Weston-Langdon Lake Road Work Now Under Way

Construction Begins With 74 Men at Work—42 Curves Eliminated in Planning New Highway

Construction of the Weston-Elgin road, which will shorten the distance between Walla Walla and La Grande by about 40 miles and open up a beautiful scenic section, has begun with 74 men, 52 horses and two caterpillars at work on the Umatilla county section of the road, according to work received here from Pendleton. W. E. O. Criger, Umatilla county engineer, predicts that the job will be finished by Oct. 15, providing an improved road from Weston to Langdon Lake, at Toll Gate.

The upper section of the highway, extending to a connection with the forest highway, is being surveyed, cleared and built almost simultaneously. The men in the clearing crew are rotated so as to provide employment for as many men as possible but the men with the caterpillars and horses are employed permanently. At present a crew of eight men is at work on the one bridge to be constructed on the new road, a wooden span.

Mr. Criger is enthusiastic over the location of the upper section of the new road, he states. The present dirt road leading to the forest highway
