choice. Cherry remembered the pink apron, got it out and tied it around her waist. Then she pushed up her sleeves and set to work. She forgot time in her eagerness to put the new homes to rights. At last she straightened from the suitcase over which she had been bending. Her back ached and she rubbed it. Cherry looked at the watch on her wrist. Almost two o'clock! Good gracious, was it so late as that? She realized she was tired and sank into a chair with a sigh. She had been working steadily since early morning. Dan's things had all been unpacked and put away. Most of her own hung in the closet. "I'm hungry," Cherry thought, "and there's nothing to eat."

Her arms and shoulders ached from the morning's exertion. Cherry decided to leave the room as it was. The really important event of the day was to be the evening meal. It would be the first she had ever cooked for Dan, the first in their own home. She thrilled at the thought! Marketing would be the first step. Cherry washed her face and hands, dabbed on powder and then got into her coat and hat. Just in time she remembered she must have her key and went back for it.

Hoover Continues to Remain Aloof From Republican Campaign Details

By Byron Price. President Hoover's continued attitude of aloofness from the details of the Republican campaign surprises no one who knows his personal inclinations and the pressure of his official duties. Of course he need not be expected to put politics entirely away from him; no president ever has done that in a presidential year or out of it. But it may be accepted that he will be less active than many of his predecessors in the usual maneuvers of a reelection campaign and will leave the minutiae of minor strategy to others. No one who has seen him at close range expects him, for instance, to enter into anything like a joint debate with his Democratic opponent or anyone else. Nothing is likely to change his determination to make few speeches. He may be counted on to stick close to Washington and to the problems of the present administration. These factors come as near to being absolute certainties as anything can be in politics.

BANKS ADOPT NEW POLICY

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Sept. 1 (AP)—All banks of Twin Falls county, including those here and at Buhl, Piler and Kimberly, today announced a moratorium restricting withdrawal of funds except for ordinary business and living expenses, to a maximum of five per cent per month of yesterday's balance.

FOLLOW PARTY TRADITION

There are several reasons for this, some political and some personal. On the political side there is the standing rule that the place for Republican presidential candidates is the caucus. Mr. Hoover is following a party tradition which has been fruitful of many victories in the past. McKinley and Harding, with their "front porch" campaign, followed that tradition to the White House. Coolidge followed it when he was a candidate for reelection, eight years ago, to the extent of wholly ignoring the direct questions of his opponent. The classic example on the other side is Hughes, who in 1916 whipped the country and left his White House chances buried behind him in the California election.

BUSY TIMES FOR HIM

The personal reasons behind the present Hoover policy arise from two considerations. In the first place, the hurly-burly of politics has little attraction for him. Only in later years of his life has he had any direct contact with it, and he never has appeared quite at home on the hustings. Probably his most unpleasant memories of the presidency will revolve about the annoyances and exasperations he has experienced with politics. In the second place, he has so mapped out his work as president that he has literally almost no time for anything else. He gets far down into detail in the handling of many public problems. He talks over national affairs with a constant stream of callers. His hours of sleep and of exercise are strictly limited, and on many of his weekend trips to the Rapidan camp he takes along those with whom he wants to talk business.

WON'T CHANGE HIS WAYS

How will all of this affect his chances in November? Some politicians think the picture of a president busy at his desk, refusing to be embroiled in partisan disputes or distracted by campaign clamor, will appeal strongly to the country in this time of stress. Others argue that traditions of other years are worthless; that the voters are likely to look on Mr. Hoover as somewhat "snoozy" and to prefer a candidate who climbs down into the arena and gives and takes hard blows. Everyone is entitled to his guess, but no one need expect the president to change his ways.

About Ourselves

To be honest with one's self and to keep faith with self is really the rock foundation for every successful career.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go. If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only waste the bowels and a mere movement down get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Bennett & Co. Distributors, 205 at all stores. © 1931 C. M. C.

J. W. KNOWLES TRYING CASE IN BAKER, ORE.

BAKER, Ore., Sept. 1 (Special)—A case having its origin in 1927, in which Floyd C. Vaughan is plaintiff and Adam and Amanda Kolb and the city of Baker are defendants, was being re-tried in circuit court here with Judge J. W. Knowles, of La Grande, presiding on the bench. The case involves rights to use the overflow water from the city reservoir on the hill west of Baker. The trial is being held without a jury.

The first trial took place in 1928, the complaint having been filed the year previous. A verdict returned in favor of Vaughan, was appealed to the Oregon supreme court, which remanded the case to the circuit court allowing Mr. Vaughan to amend his complaint.

Judge Knowles went Wednesday morning with George Henry, city water commissioner, and the attorneys, Blaine Hallock representing Mr. Vaughan, Frank C. McCulloch and William H. Strayer for Mr. and Mrs. Kolb, and Allan A. Smith acting for the city, to the reservoir hill and inspected the properties involved in the suit. After the return to the court room, the remainder of the day was filled with the statements of attorneys and hearing the testimony of Mr. Vaughan.

The TINYMITES. STORY BY HAL COCHRAN. PICTURES BY JOE KING.

THE TINYMITES. (READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE). THE dangling ladder, made of rope, gave every Tinymite new hope. They were rather hard to climb it, but they all stuck to the task. "We'll leave our small hands car behind," said Duncy, "but I do not mind. This ladder leads to some place new and what more can we ask?" "I think the talking had best stop until we reach the very top," said Scouty. "We're not out of here until we're on safe ground. We're foolish if we hesitate. This ladder's holding lots of weight. Just climb. We might get dizzy, if we start to look around."

Cost of Fighting Fires Much Less

SALEM, Sept. 1 (AP)—The cost of fighting fires in Oregon is approximately 50 per cent less than it was last year, State Forester Lynn Cronemiller has announced.

Losses from fires to date this year probably do not exceed $100,000, Cronemiller estimated, though he stated that all reports are not in yet.

Lieut. John W. Wofford, member of the U. S. Army riding team, was the only South Carolinian to credit his in the Olympics at Los Angeles. His home is in Laurens.
