Quilt Block Contest Suggested As Unique Summer Diversion For Girls; Competition Opens

A diversion for the girls who are beginning to tire of the vacation and long for the activities of the school room again, has been suggested by Miss Gertrude Wagener, children's librarian at the public library. A quilt block contest is the solution the school girl's ennuis, and they are urged to present their pieces at the library. The young patrons of the library will be divided into two groups, six to 10 years and 11 to 15 years and the prize will be given in each of the two groups, the awards having been donated by Mrs. H. J. Ritter and the Hewesite Camp Fire group.

Each contestant will be registered at the library and numbered to facilitate judging and enable the judges to give a fair decision, since they will not know who made the blocks. They must be of cotton materials, either plain or printed and not smaller than a 9-inch square. Each contestant must design her own pattern or accept suggestions from the library or elsewhere, and only one block will be allotted for each girl, who will do the cutting and sewing herself, Miss Wagener says.

All blocks must be at the library no later than July 22 when they will be judged on general appearance, color blending and harmony, workmanship and adherence to rules.

PARIS DEMANDS BRIMS ON HATS; USE ALL WIDTHS

By Diana Merwin
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
PARIS (AP)—Wear a brim for smartness! is the summer edict for chapeau chic.

In contrast to last season when berets were the rule, brims varying all the way from an inch to a foot in width are now seen wherever smart women gather. Straws have remained their popularity, with finer weaves preferred to coarse ones.

Black, white, brown, blue, green and red straw saliors trimmed with nothing more than a ribbon band and cockade are seen more often than any other chapeau. They are a far cry from the old-fashioned round sailor, however, for they dip in an unexpected angle and are worn at an exaggerated tilt on one side of the head.

Brims as wide as their mothers wore in the gay nineties are displayed by many Parisians at formal afternoon affairs. Huge black milans with faulle crowns in white or pastel shades, and natural colored leghorns with flower trims lend a sophisticated air to tea costumes.

For theatre and dancing wear where brims are out of the question the turban has replaced last year's beret. Little closefitting turbans of shaded satin ribbon in shimmering hues of blue, green and rose are draped in openwork design to reveal the wave of the coiffure.

Scarfs of striped jersey are wound about the head and finished in a high point at the left back and little jewel tinted velvet skull caps are designed to match the evening wraps with which they are worn.

White turbans and saliors are favorite chapeaus with black or dark blue cloths. They are always worn with white gauntlet gloves.

Auto Accidents Are Less, Annual Report Indicates

A summary of mortality from automobile accidents, compiled from death statistics in 86 large cities in the United States by the Department of Commerce show that during the four week period ending June 11, 1932 there were 548 deaths from automobile accidents, as compared with 648 during the same length of time, ending June 13, 1931. Most of the deaths were the result of accidents which occurred within the corporate limits of the city, they add.

The Department of Commerce has divided the total number of deaths into periods of four weeks and find that the lowest total, 472, was found in the four weeks ending on Feb. 23, while the highest for a four week period was 876 and included the period ending January 23, 1932. For the 52 weeks periods ending July 11, 1932 and June 13, 1931, respectively, the total for all the cities were respectively 8,788 and 9,085, which indicate a recent rate of 24.3 per 100,000 population as against an earlier rate of 25.9 or a decrease of six per cent in the rate during the year.
