred Eyer, brother-in-law of Mrs. F. S. Ivanhoe, and Eugene Cunningham, her nephew, arrived last night from Golden, Colo., and will spend the coming week with Mrs. Ivanhoe who is seriously ill at her home. Mrs. Eyer and Mrs. Julia Cunningham, sisters of Mrs. Ivanhoe, have been here for some time, and the former will return to Golden with the newly arrived visitors. Mrs. Cunningham will remain here.

Leaves—Miss Pauline Pieper, who is a student at the Greenwood school, left this morning to spend the remainder of the summer with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Griffin, in Hoquiam, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin have been in La Grande for the past three weeks visiting with relatives, and will return to their home, accompanied by Miss Pieper, via the Columbia river highway.

Al Smith Takes A Drink

Commoner's Son To Watch Show

Here's William Jennings Bryan Jr., of Los Angeles, Cal. son of "the Great Commoner," in Chicago to attend the national convention of the Democratic party which honored his father with the presidential nomination in 1896, 1900 and 1908.

Later Kremer who is supporting the special rule calling for abandonment of the two-thirds requirement if six ballots fail to nominate, returned to the committee room where the minority members were assembled and announced a special meeting of the committee would be held on the convention floor later.

"This new meeting will be held," explained Kremer, "with a view to getting a report acceptable to the minority."

Leaders of the minority, headed by Daniel F. Cohalen, of New York, hailed the move as a "complete surrender."

The anti-Rooseveltians had agreed earlier to take to the convention floor a report calling for adoption of a resolution frowning upon use of the rule at future conventions.

CHICAGO, June 28 (AP)—Anti-Roosevelt members of the rules committee decided at a conference today to present to the convention a minority report recommending retention of the two-thirds rule for the present convention, but consideration of a change in that rule by the party for future conventions.

ALBANY, June 28 (AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt said today he had had no part whatever in the adoption by the rules committee of the Democratic national convention in Chicago last night of a resolution that would do away with the two-thirds nomination rule after the sixth ballot.

The governor said he had not yet received word from Chicago of the committee's decision.

"I've only read about it in the newspapers," he said as he arrived at his office in the capitol shortly after 11 o'clock. "I haven't talked to Chicago yet—I imagine they're still sleeping."

"I had absolutely no hand in the formulation of that rule," he added. "I thought Jim Farley gave out a statement on that in Chicago last night. The last I heard from Jim he was going to."

No direct reference was made at this morning's press conference to the telegram Roosevelt sent Farley yesterday directing that the fight against the two-thirds rule be dropped.

In the telegram he sent to Farley was the sentence: "I trust, however, that the committee on rules may recommend some rule to insure against the catastrophe of a deadlock or prolonged balloting."

Governor Roosevelt planned to spend the day in his office attending to state matters. Beside his desk is a radio set, over which yesterday he listened to Senator Alben W. Barkley's keynote speech as he dictated the telegram for Farley.

tion to limit the time allotted to any delegate to 30 minutes.

CHICAGO, June 28 (AP)—Roosevelt leaders called off all proposals for any change in the two-thirds nominating rule today as the report from the rules committee impended.

A new meeting of the rules committee was ordered by Chairman Kremer after James A. Farley, spokesman for Governor Roosevelt of New York, made a surprise appearance before the committee this morning and announced he favored retention of the two-thirds rule throughout the convention.

Committee Confers—The majority of the committee which last night voted for a special rule permitting abrogation of the two-thirds precedent by a majority after six ballots, withdrew from the committee and went into conference.

Jean Plans Surprise Wedding

Even Jean Harlow was surprised she admitted, when she appeared with Paul Bern, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive, to secure a wedding license in Los Angeles. The platinum blond film star, who recently turned her tresses to copper, has been married before and registered as Harlen Carpenter McGraw, 21. Bern, a bachelor, is 42. They will wed soon.

Sport Finals

DOLP GETS SEVERE SETBACK

PORTLAND, Ore., June 28 (AP)—Difficulty in sinking his putts in critical moments gave Frank Dolp, defending champion, a severe setback in the first half of today's elimination round in the Pacific Northwest Golf association's tournament here.

Playing against Eddie Hogan, of the Multnomah county club, Dolp ended the first 18 holes 5 down. On the same course which he toured yesterday in the qualifying round in 60, he needed 75 today. Hogan went around in 70.

Stanley Leonard, of Vancouver, B. C., finished the morning round 3 up on James Bushong, of Portland. J. H. Crowell, Portland, was 9 up on A. A. Kaufman, of Portland. Johnny Shields of Seattle was 5 up on Ralph Whaley, Seattle, at the lunch hour and Johnny Robbins was 3 up on R. B. Watson, Portland.

Other standings at the half-way mark: Lief Jacobson, of Peninsula, 3 up on Dick Munson, Seattle. Jack Paulson, Alderwood, two up on C. W. Hamilton, Hood River. Joe Brown, Portland, 1 up on Dick Hedges, Broadmoor. H. Chandler Egan, Medford, 2 up on Malcolm MacNaughton, Lake Oswego.

H. H. Hellman, of Los Angeles, 4 up on Bob Enloe, Alderwood. Dr. O. F. Wiling, Waverly, 8 up on L. S. Besson, Multnomah. A. Campbell, Seattle, 1 up on Arlo Kyle, Peninsula. Harry Given, Seattle, and Ken Storey, Spokane, square.

