Pennant Winners May Be Decided This Week -- Yanks Need Two Wins

CUBS TEN GAMES FROM PENNANT IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston Braves Win Double Header From Reds in Bid For First Division Berth.

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The major league finish line still is 14 days away, but with a little luck, both pennant races may be decided this week.

The New York Yankees are almost certain of clinching the American league flag within the next few days. They need only two victories to eliminate the sole remaining contenders, the Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators. In the National league, the Chicago Cubs are confronted with a sterner task. They need ten victories to eliminate the Pittsburgh Pirates, or any combination of victories, which, coupled with Pittsburgh defeats, totals ten. The odds are against any definite decision in the National league this week but it can be done if the Pirates hit the Skids.

Cubs Win Again

The Cubs stretched their lead over the idle Pirates to six full games yesterday by trimming the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-1, behind Guy Bush's eight-hit pitching. Gabby Hartnett's home run with Manager Charley Grimm on the paths, gave the Cubs their winning margin in the fourth inning. The defeat all but eliminated the Dodgers from the race.

The Boston Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds in both ends of a double header, 13-3 and 10-1, and drew to within a game and a half of the fourth-place Phillies. Tom Zachary and Ben Cantwell pitched steady ball for the Braves and had the benefit of some high-powered hitting by Dutch Holland, Wally Berger and Randy Moore. The St. Louis Cardinals retained their hold on sixth place by beating the New York Giants, 3-2, in the second game of a double header after taking a 7-3 beating in the opener.

Ferrell Stops Yanks

The Yankees made no progress in their march to the American league flag for they were stopped by Wes Ferrell and the Cleveland Indians, 5-4. Ferrell, making his first appearance after a ten day suspension, held the Yankees to eight hits and won his 21st game of the season. Johnny Allen suffered his first defeat in eleven starts.

Jimmie Foxx's 52nd homer with one on was the margin by which the Athletics beat the Detroit Tigers, 5-4. Washington made it 23 victories in 27 games by tripping the Chicago White Sox twice, 2-1 and 9-4, and moved to within one game of the Athletics.

The St. Louis Browns, after breaking an eight game losing streak in the first game, 7-1, dropped the second to the Boston Red Sox, 8-3. Dale Alexander poled a home run with the bases filled and two doubles in the second game.

Fight Postponed Because of Boil

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—A boil on Mickey Walker's left arm probably will force postponement of his 15-round bout with Max Schmeling until Friday, Sept. 23. The match, originally scheduled for Sept. 19, will be held in Madison Square Garden bowl on Long Island.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Alabama and Tennessee will be the two top-notch teams of the Southern conference this forthcoming football season, in the belief of Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech, to which our Atlanta observer, Dillon Graham, adds that Tulane, Vanderbilt and Possibly Georgia will also figure in the championship race.

Duke and Louisiana State, the preliminary check-up shows, will have much improved teams on the 1932 gridiron. Wallace Wade, in his second season at Duke, expects to have a lighter, faster and more intelligent outfit, its size at least presenting a contrast to the heavyweights who won championships under Wade's direction at Alabama for a number of years.

Captain "Biff" Jones warns his friends not to expect anything startling this year from Louisiana State. The former West Point coach, with Burt Ingwersen as his chief assistant, is still in the midst of installing the Warner wingback system and can hardly be counted upon for any startling results, although the main objective will, of course, be Tulane. Arkansas and Texas Christian are the only other "tough ones" on the L. S. U. schedule.

Vanderbilt, Graham reports, returns a large majority of its veterans of last year and should have a great team, even though the strenuous schedule for Dan McGugin's Commodores offers few if any breating spells. Vanderbilt, leaning toward the "new thought" in major league football, takes on Tulane, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama on successive Saturdays, in addition to playing North Carolina, Georgia and Maryland.

EARLY CRUCIAL GAME

The battle between Alabama and Tennessee, listed Oct. 15, at Birmingham, may have a decisive early bearing on the conference race. Last year Tennessee won 25 to 0 and the Volunteers of Knoxville look just about as strong as ever, in the pre-season dope, despite the loss of stars of the first magnitude like Herman Hickman, the roly-poly guard, and Gene McEver, backfield powerhouse.

Beattie Feathers, who showed easterners some fancy stepping in the charity game Tennessee won from New York university last December, is picked to gain just as much fame as Dodd, Hickman and McEver.

At Alabama, Coach Frank Thomas will build his team around "Hurry" Cain, the fullback-quarterback. The Tide has a pair of intersectional games this year and Georgia Tech faces a long jaunt to Berkeley for a tussle with the University of California.

