NIPPONESE SWIM SQUAD 4 POINTS BEHIND TUESDAY

Oriental Mermen Favored to Take Enough Points in 400-Meter Swim Today to Assume Lead.

broken the 400 meter mark in the competition, was favored over Jean Turia, France; Andrew Charlton, Australia; and Clarence Crabbe, United States, on the basis of his Olympic record of 4:51.4 set yesterday.

Charlton and Crabbe consider the 1500-meter free style their best race, and Yokoyama beat Turia yesterday.

Not content with swimming his second heat of the 400 meters in record time, the Nipponese star swam anchor on the relay team which cut 38.2 seconds off the 1928 Olympic record set by the United States.

Yokoyama stood of Manuella Kailli's late rush for the United States, to win by five meters in 8:58.4, with the Yankees second, some 25 seconds under the old record and Hungary third, also bettering the old mark.

Meanwhile the feminine star cracked the world's best marks. Eleanor Holm, American girl who gave the Follies a fleeting fling, won her way to the finals of the 100-meter backstroke by skimming by both the Olympic and world's marks in 1:18.3.

Australian Girl Wins

Then Clare Dennis, a 14-year-old youngster from Australia, did what the strong men from down under had failed to do so far, when she won the 200 meter breaststroke final to send the Aussie banner up the victory mast. But she did more than that.

Miss Dennis reduced her own Olympic record almost two seconds, and eclipsed the world's recognized mark in paddling the distance in 3:08.3. The United States was forced to be contented with fifth, sixth and seventh in the race.

Water polo continued a thorn for the officials. After the Brazilian team had been disqualified for assaulting the referee, the American seven carried on hot verbal exchanges with A. Delahaye, yesterday in a wild game with Germany which ended in a 4 to 4 tie.

Italian Boxers Are Favored To Win in Olympics

By Russell J. Newland (Associated Press Sports Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP)—Leather gloved warriors seeking Olympic boxing crowns swung into the second day of preliminaries today with the United States. Italy and Germany sharing honors in the opening drive for the team championship.

Each of these nations scored clean sweeps in fights yesterday and last night that saw 19 aspirants swept into the discard. Italy, team winner in 1928 and strong favorite for laurels in the present Olympiad, had victorious candidates in the flyweight, lightweight and welterweight ranks. Germany also had winners in each of these events while Americans had none.

A change in partners, more often than not, will spell a change for the better in your game.

I know it's more fun to play with the same foursome all season, but I believe it has a tendency to make the average golfer careless.

A golfer is not so apt to concentrate on improving his shots when he plays with a partner whose game is entirely familiar, as he is when he faces more difficult competition.

An occasional change — that is, playing against a golfer whose handicap is lower — has a challenging effect that will bring out your best golf.

Every golfer has some little twist or turn to his game that is all his own and many times he can show you some tip or other that will improve your own game.

Always watch the player who is better than you are and wherever possible, adopt the points of his game which may be of help to you. Where golf is concerned we can, after all, learn more by a good example than by verbal instruction.

and if Charles Stoneham thought Hornsby could give him a winning team the troubles of 1927 which sent Hornsby to Boston probably would be forgotten.

There is one thing fairly sure and that is that Hornsby will be managing a ball club somewhere next year.

New Partner May Stimulate Play

Egan, Evans To Renew Old Golf Feud in Western

By Paul Mickelson (Associated Press Sports Writer)

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Two old "war horses" of the fairways, H. Chandler Egan and Charles "Chick" Evans, will give the 1932 Western amateur golf championship a thrill when the white pellets start flying over the Rockford Country club course August 22.

These two veterans, who have quelled the western crowd 12 times between them over the past 30 years, will battle for it again this year, pitting their recovered skill and experience against approximately 140 products of golfdom's younger generation led by the defending champion, Don Moe of Portland, Ore.

Egan, now in his 48th year, but back on the strong game that brought him the Western title in 1902, '04, '05 and '07 and the National amateur championship in 1904 and '05, isn't regarded as a set-up by any means by his youthful rivals.

The veteran of a thousand matches flashed his first comeback in 1929 by sweeping to the semifinals of the National and recaptured the Pacific northwest crown this year.

Evans, golf's most notorious victim of missed putts, is far from the shotgunner that swept to western titles eight times between 1909 and '23, but word has spread that he has been playing his best golf in five years.

More Egan's In

Two generations of the Egan may compete in the big tournament this year. In addition to the former champion, his brother, Bradshaw, and his son, William, plan to play.

But the "old timers" will have a struggle on their hands from the qualifying rounds of 36 holes to the final championship putt.

Moe will be back and so will the 1930 champion, Johnny Lehman of Chicago; Charlie Seavers, Los Angeles star; Jack Westland, Chicago, finalist in the 1931 National amateur, and possibly Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston, another national champion of yesterday, from St. Paul.

Walker Cup Conflict

Because of the fact that the Walker Cup matches are slated for Brookline, Mass., beginning September 1, many other stars, including the English team members, will be missing from the tournament picture. However, several western stars may come in as late entries.

For the "straight and narrow" shotmakers, the championship Rockford course doesn't hold any terrors.

Reports received here are to the effect that Dr. Zook will stop in La Grande for a time Thursday en route to Portland. He may confer with Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce, a member of the state board of higher education, before continuing his journey.

One Smoker tells Another

IT is perfectly natural for smokers to talk to each other about what they smoke and why they smoke a certain brand. Tastes differ, and therefore different people smoke different kinds of cigarettes. Those who smoke CHESTERFIELDS seem to take more pride in telling other smokers — "that CHESTERFIELDS are milder; that there is no harshness — no bitterness." They also tell them — "that CHESTERFIELDS taste better; that they have a pleasing aroma." . . . CHESTERFIELDS are clicking with millions.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor)

There will be many rumors flying around during the next few weeks as to where Rogers Hornsby will do his baseball master-minding, if any at all, in the coming season. The National league, and that is where his baseball life has been spent, there are five probabilities and two possibilities.

The contracts of George Gibson, of the Pirates; Max Carey, of the Dodgers; and Bill Terry, of the Giants, are for one year and expire this fall as do the three-year contracts of Dan Howley, of the Reds, and Burt Shotton, of the Phillies.

Unless portents fall or their teams take a terrific tumble between now and the end of the season, you may mark the Pirates, Dodgers and Phillies off the list.

Gibson is the newest "miracle man" of baseball with his Buccaneers riding high at the head of the league.

Shotton of the Phillies seems secure in his relatively low-salaried post and probably will be tendered a new contract. He has the Phillies higher in the race now than the oldest inhabitant can remember.

Although there was some question for a time as to whether Carey would get another year to show his managerial wares the latest word from Brooklyn, with the fans trouncing back to watch the rejuvenated Dodgers perform, is that he probably will be tendered another one-year term.

TWO BEST BETS

That leaves New York and Cincinnati as possibilities for Hornsby. "Howling Dan's" chances for remaining at Cincinnati are none too secure, I am told. Despite his rebuilding, he has been unable to lift the Redlegs out of the National league cellar. Also, in this year of the depression, he is receiving one of the best salaries in the National league. That's a bad combination.

No one knows what to expect of the Giants. One of the club's inner council, when questioned about Hornsby's chances, said "not a chance." But Terry, who to all outward appearances was anathema to the Giants' front office, was named to succeed the ill McGraw.
