Erratic Market During Weekend Session

CHERRY PRICES HIT BOTTOM IN PORTLAND TRADE

Cube Butter Market More Or Less Steady; Country Butterfat Values Show Greatest Spread.

PORTLAND, July 2 (AP) — It was an erratic market during the weekend session of the Portland produce exchange. Cube butter market was inclined to show more or less steadiness but in spots the trade appeared weaker to firmer. There appeared an especially good call for prime first which were up ½c lb. while for firsts the market was easier and a similar price loss was shown.

While there was no change in the price of butterfat for the day, rather erratic quotations are continued with country values showing the greatest spread. There is still a lack of general change in the price on eggs in the established market. Both the coops and the private firms are generally maintaining values although some outside distributors are reported shading to the big stores.

There is a very good call for live chickens in the local trade with prices generally well maintained. Broilers are especially firm at the price quoted. Ducks are just about holding with an absence of Chinese from the city.

Only fractional declines have lately been forced in the already low price on lambs despite the very liberal increase of offerings of country killed stock. Hogs are considered steady while veal are firmly priced for tops.

Cherry Prices Drop

Prices are hitting the extreme bottom in the cherry market, sales being made scarcely more than picking charges even for fancy fruit. Both Royal Annes and Bings are included.

Call for old crop potatoes continues surprisingly liberal for the late season and prices are maintained. Steady values are also shown for new stock but some indications of early weakness in the latter.

There are increasing supplies of green corn from Upper Columbia points, which have affected the price list. Sales are being made down to 25@40c dozen according to quality.

Week Encouraging In Wool Markets

CORVALLIS, Ore., July 2 (AP) — An encouraging week in the wool markets, in contrast to conditions in April and May, was reported in today's market review prepared from wire reports to the O. S. C. extension service co-operating with U. S. D. A. bureau of agricultural economics. Increased confidence was shown among members of the trade as wool moved more freely than for some time and a larger number of manufacturers participated in the buying.

Volume of business actually closed was very moderate, compared with a normally active market. Yet some members of the trade felt that a trading basis on the active lines of wool was becoming fairly well established.

Foreign reports show a record clip in prospect in Australia for the 1932-33 season with an estimated production of 994 million pounds, compared with a previous high mark of 968 million pounds.

Coast Butter Is Highest In Nation

CORVALLIS, Ore., July 2 (AP) — Northwest butter prices have remained unchanged since the first of June but wholesale prices at San Francisco advanced half a cent during the past week to close with 92 score at 18 cents, says the weekly review issued today by the O. S. C. extension service and the U. S. D. A. bureau of agricultural economics.

Pacific coast butter prices continued the highest in the country. Storage holdings on the coast are heavy and total stocks are now a million pounds above last year. Price differences make it unlikely that surplus stocks can be moved to other sections.

Butter production in all parts of the country continues to decline, although the rate is comparatively slow.

The cheese market remained virtually unchanged. San Francisco wholesale quotations continued at 10 cents.

Kellogg Company Is Showing Faith

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (Special)—July 2—The W. K. Kellogg company, of Battle Creek, is giving a practical demonstration of its faith in the future of this country by announcing an increase of one million dollars in its advertising appropriation for next year. The appropriation for the past year was the largest in the company's history, and continuously successful business was the result.

Mr. Kellogg, returning recently from California to Battle Creek, said "We are making necessary preparations in our plants to care for the largest volume of business in more than a quarter century of existence." He indicated that the company would follow its previously successful practice of concentrating the bulk of its advertising appropriation in the newspaper field.

Cattle 1,000; compared week ago: fed steers and yearlings 25@50 cents higher, grassy and short fed steers about steady; bulls 10@15c lower; vealers $1.00 lower; grain fed steers top $8.50, new high for season; stockers $3.50@$5.00.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, July 2 (AP) — Business in the wool market during the past week has shown further broadening tendency. Much of the interest of consumers of wool was simply to ascertain the condition of the market and to test values, but a slight increase in the volume of sales, indicated a tendency of actual needs to expand. Strengthening faith in currently quoted values on a number of lines of domestic wools was manifest by bids on fairly large quantities only slightly under quotations, and the refusal of the bulk of offers by holders.