ZIMMERMAN 'ENOUGH

Harry Mehre, at Georgie, complains about the lack of adequate reserves and replacements for the loss of twelve regulars but the Bulldogs will likely be tough for anyone to beat. Tulane has lost Dalrymple, Glover and Haynes, three big cogs in the 1931 championship team, but the Green Wave has a whole backfield in Don Zimmerman, who spent part of his summer pole vaulting in California.

Florida and Virginia figure to have improved teams. South Carolina, Kentucky and Georgia Tech will, as the boys say, be "troublesome," even though they are not headed anywhere in particular so far as the championship is concerned.

The new coaches in the south this year include Ted Cox, who took Bernie Bierman's place at Tulane; Biff Jones at Louisiana State; Henry B. Redd, former freshman coach; at Virginia Poly; Tatum Gressette, at the Citadel, Charleston, S. C.; Doc Newton and Gene McEver, at Davidson, Noreh Carolina; and Paul McLeod at Furman university, Greenville, S. C.

VOTERS OF TEN STATES AT POLLS

in the efforts of two former congressmen, Cramton and Hudson, to win Republican renomination. Each was an active prohibitionist, and each was defeated two years ago by an anti-prohibitionist. Candidates for state offices and 17 house seats also will be named by Michigan voters.

Prohibition echoes also from the state of Washington where Senator Jones, author of the "five and ten" law which put new teeth in prohibition enforcement, is opposed for renomination by Adam Beeler. Four men, Stephen Chadwick and Edwin Brown of Seattle, Homer T. Bone of Tacoma, and Lloyd Black of Everett, seek the Democratic nomination.

WALLOWA, UNION REQUESTS GIVEN TO ROAD HEADS

the head of Wallowa lake; designation of the Little Sheep creek road —which eventually will lead to the grand canyon of the Snake, deeper and narrower than the grand canyon of the Colorado—as a secondary highway; and a reminder of a former commission's promise to complete the Oregon portion of the Lewiston-Enterprise highway, which is now nearing completion on the Washington side.

In connection with the first request, Mr. Burleigh pointed out that in spite of Wallowa county's small population, the road is the most heavily traveled unoiled piece of highway in the state of Oregon, due to the thousands that go to Wallowa lake resort.

Judge U. G. Couch, of Union county, asked that the Starkey-Ukiah road be designated as a secondary highway. Union county is completing its section of the road but forest funds are needed to continue the work.

The commissioners, on their first official trip to Eastern Oregon this year, took the requests under advisement. During the latter part of the meeting, which continued for more than three hours, the commissioners and Union and Wallowa county people gathered around a large map of this district and held a round-table discussion.

Mr. Reynolds Presides

Charles H. Reynolds, of La Grande, presided at the meeting and introduced the members of the official group—Chairman Leslie Scott, Commissioner E. B. Aldrich, of Pendleton; Secretary H. B. Glaisyer, Engineer R. H. Baldock and Attorney J. M. Devers.

Mr. Scott spoke at length on the highway commission's problems, pointing out the financial difficulties that exist due to a shrinkage in revenue occasioned by a dropping off of license fees and gasoline tax revenue.

He said that if the next legislature lowered the cost of automobile licenses, it would result in further shrinkage in revenue, and necessitate the abandonment of much new construction.

The problem at present is to maintain the present highways, construct some new projects where greatly needed and at the same time reduce the bonded indebtedness, Mr. Scott said, adding that the highway commission was doing its best to follow this program.

The speaker mentioned the Portland route to the sea, the only major new project, and said that while there were nine other short routes to the sea from other Western Oregon cities, Portland had none at present, and he felt the metropolis was entitled to this project.

Mr. Aldrich spoke briefly, praising Mr. Scott and his work, and in general discussing matters from the standpoint of Eastern Oregon. He pointed out the fact that although population in this section is not so heavy as in Western Oregon, the area and mileage of highways resulted in a much greater portion of federal funds for the state as a whole, and mentioned this as one very strong argument for a fair share of work in Eastern Oregon, in spite of arguments often advanced by residents of more thickly populated sections of the state.

The meeting was very well attended, although it did not begun until 8:45, due to late arrival of the officials from Pendleton, where they attended the final day of the Round-Up in the afternoon.

Carideo Maps Out 3-Point Program To Show Missourians How To Win

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—With a three point program stressing "smart" football players, the Notre Dame system and the unified support of undergraduates and townspeople, Frank Carideo, a freshman in the coaching business, will attempt to overcome the obstacles which led to Gwinn Henry's departure from Missouri.

Despite a nine-game schedule which pits his Tigers against Northwestern in the season opener just three weeks after practice begins, the former All-America quarterback is hopeful of making a good showing.

