Prices Steady To Firm Today In Butter Mart

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 13 (AP) — Prices were steady to firm in the weekend butter trade here. Under-scores were showing a somewhat better call but the supply seemed adequate. Both receipts from out of town and local churning have decreased sharply in the past few days. Butterfat continues strong. There was no change in the egg market here, although New York reported eggs 1c off. Slightly increased demand was reported in the chicken trade. Local potatoes continue to show the best demand in the Portland trade with quality quite favorable. Sizes are better than formerly. Sluggishness was reported in the chicken trade. Local potatoes continue to show the best demand in the Portland trade with quality quite favorable. Sizes are better than formerly. Sluggishness was reported in the peach trade. Prices were low. Bartlett pears have moved very slowly so far this season. The north-west stock is just beginning to move to the market and already prices are about as low as they usually go here. No change was reported in the market for country killed meats.

"IGNOBLE RETREAT"

President Hoover, in explaining his views on prohibition, says, "Our objective must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to the old evils. Moreover, such a step backward would result in a chaos of new evils never yet experienced, because the local systems of prohibition and control which were developed over generations have been in large degree abandoned under the amendment."

He then goes on to say that he believes a change is necessary in order to remedy the evils of the present situation, and suggests a plan by which "each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guaranties in the constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states."

Does Mr. Hoover remember that the principal reason for passing the national prohibition amendment was that it was almost impossible to keep liquor out of a dry state when its neighbor state was wet? Does he realize that returning to state option would involve the very "chaos of new evils" against which he is warning us?

We admit the difficulties of enforcement under the present system; but the difficulties under state option would be multiplied a hundred times. With thousands of automobiles crossing state lines daily (to say nothing of increasing numbers of airplanes) the enforcement of state prohibition laws would be a farce, unless the federal government should appropriate millions of dollars for the maintenance of an army of agents.

Wet states scattered here and there through the nation would provide perfect bases of operation for wholesale bootleggers who would have even less respect for the laws of dry states than they now have for our federal constitution. Any attempt at enforcement would require the stopping and searching of every train, bus, truck, and private automobile that crossed state lines; it would be such a nuisance that the whole nation would soon give it up in disgust.

This question of states' rights was settled in the Civil war; a state's rights are subordinate to the authority of the federal government. On any such question as prohibition there can be no differences permitted between states if the Union is to be preserved. Many Americans once thought that slavery should be permitted in some states. Bitterness on that question was infinitely more intense than that which now exists between radical wets and radical dries. A war was finally fought to enforce the constitution and establish that great principle, "United we stand, divided we fall."

If the majority of our people want liquor, we say "Let them have it." But first let them devise some plan which will positively protect the rights of the dries from the evils of the liquor traffic. State option is no protection; that has been tried and found wanting.

Personally, we agree with Chapman's recent article in the Oregon Voter. After recounting the evils of the old system, he says, "We share none of the fanaticism of those with whom prohibition is a religion. We simply number ourselves among those who remember conditions as they were, look upon them as they are, and wonder what they will be when liquor is made lawful and liquor will make law. Our memory, our observation, and our prophetic instinct unite to warn us against beating an ignoble retreat from a noble experiment."

YOUTH AND ADVERTISING

Fifty years ago boys and girls were adept at weaving rag rugs, knotting quilts, carding wool, spinning homespun and stretching carpets. Today boys and girls know the entire abc of the automobile, the electric household utensils, and steam heat system, the aeroplane and the radio. But the youth of today knows little of what constituted the store of knowledge of the youth of yesterday.

The omniscience of youth in every era is ever amazing, but that of today would be inexplicable but for one thing more than all others. That is advertising. In the newspapers, magazines and poster boards children are finding a vast storehouse of practical and useful information and instruction. The value of this incidentally acquired knowledge can not be measured in classroom hours. The youth of America is finding that advertising pays it.

Psychologists have expounded the theory that truths are sometimes observed first by the adolescent. In the case of advertising it may truthfully be said that there are some of mature age who have not yet learned the value of advertising. Advertisers do not buy newspaper, magazine and billboard space for the edification of the public, either juvenile or adult, but they recognize the children of today are not only a potent factor in the business of today but the deciding factors in the business of tomorrow.