Alabama Settlement

DeSoto and the Spanish came to the territory of Alabama in 1540; remnants of this expedition retired to Mexico, and no more white men visited the land, which was occupied by the Alibamo Indians, until 1682, when LaSalle and the French took formal possession of it.

Mrs. Brown Here Explaining Girls' Scholarship Plan

Mrs. Elmer Brown, representing the Woman's Albany College League, is visiting various points in Eastern Oregon this week, making her headquarters in La Grande, and interviewing girls who are interested in receiving one of a limited number of scholarships in Albany college during the next school year.

The scholarships, which are made available by the league, amount to $150 each, and defray the total cost of tuition. They are to be awarded to girls who have made worthy records in high school, and who would otherwise be unable to attend an institution of higher education on account of the expense.

Albany college is an institution founded to meet the need of Christian environment in education, and has been supported by Oregon Presbyterians since 1867. The college was moved to a new 45-acre campus on the outskirts of Albany just six years ago, and three new buildings have been constructed there.

The college is not making special efforts to reduce the costs of education to the students, and to help in some way those who are not adequately financed. Mrs. Brown, while in La Grande, is staying at the home of Mrs. Gustav Wissler at 304 Main street, where she may be reached be phone.

Young men who are interested in obtaining scholarships at Albany college may apply directly to the college office, Mrs. Brown states.

Wallowa to Hold Tennis Tourney

Popocatepetl In Violent Eruption

MEXICO CITY, July 2 (AP) — Dispatches from Amecameca at the foot of Mexico's high volcanic mountain peak, Popocatepetl today said the volcano has entered into its greatest activity since 1926. Huge columns of smoke were issuing from the cone.

The volcano is about 45 miles southeast of Mexico City and ordinarily its snow covered summit is visible from the capital, but heavy cloud banks have obscured it for several days.

Jack Kentworth, Portland Boxer, Pleads Guilty

PORTLAND, Ore., July 2 (AP)—Jack Kentworth, 20, Portland pugilist, pleaded guilty in circuit court here today to a charge of manslaughter for the fatal shooting of Arnold (Johnny) Hansen, 19, also a pugilist, in a Portland hotel last March 2.

Presiding Circuit Judge Jacob Kanzler sentenced him to 15 years in the state penitentiary.

Kentworth was arrested in Klamath Falls several days after the shooting. He was indicted on a first degree murder charge but was permitted to plead to the lesser charge. The prosecution opposed the defense motion that the charge be reduced.

Police said Kentworth shot Hansen because Peggy Norman, 19, with whom Kentworth had been living had left him for Hansen.

JOHN GARNER SELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

marked time to await Gov. Roosevelt himself, dashing here by plane to give the delegates face to face, his pledge of earnest leadership.

Garner—vetern of 30 years of political warfare in congress, but still "Cactus Jack " of Texas to his many friends — had been chosen for vice president by the leaders hours before the convention itself ratified the selection with a great shout.

Texas and California had voted for him for the presidency, and it was their turn to Roosevelt last night which broke the back of the opposition, heaping up at the feet of the New Yorker nine tenths of the strength of the convention.

The only real threat of opposition to Garner came from the defeated partisans of Alfred E. Smith, but it never materialized.

Smith Leaves Before Vote

Smith, refusing to say whether he would support the ticket, left Chicago before the vice presidential voting began. A group of his supporters from New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut pondered whether to put up Jersey's congresswoman, Mary Norton, for second place, but decided against it, and seconded Garner.

Iowa presented Gen. Matt Tinley, but no general support for him developed. The action of the convention was all but unanimous.

Oregon through former Governor Walter M. Pierce announced the withdrawal of its candidate, Milton A. Miller, of Portland, and its support of Garner.

A long session of speech-making preceded the vote. Convention officials did not hasten the proceedings, for word had been received that Gov. Roosevelt's plane was far behind time, delaying until late afternoon his appearance to thank the delegates and accept the presidential nomination.

WALTER PIERCE SECONDS GARNER
By Leslie J. Smith
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP) — Oregon Democracy, represented by a delegation of ten at the Democratic national convention, voiced approval today of selection of John N. Garner as the Democratic nominee for vice president.