Fourteen lettermen from last year's squad will be on deck, including Carl Johanningmeier, Percy Gill and George Stuber, backfield stars. Stuber played at quarterback; Gill's specialty was punting; while Johanningmeier was both a ball carrier and kicker. Capt. Kenneth Kerby, tackle, is expected to be one of the mainstays of the line.

Ball Carriers Speedy

Much of the available backfield material inclines toward speed rather than size, but Missouri fans believe this may be a favorable factor in adapting it to the Notre Dame system.

A good showing of his new charges in scholarship was especially pleasing to Carideo.

"A man smart enough to play the right kind of football," Rockne's old field general says, "will be smart enough to get passing grades in his studies."

Last spring, following his appointment, Carideo issued an appeal to townspeople for whole-hearted support of the team. Now he's engaged in a continuation of his campaign to make them "football-minded."

Alumni Still Split

One of the hurdles facing Carideo, whose only coaching experience was obtained last year as assistant under Noble Kizer at Purdue, is the dissension among alumni largely responsible for Henry's resignation under fire.

One group, pointing out that Henry had developed fine teams in six of his nine years at Missouri, winning three conference titles and coming close to three others, favored Henry's retention.

Went On Strike

The opposing group, apparently more articulate, was dissatisfied with the team's poor showing last fall. Aligned with the latter faction were parents of some football candidates who believed their sons had not been given enough chances at gridiron glory.

Following Henry's resignation the entire football squad went "on strike" in protest against what they considered unfair treatment of their coach.

Elgin Schools Start Autumn Term This Week

By Mrs. Lynn Hill
(Observer Correspondent)

ELGIN (Special) — School opened here this Monday with only one teacher who was not employed last year. The High school teachers are P. C. Smith, principal, Lillian Arnold and Melvin Parker. Edwin Rogers is teaching the seventh and eighth grades, Helen Reed, fifth and sixth, Mildred Schnore, third and fourth, Bernice Schnore, second and third, Stella Mayfield, first. Painting of the interior, as well as repairing, including re-shingling of the west side of the roof, has been completed, which adds very decidedly to the attractiveness of the building.

David Jones and his nephew, Fred Miller, of Walla Walla, spent this week with relatives in Union and Wallowa counties. They spent one night with Mr. Jones' sisted, Mrs. J. C. Shelton, then drove to Joseph where they visited several days. On their return they were guests of Mr. Jones' brother, Joe Jones. They returned home Thursday.

Frank Smith, of Portland, is in Elgin on business this week. Mr. Smith is well known to all the older residents of the county having been in business in Elgin in the earlier days. He still holds sufficient property to bring him here frequently.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Smith arrived in Elgin last week to prepare for the opening of school. They will make their home in the Guy Patten residence formerly occupied by the J. F. Ravenscroft family. Their son will spend the winter here with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Parker have taken up their residence in the property known as the George Smith house, which is now owned by Mrs. William Wade.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson and children visited his mother, Mrs. John Wickens, and his brothers and sisters here last week. They have made their home in Rakima for the past year.

Glenn Jones left Friday for Echo where he will be employed for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giltner and sons spent last week visiting relatives at Lewiston. On their return they brought with them a niece and nephew, Edith and Charles Simonson, of Craigmont, Ida., who will enter the lastl High school.

BEAVERS DROP 6 GAMES TO STARS

in Week—Returns Home in Week—Return Home With Five-Game Lead.

By the Associated Press

Hollywood won three week-end games from Portland to take the series six games to two and reduce the Beavers' lead in the league to five games. The Stars took the first Sunday game, 6 to 5, breaking a tie with the winning run in the last half of the ninth. In addition to outpitching two Beaver hurlers in the nightcap, Emil Yde, Star hurler tripled in the seventh and final frame and scored the tying run which paved the way for victory. The Stars won, 4 to 3. Batteries, first game, Portland, Bowman, Prudhomme, Jacobs and Fitzpatrick; Hollywood, Shellenback and Bassler; second game, Peterson, Shores and Palmisano; Yde and Bassler.

Sacramento's Senators climaxed their recent string of victories by taking three games over the week-end to jump from fifth to third place. They beat the Angels twice Sunday, 4 to 2 in the morning at Stockton, and 9 to 3 at home in the afternoon. Los Angeles won only one of the eight games in the series. Lauri Vinci let the Angels down with but four safeties in the first Sunday contest. In the second game Salvo outpitched three southern moundsmen. The series ended the home season for the Sacs, the team leaving on a three weeks' road tour. Batteries: first game, Los Angeles, Ward, Curtis and Cronin; Sacramento, Vinci and Woodall; second game, Moncrief, Ballou, Baecht and Campbell; Salvo and Wirts.

