DUFFERS WATCH HIGH WINDS FOIL LINKS STARS

Envious duffers who gathered for the initial round of the national open golf tournament had their day. For high winds whipped across the fairways and caused many of the country's crack golfers to turn in scores little better than some of the spectators could have achieved. Here's a gallery—part of the thousands who thronged the Fresh Meadow Country club course on Long Island—watching Johnny Farrell drive.

The governor replied that would be impossible as the funds were needed now by the state highway department.

The argument between the two officials, with the third member of the state board, Rufus C. Holman, attempting to act as an arbitrator, was precipitated just as the board of control was adjourning at noon today following transaction of routine business.

During the license discussion the governor called the board of control back into session and moved that an independent auditor be named to audit the books of the department of state. He said an earlier move of this kind was not ordered because Hoss requested none be taken before the primary election. Hoss denied he made this request.

The motion for such an order passed, with Hoss refusing to vote. The secretary of state declared the move was made by the governor to embarrass him and were it done in a similar manner he would not oppose the action.

"This is just another move on your part to embarrass me," Hoss declared the governor. "What's the matter, don't you want me as secretary of state?" he asked.

"Not if you refuse to co-operate with state officials in operating an efficient government," the governor retorted. "And before I get through with this fight I will issue a statement showing how much you have refused to do in operating an efficient government, and how many proposals you have protested."

"I've done as much as any member of this board of control in saving the taxpayers' money," Hoss answered. He repeated the remark emphasizing "his board of control."

Eagles Beaten; Junior Leaguers Are Nosed Out

La Grande's baseball team played two contests here over the holidays and came out on the short end of the scoring in both. Sunday afternoon the La Grande Eagles took a 17 to 1 blast-on-the-chin from the Pleasant Grove grange team, and Monday afternoon the American Legion Junior Leaguers of Pendleton nosed out the La Grande juniors by a score of 12 to 11 in one of the most exciting and well played games that has been seen here this season.

The Junior League game was witnessed by a crowd of more than 500 people who gathered at the High school field to see the several pre-game contests that were put on under the auspices of the legionnaires and a thrilling ball game. Knezevich, La Grande hurler, found himself in hot water from the very start of the game when seven Pendleton batters faced him in the first half of the opening inning, nipped him for three hits, and scored three runs. In the last half of the first inning La Grande came back and walloped Weber, Pendleton's hurler, for four runs, and continued their batting streak through the third frame when the score stood 8 to 3 in favor of the local lads. Weber was forced from the mound in the third frame being replaced by Metz who held his opponents to three runs during the remaining six innings, while Knezevich weakened and permitted nine more runners to score.

Rally Falls Short
Going into the last half of the ninth frame with the score against them 12 to 9 the La Grande lads staged a rally that very nearly won the game for them. Knezevich struck out. Frizzell hit safely to right field, stole second and scored from there when Irwin plastered a single past shortstop. Irwin then scored from second on a bad throw to second base by Catcher Jenkins, which went to center field. Howell hit an easy roller to second and was thrown out at first by the last play of the game.

Parade of Hurlers
The Sunday afternoon game which the La Grande Eagles lost to the Pleasant Grove grange was interesting only for the first inning or two after which the farmer lads got their batting eyes to working and walloped one pitcher after another from the box until "Red" Courtney went in to take over the mound duties for the local team in the sixth inning. "Red" had been on the mound in the third inning but had no success in stopping the Pleasant Grove boys from parading around the bases. He was able to shut them down, however when he was put back on the mound in the last four frames. The Eagles were outclassed throughout the game. Next Sunday the Eagles are scheduled to play the Cove team here, and the following weekend have arranged to play a return game with the Pleasant Grove grange team here.

PROHI PARTY TO APPROACH BORAH

support for the Idaho senator. Expect a "No." Borah's friends in Washington, however, believed the Senator's answer would be in the negative. He has refused to support President Hoover for re-election because of the Republican re-election plank, but he has repeatedly said that economic issues were predominant and the prohibition question was a poor basis for a successful third party.

Bishop James A. Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was present. He said he was here principally to see his son, Major Richard Cannon, a delegate to the convention from California. The younger Cannon is a candidate for election to the house from his home state.

The major parties were scored at a mass meeting last night for their prohibition stands. Colvin said, "The Republican wet plank means that Mr. Hoover who approved it and whose close associates and appointees drafted it and whose advisers promoted it in the convention is the most conspicuous turn-coat since Benedict Arnold."

HOSS, IN LETTER, EXPLAINS VIEWS

The secretary of state is not authorized by law to collect or receive motor vehicle license fees on the installment plan.

"The attorney general has also ruled that installment payments could not be accepted on fees from buses and trucks and that the secretary of state would have no authority to refund the registration fee or any part of it to those who had paid their full year's license and demanded a return of three-fourths of all of the fee."

"My authority in this matter is specifically limited by statute and as an administrative official I have absolutely no power to set aside the provisions of this or any other law. The constitution of Oregon which I have sworn to uphold states: 'The operation of the laws shall never be suspended except by the authority of the legislative assembly.'"

Edward Lear (1812-1883), English artist and writer, is credited with the invention of the limerick.

BONUS ARMY, IN RAGS, ON MARCH TODAY

lieutenants. Banners urging bonus payment and designating the companies' home states were carried.

Camp Pets in Line
Several dogs, camp pets, were in the line. They wore small banners around their bodies.

