Grain Harvest In Wallowa To Be Economical

By G. C. Meek (Observer Correspondent)

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special)—Preparations are being made by many of the farmers of this section for harvesting their grain crops as cheaply as possible. In some instances several men are going together and buying small threshing outfits and expect to exchange work for their necessary help in threshing. Many of the farmers in the hill sections also have combines with which they will cut their own crops and some expect to do some custom cutting. As yet no definite price for combining has been set, but many do not expect it to be more than $1.50 per acre.

Mrs. K. W. McKenzie received some very painful bruises late Saturday evening when she fell down some steps at her home in Riverside addition. She was unconscious following the fall and did not come to herself for some four or five hours. Latest reports state that she is recovering nicely from the bruises at this time.

Jack Exline, of Elgin, was a visitor at the Meek home in Leap during the early part of the week.

Henry Lathrop, of Alder Slope, has been busy the past few weeks helping his uncle, L. W. Lathrop, of Leap, with his summer following.

T. G. Johnson was a business visitor to the Meek home in Leap during the latter part of the week.

Reports from some of the farmers of this community who have recently shipped cattle to Portland state that very low returns have been received in many instances. In one instance a farmer shipped a carload of part Jersey cows and young cattle and received less than $6 per head for the shipment.

A large crowd of people from various parts of the county attended the picnic and dance held at the top of the Whiskey Creek hill on the old farm owned by the late Mrs. Duane Lathrop, of Parsnip creek, reports excellent luck in raising many turkeys this summer. At present she has more than 200 young birds, all growing nicely.

Mrs. Bertha Taylor, who is cooking at the Crowley logging camp in the north woods, was a La Grande visitor the latter part of the week.

Mrs. John Couch and daughters, Lois and May, and Sam and G. C. Meek and Earl Puchfield were Sunday visitors at the T. G. Johnson home.

Two Californians Are Fined $50 In Condon Courts

SALEM, Ore., July 14 (Special)—Lon Cannon, aged 53, and Howard W. Porter, 39, both of Los Angeles, California, were arrested at Condon, Ore., charged with selling insurance without a license, and upon entering pleas of guilty before Justice of the Peace Dan Foley, were fined $50 each and court costs. The arrest was made by State Patrolman Walter S. Walker and District Attorney Oliver Crowther filed the complaint.

These men were soliciting insurance for the Safety Underwriters Insurance company, of Chicago, which is not authorized to transact an insurance business under the laws of Oregon. This is the second instance of arrest and prosecution for violation of the state insurance laws in the state; the other case having transpired in Portland and is in line with the determination of Insurance Commissioner A. H. Averill to rid the state of this class of illegitimate traffic for the protection of the Oregon public, in which he has the active co-operation and support of the state department of police.

These men are traveling in a new Ford sedan, carrying California license No. 8-V-7286, and Commissioner Averill warns the people to be on their guard against their fraudulent solicitations and asks that their appearance in any community or section of the state be immediately reported to the state police, the local authorities or the insurance department at Salem.

Two Accidents Are Reported At Wallowa, Oregon

By Mrs. C. A. Hunter (Observer Correspondent)

WALLOWA (Special)—Two accidents were reported here Wednesday morning as result of haying operations. Harold Hamstreet was caught in the pulley on a cable while taking hay into the barn loft at his ranch on Prairie creek and one finger was so badly lacerated that amputation was necessary. He received an injury to his hip and was otherwise bruised up. Tom Vest, of Wallowa, fell through a hay chute on the Merlin Waely farm where he was working and several ribs were broken and he may have suffered internal injuries. Both men were brought to the Wallowa hospital. Mr. Hamstreet returned to his home near Joseph later in the day but Mr. Vest remained at the hospital.

Miss Marjorie Marcus, of Salem, secretary for the Smith-Hughes convention, which is in session here this week, is being entertained, while in town, at the home of Miss Virginia Hunter. Miss Marcus is a sorority sister of Miss Hunter and a member of the junior class at the University of Oregon.

A group of Wallowa people enjoyed a potluck dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamstreet near Joseph Sunday. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Oliver, Mrs. Martha Daugherty, Hugh Daugherty and two small sons and Bill Daugherty.

Bill Jurgis Is Speedy, You'll Have to Admit

CHICAGO, July 14 (S)—You'll have to admit that Bill Jurgis, flashy Cub shortstop, is a speed demon.

Speed made him one of the greatest "pistol" men in baseball.

Speed saved him from death when a pretty brunette started shooting in his hotel room.

And now, eight days after suffering bullet wounds in the right side and left hand, he's back in uniform and working out with the Cubs.

"Hope to get back in the game in a day or two at the latest," he beamed. "Feeling fine and am crazy to play ball again."

He'll have to forget baseball tomorrow, however, as he has been ordered to appear in court for the hearing of the girl who almost killed him—Miss Violet Valli—on a charge of assault with intent to kill Jurgis first refused to appear but the court threatened to bring him in if he perished in his refusal.

"And he'd better show some speed in getting to this court," warned Municipal Judge John Starburo.
