There is no state flag at Champego park, and it is believed that there are only two in existence, one at the state capitol at Salem and the other at the national capitol at Washington, D. C. Ira W. Carl, grand chancellor of the state, urges that all Pythians who plan to vacation this summer, make their vacation dates conform with those of the picnic and attend. The picnic will be interesting, and the interest will be augmented by the many documents and articles of historic interest to be seen in the park which is called the "birthplace of Oregon," since the state's provisional government was authorized by a group of pioneers who met there.

GOV. ROOSEVELT IN AL SMITH WATERS

Smith strength is notable. Last night, after he had dropped anchor in this placid harbor, he greeted J. Harold McGrath, Democratic state chairman from Rhode Island and referred to that state's support of Smith at the national convention.

"I not only understand," he said, "but greatly appreciate Rhode Island standing by our old friend Governor Smith and I know now I am going to receive the same display of loyalty."

This was in reply to assurances by a group headed by McGrath that Rhode Island, which stood by Smith to the end of the convention, would be in the Democratic column again this year. In the McGrath group were Martin J. Flaherty, former Senator Peter G. Gerry, state leader, and Edward J. Higgins, member of the state executive committee.

Proudly holding a light northwest wind in his sails all the way, Governor Roosevelt steered his craft 60 miles through the sound yesterday, from Morris Cove, Conn. As the yawl anchored in a glowing sunset, pleasure craft of many kinds hovered about.

The governor, his face red from the sun, contentedly ate a steak cooked by his sons, James and Franklin Jr. "It was a great day," he said.

From New Hampshire comes word that 100,000 people are expected to hear the governor speak at Hampton Beach, N. H., Sunday. It will be the opening gun of his campaign.

REYNOLDS' WIDOW SEEKING PRIVACY

her husband's death at Winston Salem, N. C., a week ago, and the long, close interrogation that followed.

It was a crushed and fearful Libby that reached home today. There was no smiling and bowing to those who had seen her in previous days, and she had seen her professional debut on the stage. Instead, there was just a glimpse of a heavily coated girl, face covered, head lowered, and her lawyer-father half pushed, half carried her from the steps of the railway car to an automobile across the rural station platform, and then a quick succession of relatives—mother, brother, sister—scurrying from the train to her.

Libby and her family left Winston Salem last night, deserting the Reynolds estate, scene of the fatal shooting of her husband of three months. They left behind a coroner's jury verdict "death at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

As they neared home the virtual frankness that had displayed in North Carolina gave way to secrecy. None had anything to say.

Pullman attendants said the Holman family had spent a quiet night.

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., July 13 (AP)—The Twin City Sentinel today says it has learned authoritatively the grand jury will be discharged this afternoon without making any pronouncement in the case of Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir shot to death a week ago.

The paper also says the grand jury has completed its work for this term and that the report which it will return will make no reference to Reynolds' death.

NEW BONUS MEASURE IS INTRODUCED

outsiders.

Police reported that the men, in Washington for several weeks seeking immediate cash payment of their bonus certificates, were orderly.

No interference was planned by the authorities unless an emergency arose.

The war veterans swung into their five-mile march under a sun already hot to join hundreds of other former soldiers who had spent the night on the capitol grounds.

The men arrived in straggling lines. For the most part they came in groups of a dozen and half dozen.

Most of them said they came "to see what's going on."

There was no indication that the veterans planned an organized effort to enter the capitol itself.

Veterans from several states rubbed their eyes, stretched their muscles this morning and hoped their all-night wait on the capitol lawn had impressed upon congress the urgency of their demands.

The idea of camping at the capitol was hit upon by several hundred California "bonus marchers" headed by Roy W. Robertson, but police refused them permission to bring bedding inside the grounds, or at first even to sleep on the grass. A night-long march with food on the move and sleep standing up which was planned to circumvent the orders against their encampment was discarded by the veterans, however, when Police Superintendent Pelham D. Glassford gave them permission to sleep on the lawn where scores already had sprawled unmolested.

These veterans hoped for some sort of relief despite the apparent imminence of congress' adjournment.

Representative Patman (D. Tex.) promised them to introduce today a measure calling for payment of the bonus to those who were certified to be in acute need, similar to that urged in a petition presented last yesterday to Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner. He admitted, though, there was no hope of obtaining full payment now for all veterans.

With tomorrow night the deadline for applying to the veterans' bureau for transportation and food allowances for return trips home, indications were that but a few hundred of the "marchers" would be left to the encampment through the government's appropriation of $100,000. The first day's long line of waiting applicants has been succeeded by idle clerks awaiting business.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 13 (AP)—Eleven members of the original Oregon bonus army which left May 11 for Washington, D. C. to participate in a lobby-siege on congress for passage of a measure to pay in full the adjusted service certificates of ex-soldiers, returned home today, but not because they are disheartened.

The eleven veterans took advantage of the one-cent-a-mile rate but returned only to recruit additional forces to join the army of 35,000 bonus petitioners now thronging the national capitol.

E. L. Beck, their leader, said the group will appeal to Mayor George L. Baker, of Portland, and Governor Julia L. Meier for supplies and provisions to be administered through Senator Frederick Steiwer, of Oregon, for subsistence of the Oregon detachment in Washington.

AMELIA CHALKS UP NEW RECORD DESPITE TROUBLE

Columbus only an hour and a quarter.

Mrs. Nichols actual flying time for the crossing is still the best made by a woman, she having only been in the air 12 hours 21 minutes, 43 seconds, but it is the elapsed time that counts in record making.

Mrs. Putnam was in the air just over 18 hours.

Mrs. Putnam's official landing time was announced as 11:26:05 a. m. Eastern Standard time. This gave her an elapsed time of 19 hours, 14 minutes and 40 seconds, and a flying time of 17 hours, 59 minutes and 40 seconds.

FUEL PUMP HALKS

COLUMBUS, O., July 13 (AP)—Forced down at Port Columbus while attempting a new transatlantic non-stop flight record, Amelia Earhart Putnam resumed her journey to New York by plane at 8 a. m. Eastern Standard time. She landed here shortly before because a fuel pump of her plane refused to function.

Mrs. Putnam, who set out from Los Angeles, Cal., at 1:11:25 p. m. (Pacific Standard time), was 14 hours out of the west coast city when she landed here, and apparently had little chance of establishing any of the three records she hoped to break.

Flying the plane which carried her safely across the Atlantic, to Ireland, the troubled headed flier had smooth sailing until she attempted to pump gasoline from tanks in the fuselage. The hand pump refused to work and she was forced to land here and replenish the fuel in her wing tanks.

She landed at 8:45 and lost more than an hour here.

In her 14 hours in the air, Mrs. Putnam covered approximately 2,019 miles. This was approximately 19 miles farther than she flew on her transatlantic hop.

She had about 500 miles to go to reach her destination at Newark, N. J.

The records Mrs. Putnam hoped to set were a new solo non-stop record for women; a new non-stop transatlantic record; and a record of being the first woman to span the continent alone.

Spending to Save . . . through ADVERTISING

Not many of us, these days, are troubled with so much money that we cannot spend it. But we are interested in spending the money we have, to get the most out of it.

One way — and not a new way, either — is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that comes in. Put down beside it, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing, so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.

It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, breakfast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost, before you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here, a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!
