Mr. Herbst is an accomplished violinist now connected with the music department of Whitworth college near Spokane. He is also very much interested in aviation and spends much of his time at the airport. His mother, Mrs. Ina Herbst, is well known throughout this valley as well as in Union where she was born and brought up.

The grill is open now at the luncheon hour as well as for dinner. For sometime it has been closed during the noon hour.

C. L. Cadwell, mayor of Union, is making a good recovery from a recent operation and will return to his home very soon.

Mrs. Charles Fisher has returned to her home at Cove in very satisfactory condition after her operation. Miss Winifred Murphy, vocational counselor of one of the high schools in Los Angeles and her mother Mrs. J. P. Murphy, of Nampa, stopped for an overnight visit with friends at the sanatorium.

Episcopal Social Event of Saturday

With a profusion of gay summer flowers as a setting, the lawn social at which St. Peter's Episcopal church women entertained Saturday was one of the successful events of the past week. Refreshments were served from 4 to 11 o'clock at small tables on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Nellie G. Neil, 1104 Pennsylvania avenue. Flowers were used on the tables and completing the decorations were lighted Japanese lanterns strung among the trees.

Girls from the Young People's Fellowship served during the afternoon dressed in afternoon dresses in pale tints.

Alice Adair Stayed Around Hollywood Five Years Seeking A 'Break'; —LONG WAIT BRINGS HER FILM CHANCE— Now She Sees Her Opportunity Even If Camera Will Ignore Her Face

ALICE ADAIR'S 'EXPRESSIVE LEGS'

FOOT, SIZE FOUR ANKLE, 8 INCHES CALF, 13 1/2 INCHES KNEE, 19 1/2 INCHES THIGH, 20 INCHES HIPS, 32 INCHES

Alice Adair has had a long wait around Hollywood, but now she believes she has her chance — and all because a director sought a girl with "expressive legs" for a part in a movie and chose her. Alice, shown above, thinks maybe it's the break she needed.

Girl Pays Dollar For 'Gun' One-Boy Crime Wave Used

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Miss Peggy Holmes knows what to do with a one-boy crime wave.

Her idea is that if you can buy up the culprit's weapon you'll put an end to his career, temporarily at least.

She tried it out last night and it worked to perfection, except that the weapon she bought wasn't worth what she paid for it.

"I'm a robber" said a big-eyed boy when he walked up to the ticket agent's cage of a rapid transit line, where Miss Holmes is cashier. As he spoke he shoved what appeared to be a pistol through the window of the cage.

"What did you say?" asked Miss Holmes.

"I said I was a robber" replied the youth.

"I can't give you this money, buddy," she said. "There's $40 here, but it belongs to the company. And anyway robbery's no way to get money. I'll make you a proposition. I'll buy that gun you're pointing at me."

"Okay" was the answer. They quibbled a bit over the price, but the boy finally agreed to take a dollar. Miss Holmes handed over $1 from her personal funds. The youthful robber gave her the weapon, and disappeared on a rapid transit train. Then Miss Holmes looked at the gun.

It was a toy water pistol.

Minerals in Food

Scientists are constantly investigating and adding fresh data to facts about foods and nutrition. They have found that fresh calves' liver contains the most copper of all foods studied. All the animal livers are rich in this mineral, calves' being the richest, beef next and pig liver third.

HOLLYWOOD — After five years of obscurity, Alice Adair hopes to plant her "expressive legs" firmly on the ladder leading to movie success.

Alice, 21, five feet four inches tall, light brunet in coloring, has been in Hollywood five years, but at last has achieved distinction — of a sort.

Director Frank Borzage wanted a pair of "expressive legs with a blond temperament" for scenes in his "A Farewell to Arms." The owner of those limbs will be seen in the picture. At least the limbs will. Alice was selected, and, even though her face will be ignored by the camera, she's elated.

"It's a nice bit," she says, "and I'm lucky to win it."

She is ambitious and eager to win a regular film contract.

"I think I could make a success as a comedienne if given the chance," she says confidently. "And you never can tell—this bit, even though I'm acting with my legs alone, may be the break I've needed." Alice, born in Paul's Valley, Okla., nursed an ambition to become a dancer and in the summers studied in Dallas, Tex. When she came to Hollywood she danced on the stage for six months, then played the piano in a girls' orchestra another six months, finding it pleasant enough if not particularly remunerative. So she became a movie extra.

The brief-lived boom in musical pictures made her dancing ability profitable for a year, and she often has been selected for bits before. But nothing better came of any of them.

child in trust. We will miss her but her rest is a peaceful rest. She has gone to be with her Master. She was also a member of the Missionary Society and held an office, as assistant treasurer—and also a member of The King's Daughters. She is survived by her widowed husband, a son William, 13; her mother, Mrs. S. K. Baker; and one sister, Mrs. W. B. Starmer besides other relatives and a host of friends; her father having passed away on April 15, 1920.

Services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. J. Starmer. She was laid to rest in the Masonic cemetery.

Are you a well-informed person? Every day this newspaper is filled with news. And our experience is that the news which interests you most is the news which affects you most. Which one of your friends has participated in a minor accident, you are more interested in that than in a major accident in another city. Advertising, too, is news of the first importance. It affects you. It is intimate, local news addressed to you. It deals with your comforts, your pleasure and your business. It saves you time by telling you where the merchandise is. It saves you money by announcing fair prices. It is the guide to efficient spending. When you fail to read the advertisements, you do not keep up with news that is most important to you. You miss many opportunities. The best-informed people are those who read the advertisements regularly. In fact, in this modern age, when each day brings forth new things which directly affect you, you cannot ignore the advertisements in your daily newspaper and still be well-informed!