Walter Pierce, national committeeman from Oregon, from the speaker's platform announced the withdrawal of Milton A. Miller, a favorite son candidate for vice president, in a seconding speech for Garner.

"With Roosevelt and Garner as the standard bearers we can sweep this nation from ocean to shining ocean," Pierce declared and the crowded convention hall voiced approbation in cheers and shouts.

The "broken promises, unfilled," of the Republican party, Pierce said, demands that the nation follow the Democratic banner this year.

Oregon supported Garner as the unanimous choice of the convention.

BARRY WOOD WEDS

EAST EDGECOMBE, Maine, July 2 (AP)—Mary Lee Hutchins, of Newton Center, Mass., and William Barry Wood Jr., of Milton, Mass., Harvard's outstanding athlete of the last three years, were married here today.

Bourbon Women Buoyant As The Climax Passes

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Democratic women came through the climax of the convention's nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt with spirits buoyant, howling and squealing and throwing kisses and mingling die-hard jeers with the cheers.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, their top sergeant, proclaimed their part in reaching harmony "the greatest work for humanity which women have performed recently.

"The next thing to do," she added, "is to abolish the two-thirds rule so that one-third of the party cannot enforce its will over the majority."

Among the most enthusiastic cheerers was Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, of Illinois. She said:

"This has proved again what we demonstrated in 1916—that we can nominate without the east if need be; we can elect a Democratic president without it."

"The Dawn Has Come"

Mrs. Isabelle Greenway, of Arizona, perhaps the closest friend of the Roosevelt family in the stadium, sighed and said, "The dawn has come. Mr. McAdoo touched the heart of the situation when he said we didn't come here to deadlock the convention."

But Mrs. Borden (Daisy) Harriman, outstanding committeewoman of Washington, D. C., didn't approve of the wind-up and said so.

"I'd like to have seen them fight it out," she asserted. "I never liked a deal."

While William G. McAdoo was still talking she turned to Miss Mary W. Dewson, Roosevelt women's leader who was standing just behind. Somebody heard Daisy say "I'll bet you," while Miss Dewson shook her head as if accepting the wager.

Somebody asked Mrs. Josephus Daniels how about all the booing from the gallery, she dismissed it: "It's Republican."

Mrs. Melvin Traylor, who yesterday declared allegiance to Newton Baker, emphasized her second word in "I hope he (Roosevelt) can win."

Mrs. Norton Bitter

Repersentative Marty T. Norton, who offered the vote of her state for the vice presidential nomination was perhaps the bitterest of the New Jersey Smithites. She semed to be biting her lips as she said she'd better not talk, then burst out:

"I said all I wanted to say last night—and I'll say it the rest of my life."

She referred to her speech for "Al" in which she spoke out on religious intolerance.

But the vast majority seemed to like the finale. They howled and waved and shouted.

At The La Grande Theatres

"SKY DEVILS" TO BE SHOWN HERE

Two Other Strong Features Scheduled For Week at the Liberty

PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK LIBERTY THEATRE

Sunday and Monday—Spencer Tracy and Ann Dvorak in "Sky Devils."
Tuesday and Wednesday — George Bancroft in "The World and the Flesh" with Miriam Hopkins.
Thursday and Friday—"The Strange Case of Clara Deane" with Wayne Gibson, Pat O'Brien and Frances Dee.

The week's program at the Liberty theatre will begin Sunday and Monday with a lightning-fast comedy "Sky Devils," a picture that took a year to make and cost more than half a million dollars. The picture is based on the thrilling and romantic adventures of three American aviators during the World war with the leading roles played by Spencer Tracy, William Boyd, George Cooper and Ann Dvorak.

It is an audacious tale of three flying clowns who violate every rule of war to have a good time, and in the face of courtmartial for disobedience accomplish so many rare and accidental feats of gallantry they are decorated for their impertinent exploits.

"The World and the Flesh"

The second feature of the week, "The World and the Flesh," will be here Tuesday and Wednesday, and George Bancroft and Miriam Hopkins have the leading parts. It is the most pretentious production Bancroft has ever had and it is the most splendidly enacted, the most realistically authentic.

