Family Reunion Is Held On July 4th

The Fourth of July is the birthday of the nation to most people, but it is more than that to Rev. W. R. Lloyd, of Spokane, pioneer minister of Walla Walla, who celebrated his own birthday anniversary yesterday in Walla Walla. He was 82 years old.

D. E. Lloyd, of La Grande, attended a family reunion at the home of E. C. Lloyd in Walla Walla yesterday, a special event since it has been 18 or 20 years since the family has been together. In that time the numbers have increased until now four generations gather. Mr. Lloyd's two children are Mrs. J. A. Bishop, of Portland, and E. C. Lloyd, while the entire group included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd of Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, and two daughters of Portland, their son, H. L. Bishop, and family of Missoula, Mont., Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lloyd of Walla Walla, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lloyd and son, Dick of Lewiston and D. E. Lloyd of La Grande.

The Rev. Mr. Lloyd was born in Indiana but received his education for the ministry in Nebraska, from where he came here in 1882. He was pastor of the Walla Walla United Brethren church in 1883, the old building being located at the site of Condon's bakery on Second avenue and Birch street. In 1886 and 1887 he was pastor of the United Brethren church in Dayton, moving from there into the Palouse country. He located about 27 years ago in Spokane. For a number of years he was district president elder but retired from active charges about 12 years ago. However he frequently has been called upon to substitute in the Spokane area, and being in excellent health, is able to do so.

Hollywood Stars Meet the Nudist Half-Way

Hollywood's male stars are taking the short route to fashion on California beaches, as you'd judge by these brief glimpses of them . . . Harry Bannister, former husband of Ann Harding, gave the camera man a run for his money . . . Baseball stars might be more comfortable if they'd step up to the plate in the "uniform" that William Collier, Jr., wears in the next picture. The catcher, who's taking no chances on getting sun-burned, is Robert Woolsey . . . And Ralph Ince, who's seen (above, in center) as he knelt to judge a toad race on Malibou Beach, suggests this sort of "robe" for all kinds of judges . . . There's nothing big-headed about Lilyan Tashman (below), but that floppy beach hat of hers must just about have taken the last straw . . . Leila Hyams and her husband, Phil Berg, are wearing beach outfits that might be called pedal extremities.

BAND IN CONCERT MONDAY EVENING

...d July, dedicating numbers to the Civil war veterans, the Spanish war soldiers and the men who fought in the World war.

The program was varied, opening with a militant march "Idaho," by Barnhouse, and closing with a classical selection, "Procession of the Sardar," from the "Caucasian Sketches."

Rossini's famous overture to "William Tell," was followed by two favorites, "Song of Love" from "Blossom Time," by Romberg; and "Good Night Sweetheart," by Noble-Campbell.

Dedicated to the Civil war veterans was the patrol "The Blue and the Grey," by Dalbey; while the patrol, "America," by Meacham, was dedicated to the veterans of the Spanish war; and a medley of World war songs, "Over There," by Lake, was played for the World war soldiers.

Completing the scheduled program was the group of grand scenes from "Show Boat," by Kern.

The band gave its usual excellent presentation of many different types of music, yielding to the mood of the director. A large crowd filled the park and many stayed in their automobiles during the hour.

RIVERS OUT OF BANKS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 5 (AP)—Southern West Virginia rivers were out of their banks today, causing much property damage.

Five inches of rain yesterday brought flood stages to all the smaller streams and caused the rivers to reach unusual heights.

TAKEN FROM SAFE IN PORTLAND, ORE.

Surrill H. Slocum, the other member of the firm, told police, they said, he was approached recently by a man who offered him $500 to stop his activities in behalf of the physical changes in the educational system, chief feature of which is the proposed consolidation of the University of Oregon with Oregon State college on the campus at Corvallis. Police quoted Slocum as saying he had flatly refused the offer. Slocum also said an editor of a Eugene newspaper had asked him to give up the work.

Slocum told police, they said, he feared something might happen to the petitions and had arranged to have them placed in his safe, under guard.

Because of the masks the two robbers wore, Tallman was unable to give police a good description of the men.

Mark Woodruff, press agent for the committee supporting the consolidation measure, said the petitions bore 20,000 signatures.

"It is very evident that opponents of the consolidation bill are responsible for the holdup and robbery," said Slocum, manager of the campaign for the Marion County Taxpayers' Equalization League.

"No other people would have done it.

"Opponents of the bill have feared, and this proves it, to let the people vote on the measure.

"They first went to the supreme court for a decision that changed the title to the bill, and thereby caused us to lose 26,000 names on petitions.