Phil Page, Seattle moundsman, had a big day against San Francisco, pitching and winning two games for the Indians, 5 to 2 and 7 to 2. Frank Cox caught both games. Page held the Seals to seven hits in each game, the latter a seven-inning affair. Seattle won the series, six games to two. Batteries: first game, Seattle, Page and Cox; San Francisco, Simoni and Brenzel, Ricci; second game, Page and Cox; Stine and Walgren.

The Missions won a doubleheader from Oakland, 5 to 2 and 2 to 1, but Oakland won the series, five games to three. Herman Pillette pitched effectively for the Reds in the second game, holding the Oaks to four hits. Oscar Eckhardt, Mission outfielder, led the hitting in the opener with five safe blows. Batteries: first game, Missions, Cole and Hoffman; Oakland, Phebus and Raimondi; second game, H. Pillette and Lapeyri; Steengrafe and Penebsky.

ENROLLMENT LOWER THAN 1931 SEASON

the Ackerman school last year was 162, and this year is 166.

The grade schools met in their respective buildings, while High school students gathered at the L. D. S. tabernacle for an assembly at 9 o'clock and again this afternoon at 1 o'clock to complete the arrangements for enrollment. Tomorrow morning classes will start at their regular time, utilizing the L. D. S. tabernacle, and the recreational hall, Honan hall and the Methodist church, the Lutheran church and the Industrial Arts building of the High school. Colon R. Eberhard, chairman of the school board, and Principal A. L. Gralapp addressed the students, after which they were dismissed.

No New Teachers

Because of the uncertainty entertained by the officials as to the size of the enrollment, no new teachers have been hired in the grade schools to fill vacancies left last year. Until the enrollment becomes fairly well fixed, substitutes will fill the vacancies. They are Hervey Carter, who will fill a temporary position in the upper grades in the Central school; Miss Ruth Fraser, an intermediate position in the Riveria; Mrs. Ruth Green, in the primary department at Riveria; and Miss June Coolidge, intermediate department at Greenwood. All are graduates of the Eastern Oregon Normal school and Mrs. Green and Miss Fraser have had previous teaching experience.

Later this week, Andrew Loney Jr., director of music at the High school, will start band practice and expects to have the organization ready to play for the opening football game on Oct. 1.

Raymond O. Williams, school clerk, left yesterday for Portland to attend the American Legion convention in Portland. Mr. Williams is enjoying a few days vacation, having been on duty at his office during the entire summer.

Work of cleaning up the wreckage at the High school has begun, and workmen are being hired by the fireman, M. A. Smith.

Old English Carnival

In October is held the goose fair, believed to be the oldest existing carnival of its kind in England. The sheriff of Nottingham gives a big ball to which all the mayors and mayoresses of the land are invited. It is supposed to be held to aid the lace trade and each guest is asked to wear some article of lace, old or new, who in turn receives a Nottingham lace handkerchief.

Leap Year Bride

I'll let you see your mother just as soon as it's wise."

He was gone. Sarah, who had been listening all the while, came across the room.

"Maybe if you'd lie down, honey," she said softly, "you'd feel better. You'd best do like the doctor says and try to just be quiet."

Cherry shook her head. "I couldn't, Sarah. But don't bother about me. I'll be all right."

The older woman put her arms around the girl. "We've got to pray!" she said fervently. "It's only the Lord who can help us now. We've got to pray he'll spare your mother, darling."

Cherry's face seemed to have taken on a mask-like quality. "Yes," she said as though she had not understood the words, "pray. That's it." Her voice had become a monotone. "That's what we have to do—pray."

She sank to the luxurious satin cushions of the chaise longue. Sarah regarded her uncertainly for a moment and then turned and left the room.

For Cherry it was the beginning of a vigil that seemed endless. She sat amid surroundings that had once been as familiar as her own features in the mirror. The room was done in rose and blue. The ivory-tinted furniture. That window looking out over the garden. This carpet, soft as down beneath her feet. All of it was exactly as it had been and yet everything was different.

"I'm to blame," the girl told herself bitterly. "It's my fault. If Mother dies I'm the one who'll be responsible!"

The tears would not come now. Cherry sat immobile as a statue. Once when she heard footsteps in the hall she arose and went to the door. It was the nurse again. She put a finger to her lips and shook her head.

Cherry returned to her seat. After a time she heard steps again and knew it was the doctor.

Sunset came and then dusk. The sky outside was darkening when someone entered the room.

"Father!" Cherry exclaimed, half-rising.

The man on the threshold said grimly, "Dr. Knowles is waiting."