The veterans, some in overalls, virtually all in shirtsleeves, were silent as they kept time to the isolated beat of the drums.

Some of the children in the parade were pushed in baby carriages or carried.

Pelham D. Glasford, chief of Washington police, rode among the marchers on a motorcycle. Leaders saluted him as he passed.

A bugle corps sounded off with great vigor as the march started up Capitol Hill. About half way up, however, it ended on a sour note as the corps gradually lost its wind.

As the parade reached the senate office building the marchers scattered over the plaza and the capitol steps. Men began to fill the steps on the senate wing of the building.

Glasford said tear gas was available for use "only in a case of a major emergency." Metropolitan police guarding the capitol plaza were not armed. Inside the building, however, police wore their side arms.

Glasford said he was advised by headquarters of the bonus army that trouble might be expected from a unit from Michigan, but that he had instructed his men to let the bonus "military police" handle the situation "so far as they are able."

"If they can't," he said, "we'll step in. But there will be no obnoxious use of gas. The candles available here will spread only a thin cloud of smoke."

Hoover Denounced
Speaking from the capitol steps, Harold B. Foulkrod, of Philadelphia, a member of the bonus-seekers army, assailed Secretary Hurley, John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, President Hoover and W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

While the veterans paraded, police visited the encampments and counted those not participating. Their check showed a total of 11,760 in the city, including the 4,731 who marched. Previous estimates have ranged from 15,000 to 20,000. A number left the city after the senate defeated the bonus bill, but others arrived later. Rations have been provided for 20,000.

LARGE CROWD GATHERS FOR BIG PROGRAM

features added large proportions to the parade. The Eagles lodge furnished an interesting float and several stunts, which included Mrs. E. O. Morris and Mrs. A. L. Parker, dressed as two old-fashioned ladies, making their first trip to town in the modern age. Mrs. Parker was dressed in a gown 56 years old, and wore mink which were 70 years old. Both had bonnets which have been retained as heirlooms.

Firms and individuals participating in the parade were: Grande Ronde Meat Co., M. J. Goss, Larison-Frees Chevrolet Co., Perkins Motor Co., Dal Hudspeth, Community Cash Observer, Safeway Stores, Smith's garage, Western Union, Union Pacific Stages, Frank Young Ice Co., Snodgrass Zimmerman, Union Oil, Kohan's Flower Shop, Montgomery Ward, Gas Co., Modern laundry, Blue Mt. creamery, Red and Fred. Proster Sins, DeGreeve transfer and others.

Races Staged
Races and contests were held on Depot street following the parade, although no records were kept of the winners. There were the following events: 100 yard free-for-all, bicycle race, potato race, fat man's race, women's nail driving contest, boys' race, girls' race, needle and thread event, bottle capping contest, egg race, girls' skating race, pie eating contest, boy and dog race.

The Umatilla county Junior League baseball team defeated the La Grande team 12-11 in a game played at the High school athletic field. In the national guard demonstration, a wall scaling team demonstration that event, and Private First Class Ivan Storey received first place in the equipment race. Corp. George Plank was second, and Private Leonard Field, third.

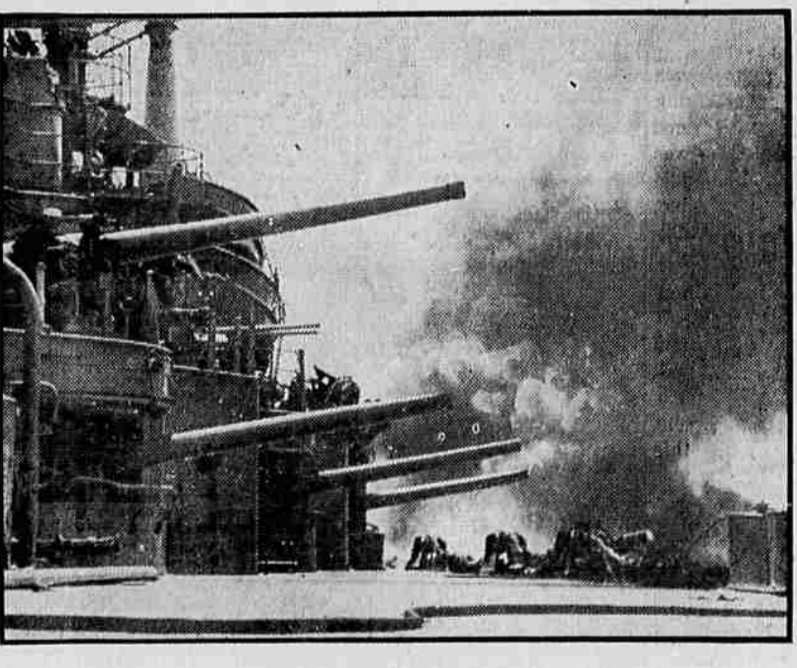

Alec McKenzie, of Summerville, was the winner in the horseshoe tournament in which 12 participated.

Blind Fiddler Wins
In the old-fiddlers' contest, a blind fiddler who has played his way from Yates Center, Kansas, was invited to play and received first place. M. J. Gordanier, the winner, hasn't played a fiddle for 20 years, he stated, and his fingers are calloused from the guitar which he plays for a living. He praised the others for their excellent performances during the contest. Mr. Gordanier is accompanied on his travels by his daughter, Ivah-lee, who was a winner in the girls' footrace yesterday morning, and a