PROMISE PERSONALS

By Mrs. Bertha Carper (Observer Correspondent)
PROMISE (Special) — Violet and Jimmie Fishman, of Wallows, visited their aunt, Mrs. Nellie Fishman, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lindsey and Mrs. Jewell McDaniel and baby, of La Grande, came in Saturday and visited at the C. P. Carper and Frank Lindsey homes until Sunday evening. One Wynn, who with his brother, Con, operates a dairy near Reith, visited with W. and C. P. Carper and Leo Smith. He herded sheep here a few years ago and made many friends.

John Doud has strawberries ripening in fine shape. He furnished fresh berries for the dinner at the grange hall Saturday when over 200 persons were present. John claims he has the largest strawberry patch in the country. He has four acres of the everbearing variety and they are raised without irrigation.

Melvin Carper went to Powwaska Tuesday and is working for George Coleman. This section of the county was visited by a welcome shower of rain Wednesday evening. While it put a stop to haying, it will do much good to late hay, gardens and range. One farmer remarked that it would spoil his little potatoes; make big ones of them.

Charles Johnson, of Pilot Rock, was in Promise Monday looking after his sheep and a Mr. Elliott, of Elgin, was with him looking for some horses to buy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fishman, of Adler Slope, attended the Pomona grange Saturday and remained for a visit at Mrs. Nellie Fishman's. Sunday they all visited at Mrs. Lee Fishman's brother, Vesper Henderson's.

Ben Wheeler had the misfortune to cut his hand quite badly with an axe while splitting wood Friday. Ivan Garrett took him to Wallows where the wound was treated. Ben is carrying his hand in a sling and it will be some time before he can use it.

The Tucker brothers brought in another truck load of goods from Kennewick last week. They were accompanied by their mother, who remained with Mrs. Leo Tucker while they went for another load.

Eagles Defeat Ghouls 9 to 5 In Practice Tilt

By way of warming up for their coming game with the Elgin town team Sunday afternoon at the High school field, the La Grande Eagles baseball squad took Garity's Ghouls, a team of youngsters picked up by Bob Garity to give the Eagles some competition, to a 9 to 5 cleaning in a six-inning tilt last night.

Ray Knezevich, 15-year-old chucker who was a member of the American Legion Junior league team here, and who defeated the Eagles the last time he faced them playing for Elgin, didn't have the proper support for his fine hurling last night. It is generally expected that Knezevich will hurl for the visiting team next Sunday afternoon.

The Eagles team, with several vital changes in its lineup, namely Nichols at shortstop, Courtney and Hall alternating between the pitcher's box and first base, and Hal Cochran returned to the lineup and stationed in center field, worked smoothly throughout the entire six innings. It is expected that a similar lineup will start the game next Sunday afternoon.

Cohen New Hero Of Nordic Fans At Second Base

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Scandinavian Minneapolis thinks Andy Cohen is just swell.

Andy is the new second baseman of the Minneapolis American association club and the sports scribbles call Cohen the fans' darling. This brings recollections of the time Cohen tried to answer John McGray's prayer for a Jewish ball player to give the Bronx a new hero and accelerate the turnstiles. In this instance Andy has answered Donie Bush's prayer for a second baseman.

Cohen is hitting around .335 and is fielding well. He seems to have overcome his old weakness of doing his running in one place, which cost him major league prestige. Cohen became available for the league leading Millers when the high-priced Jack Saltgaver, an ex-Yankee, was sent over to Newark and got Andy's job.

Profit-Taking In Exchange Causes Temporary Losses

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP) — Bears took their profits on the sharp reaction in the stock market today, their purchases giving the list sharp support in the late dealings. The market ran into a backwash of selling from yesterday's slump in the second hour, and a number of issues were carried down about 1 to 3 points in extension of the even sharp losses of the previous session. But further losses were almost wholly regained under the influence of short covering and fresh buying in the last hour, and many issues recorded gains of fractions to a point over the previous close, but selling was resumed in the final dealings and most leaders closed with small losses.

POET'S CORNER

It is Only Men
One of ten million men or more
With hands so bruised and heart so sore.
Bearing the trials and sorrows of life,
Flooding along in the daily strife,
Trotting and struggling day after day,
Facing whatever may come his way.
With never a word of pain or hate,
For the sake of his loved ones at home who wait.
His coming from the daily pace,
So tired and worn, so wan his face,
Silent whenever the spruce command,
Bearing it all for the sake of them
To calm the way for his loved ones small.
He gives his life, he gives his all,
Doing with courage, so full of vim,
The deeds that his old Dad did for him:
Viewing so much that he wished he had
Been kind to him, "It's only Dad."