George Mead, Peninsula, 4 up on Doug Nicol, Portland. Dr. Cliff Baker, of Kalama, 2 up on John Boyd, Hood River. Johnny Robbins, Portland, 7 up on R. B. Watson, Portland. Miss Anne Stange, of La Grande, is paired today with Mrs. A. A. Kaufman, of Portland, who shot 92 in the qualifying round.

Roosevelt Wins First Vote Tests

along toward the election of the Roosevelt-backed Senator Walsh of Montana, as permanent convention chairman.

Louisiana Victory Cheered—As cheers, boos, and torrents of debate roared across the convention floor, and Roosevelt scouts scurried everywhere, the Louisiana contest was pressed to victory with almost the solid support of the New York convention majority, plus a few who broke over from the opposition ranks of the favorite sons.

With whatever effect it may have eventually on his bid for the presidential nomination, the run of the tide appeared rather impressive too, toward the selection of Senator Walsh over Jettie Shouse of Kansas, the choice of the opposition.

The roll call on the Louisiana contest developed several angry arguments, particularly in the delegations from Iowa and the District of Columbia. When Pennsylvania finally tipped the balancing scales with the needed votes, Senator Long jumped to his feet on his chair and waved the Louisiana state standard high at the center of a near-riotous celebration.

Long Shouts—"This is a Roosevelt test," said Long, "this means Walsh's election and Roosevelt's nomination. Roosevelt will get at least 50 more than we did."

Immediately behind the Louisiana contest came one from Minnesota and then the battle over the chairman-ship.

Iowa cast a split vote and a delegate shouted "what about the unit rule?"

The delegates then became engaged in a squabble over whether they were required to vote under the unit rule and the vote was passed until they could attempt to reach an agreement.

The Iowa delegates got so warmed up that guards rushing to their sector as delegates began waving arms, shaking fists and yelling to each other.

To a question the chairman announced the Iowa vote had not been recorded.

"And how," he yelled to the laughter of the crowd.

The Iowa chairman then announced they stood 13 aye and 12 1/2 nay but that under the unit rule they had to vote 35 aye.

When the Iowa disturbance started Long's delegates were within 17 votes of a majority of the vote.

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 28 (AP)—Bewildered by a night of somersaulting developments, and wholly uncertain what might happen next, the Democrats reassembled here today to loiter through a couple of credentials contests while their real issues waited outside the wings.

Louisiana's turbulent factions, and a Roosevelt-Smith contest from Minnesota claimed the floor with appeals to the party's highest court—the convention itself.

The important question of the selection of a permanent chairman was to come up later. The candidates were Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, backed by the supporters of Roosevelt, and Jettie Shouse of Kansas, choice of the opposition.

It appeared likely the much-heralded battle over two-thirds nominating rule would not be staged after all. Just before the noon convening hour the Roosevelt camp, after modifying its previous demand for abrogation of the rule, withdrew it entirely.

There was much talk of a compromise candidate as the delegates, weary from conferences lasting most of the night, assembled slowly in the convention hall. Ritchie of Maryland, was mentioned and the name of Newton D. Baker was heard in many delegations.

The convention was even slower than at yesterday's opening session in getting itself together. The hour of noon saw only a fraction of the delegations in their places, and the galleries almost empty. Not a single convention official had appeared on the platform.

The organ kept its concert of popular melodies going incessantly, but that was about all that was stirring in the big hall.

The Roosevelt men were working like beavers to rally their forces, and reports from some of the Southern caucuses indicated progress.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi reported to Raskob that Mississippi would go down the line for Senator Walsh, the Roosevelt candidate. The Alabama delegation said they would do the same.

One of the first celebrities to arrive was Senator Huey Long, whose Louisiana delegation had won a rough and tumble battle in the credentials committee, but still faced a challenge on the floor.

A hypothetical question which took 57 minutes to propound was asked a witness in a valuation proceedings in a superior court in San Francisco.

Lil Dagover Has American Debut In Liberty Show

(A Review)

Lil Dagover, the lovely lady from over-seas, who is said to be so unlike all the other lovely ladies who come from Europe made her debut in La Grande this afternoon at the Liberty theatre in a motion picture by the intriguing name of "The Woman From Monte Carlo." As the continental charmer she scores a hit with her audience, and is, by turns, wistful, gay, tantalizing, tragic and child-like, and gives a realistic turn to a somewhat melodramatic picture.

Melodrama with a dash of naughtiness is "The Woman of Monte Carlo," and we advise the audience to go, not to be uplifted by the beauty of the plot, but to be entertained by the slightly risque situations and thrilled by the allure of the leading lady and the appeal of the long, lithe Warren William who plays the role of the tempter.

Miss Dagover portrays Lottie Corliss, and has two leading men who assume equal importance in their roles of husband, played by Walter Huston, and lover, carried by Warren William.

Mr. William portrays the dashing Lieutenant D'Ortelles, who tries to fulfill the duties which the beautiful Lottie's battle cruiser commander husband neglects.

Miss Dagover makes her initial appearance in the United States in "The Woman From Monte Carlo" and has been heralded throughout the land for her fine acting, her unusual type of beauty and her ability to wear beautiful clothes without looking like a "clothes horse."

The motion picture in which Miss Dagover makes her initial American appearance is enjoying a two day run at the Liberty on Tuesday and Wednesday.
