

Eggs Higher In Oregon Market; Demand Gaining

PORTLAND, Sept. 23 (P)—Further advance in the price of eggs here indicates the continuance of the strengthening movement. While the late movement showed a fractional increase, the gain was not as liberal as the increase in demand.

While only the smaller stuff—mediums and pullets—were advanced for the day, the entire trade took on a firmer aspect. Strength in the eastern markets was continued although much of the demand was going into the ice house goods, which distributors were so anxious to push.

Total receipts of eggs in Portland this year to date are only fractionally over those of a year ago for the like period with much of the early shortage eliminated by late increase over the corresponding period in 1931.

General butter market appears about steady here and along the Pacific slope generally. Decrease shown in reported in most sections. State receipts here are smaller for the week to date while centralizer make is also smaller. No price change.

There was no change in the live poultry trade for Friday. This applies to both demand and the price list. All chickens are moving within the price limits quoted. Ducks are in oversupply and again lower.

Evidently the country is very anxious to sell turkeys of the new crop. Offerings are greatly increased although receivers at this end are trying to discourage shipments until trade is better established. Prices continued nominally.

Demand for peaches is continued here with prices intact at the recent advance. Clings continue in best call, especially the orange. General quality is quite good.

There is an overbid in the market for Concord type grapes. Demand for all grapes is slow and prices low. This applies to both juice and table varieties. The regular juice making season has not been generally started.

Stronger trading tone is suggested in the market for tomatoes. While receipts are fairly liberal, demand is very keen and more than sufficient to take care of offerings. Some betterment in the price.

Owing to the better demand, prices are fractionally advanced again in the market for pickling cucumbers. The chief shortage continues in the No. 3 or dill size.

Notes of wholesale trading: Lemons again show a temporary famine here.

Cranberry sales continue nominal with price as chief factor.

Country killed hogs and lambs are easy; veal remains firm.

Hop market continues firm at recent advance with offerings scant.

Cabbage trade continues to weaken with quality better.

Cauliflower market is weak and with some overbid of 2s.