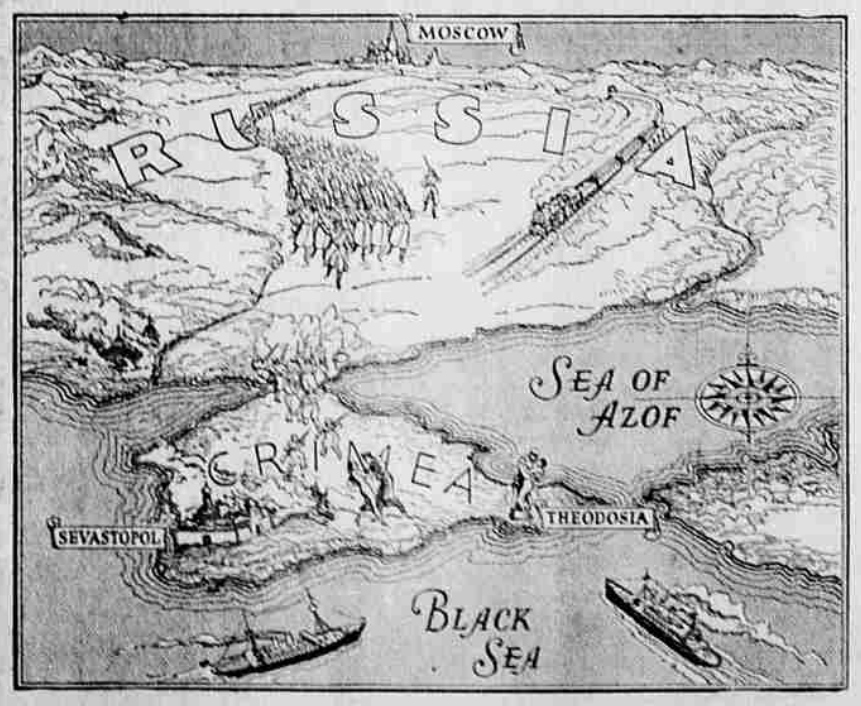
"The World and the Flesh" is romance in a world gone mad—a mighty love story of the carmine days of 1917 when Russia's servants became the masters, drunk with power.

"The Strange Case of Clara Deane"

"The Strange Case of Clara Deane" is the final of the week's features, scheduled for Thursday and Friday. The cast includes Wynne Gibson, Pat O'Brien, Frances Dee and Dudley Digges.

It is the story of a woman who had the courge to kill for her child. Miss Gibson is Clara Deane and at the picture's powerful climax, she has became a careworn middle-aged woman whose tired eyes tell of a frustrated life—a pathetic figure that stirs one's deepest sympathy.

A scene from Howard Hughs' "Sky Devils."



Bird's-eye view of the smashing action of Paramount's "The World and the Flesh," with George Bancroft and Miriam Hopkins. Pictured are the marauded horde sweeping down from the North; the burning town of Sevastopol; haven of the royalists, Theodosia; the setting for the drama of red revolution and purple romance.

Analysis on Ballots

By D. Harold Oliver

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP) — Written from the cold figures of the four gruelling presidential ballots, the story of the 1932 Democratic national convention reveals the staying qualities of the closely-knit Roosevelt delegations and the devotion of Al Smith's eastern strength in the face of certain defeat.

Throughout the quartet of long and weary roll calls, Franklin D. Roosevelt not only won unwavering support, but kept up a steady pull until his margin was so big that it forced capitalization of the Garner and most of the favorite son delegations.

Smith, second in running throughout, received the solid support of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island on all four ballots, and lost only 11¼ votes net between the first and last roll call.

On the other hand, Roosevelt, who polled 666¼ on the first, gained 11½ on the second ballot, 5 2-5 more on the third and 282 21-100 more on the last.

Of the 55 states and territories, only 15 changed their votes after the first ballot, 6 of these coming on the last when California started the Roosevelt nomination rush.

The total vote of each candidate on the four ballots follows:

Candidates	First	Second	Third	Fourth
Roosevelt	666¼	677¾	682.79	945
Smith	201⅓	194¼	190½	190½
Garner	90¼	90¼	101¼	0
Traylor	42¼	40¼	40¼	0
White	52	50½	52½	3
Byrd	25	24	24.96	0
Reed	24	18	27½	0
Murray	23	0	0	0
Ritchie	21	23½	23½	3½
Baker	8½	8	8½	5½
