J., to christen the new liner Santa Paula. Here she's home again from her 10,000-mile trip. Second in line is Miss Elizabeth Glass, stepping from the liner which brought her back to Los Angeles from exciting experiences in Guatemala, where she accompanied her mother, Mrs. Bertha Walker Glass, the noted artist, on a "sketching expedition" in the Mayan jungles. At the right is Miss Marjorie King, of Hollywood and Broadway, pictured on her arrival in San Francisco to complete the purchase of an exotic little island near Tahiti from Zane Grey, its owner. There she will establish a queenhood all her own.

over the currency expansion feature of the home loan bank bill seemed certain to kill that legislation in the last hours. On a viva voce vote, the senate accepted the conference report on the relief legislation — but only after leaders had registered the opinion that the clause providing publicity of loans made by the reconstruction corporation did not necessarily require publicity. The view that seemed to be accepted was that the corporation must report to congress and the president, but that further congressional action is necessary before publicity need be given.

DISPUTE OVER CURRENCY IS NOT SETTLED

Passed Back to House The senate had voted, 44 to 20, to insist on the currency expansion provision of the home loan bill, in the face of house opposition. This threw the question into the house again, and it promptly stuck to its stand, throwing the matter into conference again with the senate and without any visible prospect of either side yielding. Continuance of the deadlock would kill the legislation.

A last minute movement in opposition to the relief bill, which assumed formidable proportions during the morning, disappeared before the morning, disappeared before the assurances by leaders that the publicity clause would not make public the loans by the reconstruction corporation without further action by congress.

Pressure from bankers all over the country overnight had caused a movement to send the bill back to conference for elimination of the publicity clause.

Ready for President The bill, representing months of controversy over federal aid to the unemployed, is now ready for President Hoover's signature and will probably be forwarded to the White House immediately.

It carries a $300,000,000 emergency relief fund; appropriations of $322,000,000 for public works; and an increase in the borrowing power of the reconstruction corporation of $1,500,000,000 for construction loans to spur employment and speed up industry. The house vote against accepting the Glass amendment to the home loan bill, which would allow for currency expansion up to a billion dollars, was 221 to 89.

BANKERS OPPOSE PROVISION

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—A move to send the unemployment relief bill back to conference with the house developed today in the senate as the result of a nation-wide pressure from banks to eliminate the provision requiring publicity on reconstruction corporation loans.

Senate leaders were somewhat apprehensive over the possibility of adjourning congress tonight, as the movement seemed to gain headway. They sent representatives to consult house leaders to determine whether sentiment in that branch had changed sufficiently to allow elimination of the publicity clause.

There was a strong factor in the senate, however, opposed to sending the bill back to conference and demanding that the bill be passed and sent to the White House.

Pressure Develops Overnight The pressure against the publicity clause developed overnight. Bankers throughout the country, wired to their senators opposing the publicity clause on loans from the reconstruction corporation.

President Hoover agreed yesterday to sign the bill with it included and let congress take the responsibility.

Two Go To White House Legislation directing the secretary of the treasury to make available all income tax and revenue records to the senate banking committee was passed today by the house and sent to the president.

The resolution, previously passed by the senate, was offered in the house by Representative Rainey, the majority leader and given the approval of Representative Snell, the majority leader.

Rainey explained the senate had directed its banking committee to investigate the treasury and internal revenue bureau, but that without an amendment to the law this committee would be denied access to tax records. The senate today sent to the White House a bill reducing the interest rate on veterans' bonus certificate loans from four and one half to three and one half per cent and permitting loans on certificates less than two years old.

Senate Reaffirms Stand The senate today voted to insist upon retention of the Glass currency expansion provision in the administration sponsored home loan bank bill.

The senate today approved a joint resolution to appropriate $40,000,000 a year to reimburse the farm board for wheat and cotton which congress has authorized it to turn over to the Red Cross.

The funds are intended to enable the board to pay off liens on the commodities.

The measure was amended by the senate to stipulate the annual sum to be devoted to that purpose.

The house had left the amount indefinite.

The measure now goes back to the other branch for consideration of the senate amendment.

AMERICAN AIRMAN RESCUED AFTER WEEKS IN JUNGLE

(Continued From Page One) So handicapped was he that he estimates he only covered four miles in nearly three weeks of crawling. The jungle at that point is well-nigh impassable and he had no tools to cut through.

Although he said he believed the wreckage was only four miles distant from where he was found, searching parties had not located it after a full day of looking. The volunteer expedition pushed on, however, although members said there was no hope of recovering Gordon's body, which probably long since had been carried away by wild beasts.

One of McElroy's first acts last night was to offer a generous reward to Melarido Enriquez, the Indian hillman who stumbled over his exhausted body in the jungle late Thursday and saved his life.

He then asked that his mother be notified by cable.

Today he was resting well in the home of Mayor Humberto L. Pineda. A physician said he would recover.

The Pan American Airways has offered to stop a plane at San Geronimo Sunday afternoon to pick up McElroy and bring him to Mexico City. The offer probably will be accepted if he can be moved that soon.

Garner's Mother at Fireside in Little Texas Home

Far from the turbulent convention hall where her son was honored with the Democratic nomination for vice president of the United States, Mrs. Sarah Garner, 85, is pictured here resting contentedly in her cheery little cottage near Detroit, Red River county, Texas. It was by this fireside she taught John Nance Garner to read and from here he set out 40 years ago, a young farmer with a smattering of law, to enter politics which carried him finally to congress, into the speakership of the house and then to the vice presidential nomination of his party.
