Paris Stylists Launch War On Fashion Pirates

PARIS (AP)—An attack on "fashion pirates" who place false French labels in low-priced hats manufactured in the United States has been launched here with the signing of a protective agreement between 25 leading Paris milliners and 16 prominent American hat manufacturers. Under the agreement, formed between the Parisian designers and the Millinery Quality Guild having headquarters in New York, the American hat manufacturers pledged themselves to limit their purchases to the 25 Parisian milliners and to combat unauthorized use of their trademarks in low priced hats manufactured in the United States.

Labels To Be Numbered
Special numbered labels vouching for the authenticity of models will be manufactured in France and sold through the New York headquarters of the Millinery Quality Guild.

Members of the organization desiring labels will be forced to present consular invoices certifying the purchase of the hat in Paris and will be held responsible for the disposition of the numbered labels which they buy.

To Fix Price Of Copies
The guild, members of which include the largest and most widely known hat manufacturers in the United States, will also establish a minimum price for copies which its members make of hats purchased in Paris.

The 25 Parisian milliners are: Agnes, Talbot, Patou, Bruyere, Camille Roger, Reboux, Germaine Page, Lanvin, LeMonnier, Louis Burbon, Made Mainbocher, Molyneux, Rose Descat, Valois, Lewis, Marcelle Lely, Blanche et Simone, Marie Guy, Goupy, Gaby Mono, Marie Christiana, Marie Alphonso, Suez White and Martha.

Equal Rights Heaven
Women in Burma have equal rights with men where property is concerned. Indeed, husband and wife live on terms of greater equality there than in any other country of the world.

Millionaires in '61
Various opinions are held as to how many millionaires there were in the United States when the Civil war began. One writer says that there were but three. Others estimate that there were about fifty.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ELEPHANTS
WILL RANGE THEMSELVES ALONGSIDE OF A WOUNDED COMRADE AND ASSIST IT TO A PLACE OF SAFETY.

WHEN HAYDN SYMPHONIES WERE INTRODUCED IN NEW YORK, EGGS AND VEGETABLES GREETED THE MUSICIANS.

The SKELETON OF AN INSECT IS ON THE OUTSIDE OF ITS BODY!

CONCERT AUDIENCES of the 18th century were a severe trial for the performing artists. Conversations kept up right through the best concerts, and silence warnings were liberally scattered through the programs. With special requests that the "ladies be governed by a becoming silence and decorum." Egg and vegetable throwing was common, and the fear of having a ruined dress kept many a true music lover at home.

G. O. P. Changes Its Tactics As President Launches Offensive

By Byron Price
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Those who expected the Republicans to rely solely on a defensive attitude during the campaign have found several surprises in President Hoover's speech of acceptance. In conspicuous fashion, that speech marked a wide departure from Mr. Hoover's campaign strategy of four years ago. It is true that long passages were devoted to the glorification of Republican doctrines, after a manner reminiscent of 1928. But on the two most-discussed issues, the Republican nominee attacked the Democrats both directly and indirectly.

On the score of the depression, he warned repeatedly against "demagogues" and radical proposals, and set a whole string of "red" dangers against "destructive" Democratic tariff policies, treasury "raids," and "wild schemes" of inflation.

On the score of prohibition, he charged that the Democratic repeal proposal would bring back the saloon, attended by ruin, and asked the country to put its faith instead in a "sane solution."

In other words, Mr. Hoover clearly set out to brand the opposition as thoroughly undependable in a crisis and thoroughly wet.

A CHANGE FROM 1928
This all sounds very different from the Hoover campaign speeches of 1928, in which the very existence of the Democratic party and candidate were all but ignored. The change is readily understandable when changed political conditions are taken into account.

Four years ago, the Republican leaders were content to wage a somewhat colorless campaign. It fitted the times, and it fitted the Republican conviction that if Governor Smith, the Democratic nominee, were left alone, he would be defeated without much Republican effort. Smith made himself the issue, and politicians agree that hundreds of thousands just went out and voted "against Smith."

This year circumstances and the hammering of a never-sleeping Democratic headquarters in Washington have in large measure made Mr. Hoover the issue. Rightly or wrongly, his administration has become closely linked in many minds with the depression. The Democratic managers are hoping that if they themselves make no major blunders, millions will go out and vote "against Hoover."

Obviously, the Republicans have no intention of playing that end of the game if they can avoid it.

G. O. P. ON OFFENSIVE
The way to avoid it, the Republican managers think, is not only to defend what Mr. Hoover has done, but to take the aggressive along the principal salients of the campaign front.

Some of this had come out before, Mr. Hoover's speech emphasized it and put an authority behind it which is sure to have great effect in shaping the utterances of lesser Republican lights from now on.

How far it will change the Democratic plans does not yet appear. The Roosevelt leaders will not be diverted easily from their desire to keep the Republicans on the defensive, although, of course, they will take steps at once to divest themselves of the labels Mr. Hoover has sought to attach to them.

However, it comes out, the line of strategy indicated in Mr. Hoover's speech is sure to heighten public interest in the campaign, because the public does not like to see all of the blows struck by one side.

Ladybird and the Sun
In India and Egypt the ladybird has been associated from earliest times with the sun, and a comparison of the many versions of the nursery rhyme which still exist in England and in various European countries yields a similar result.

A good method of preserving valuable paper documents is to paste the sheet between two sheets of strong thin transparent material such as silk or Japanese tissue. This treatment adds strength to the paper and also delays the chemical