"Our opponents knew that we would begin collecting names immediately for the second filing. They then hired members of the communist group in Portland to organize a strike among our workers. They demanded 10 cents a name. We got volunteers enough to work to break that strike.

"We then began to understand some of the desperetion in the heart of those opponents of consolidation. I hired a guard to watch the safe in which the names reposed each night and I planned to take the petitions to Salem in an armored car — fearing that a stickup might be tried.

"I have sent for Zorn (Henry Van Zorn, president of the Marion County Taxpayers' Equalization League) and other advisers. It is possible that enough indignation may be aroused by this outrage to enable us to get 20,000 names by Wednesday night."

The completed petitions must be filed by July 7.

Ducking Shower of Steel In Chilean Revolt

Hurling themselves upon the ground to escape a stream of machine-gun fire, armed civilians and soldiers are shown above during a sanguinary riot centered about a gasoline station in Santiago, the Chilean capital. Three men were killed and several wounded in the fighting here — the sole bloodshed of the sudden, dramatic revolution which set up a Socialist government in Chile.

HOOVER OPPOSED TO STATE LOANS IN RELIEF BILL

...in the same form in which it was tentatively agreed to last Saturday, carrying $300,000,000 for direct relief loans to states; $322,000,000 for public construction and $1,500,000,000 for loans through the reconstruction corporation, both public and private.

All the conferees signed the bill except Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) a strong administration supporter.

His refusal to sign added strength to the reports that President Hoover would veto the measure.

A copy of the compromise measure was sent by the conferees to the White House today for President Hoover's study. Sponsors of the legislation continued to maintain confidence that he would sign the measure.

The text of the compromise bill was withheld until presented in the house.

HOOVER VETO EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—President Hoover was represented in high administration quarters at the capital today as being unalterably opposed to that section of the $2,100,000,000 relief bill providing $200,000,000 for loans to states on a population basis.

It was added a veto more likely would be directed at this section than at the $325,000,000 public works provision.

This was made known shortly before the conference report on the relief measure was due for house consideration.

A population basis for distributing funds was said to be regarded by the president as purely "a pork barrel proposition." The chief executive was said to regard the public works section considerably less offensive.

Meanwhile, Representative Snell, the Republican leader, who spent the weekend with Mr. Hoover at his Rapidan camp, told newspapermen he saw little chance of adjourning congress this week because of the relief situation.

Two appropriation bills also are deadlocked — those for the agriculture and war departments, but Snell considers the relief bill the real obstacle to adjournment.

Strong indication was given that President Hoover might publicly reiterate his objections to the Wagner-Garner bill today or tomorrow.

MA AT OUTS WITH HUDSON

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., July 5 (AP)—Coincident with the booming of a fireworks display at the beach here in front of her home late last night, Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy Hudson announced that her marriage to Guy E. Hudson had "blown up."

"You can say for me," began Mrs. Hudson, mother of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, "that after a year of fruitless attempts at establishing Mr. Hudson in a permanent position, I have decided that it would be to our mutual advantage if he went his way, and I went mine."

At this stage of the interview with reporters, Hudson, who was referred to as "what-a-man" by Mrs. Hudson when she eloped with him a year ago in the state of Washington, walked up the steps of the beach cottage.

"You can say for me that if there is a separation or divorce in this family, it is not because I want it," he said, after taking a drink of water.

Amelia Gets Gold Medal From Hoover

Honoring the woman flyer who he said "has made all mankind her debtor," President Hoover is shown above as he presented to Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam the highest award of the National Geographic Society—a gold medal for notable geographic attainment. Looking on during the White House ceremony were Mrs. Hoover (at right, in foreground) and in the rear, George Palmer Putnam (left), the transatlantic aviatrix's husband, and Dr. John O. La Gorce (right), vice president of the society.

NEW STYLE BOBS UP

Now we have the "chisel bob," designed for a carpenter—that is to say, Charlotte Carpenter of Los Angeles. It's the latest in coiffures, created by Dermott of London. They call it the Olympic chisel bob in honor of the Olympic games at Los Angeles. Quite an event eh?

STORM HITS AT CLOSE OF CELEBRATION

Virtually half of the business section of the town was wrecked. Damaged buildings included the town's two school houses, the court house, and the city hall. The Burlington railroad station was blown completely away.

Emergency medical station were established in a hotel and the telephone office. Many persons, other than those taken to the Clay Center hospital, received treatment for more minor injuries.

Mayor Edgar Bennet estimated that 50 business buildings and 75 residences either were levelled or partially destroyed.

Record Murals

The huge murals in the Los Angeles Public library are said to be the largest modern murals painted.
