Chile Recoverey Speeded Up As Election Nears

By Harold P. Braman

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The government is intensifying its efforts to have the nation in good economic condition before the October 30 elections, in which voters will select delegates to a convention which will write a new socialistic constitution.

Continuing the government program, which previously had set September 10 as the approximate date for the elimination of unemployment in Chile, President Carlos Davila has declared "war on all economic fronts against the crisis."

Government Backs Campaign

By a campaign of propaganda, advertising, motion picture films and mass meetings, the government expects to cut down unemployment to a minimum, increase production to a figure approximating "good times," and bolster public confidence in the peso, the latter an admittedly huge task.

Labor Minister Juan Rosetti, one of the president's closest advisers, has initiated a drive for higher salaries for employes of all classes.

In itself, the move is viewed as an official admission that the peso has slumped so far, that present wages are insufficient in the face of the increased cost of living.

Cabinet Bucks Speculation

The entire cabinet is assisting the new price control board in an endeavor to eliminate speculation in prime necessities. There has been some hoarding by middlemen, and unless stocks are released there are indications they may be seized. Daily prices for meats, bread and other foodstuffs are set by the board.

The mint has placed in circulation several hundred thousand of the new one-peso piece. Much smaller than the old peso, and containing far less silver, this new coin is designed to eliminate hoarding of silver money, for intrinsically it is worth little.

Hundreds of thousands of the old heavy silver peso are out of circulation, because they are of higher intrinsic value than the present street rating of the official peso.

Exchange Furnishes Problem

A difficult problem is solving the exchange question. So little foreign exchange is available that imported prime necessities cannot be obtained except by barter or by cutting into what gold reserve the Central bank still holds.

Some wheat has been purchased outright in Argentina, but the government wants to exchange wines, nitrate and copper hereafter for all imported products.

POLING ASKS SUPPORT FOR PROHI LAWS

problem would be solved and they stopped their extensive program of education. The younger generation which never saw the saloons now believe that the present problem is far worse than the old system as a result, he said.

An Opportunity

The 18th amendment was an opportunity to solve the liquor problem, he adds. Prohibition destroyed the legar liquor traffic and now the people must take advantage of their opportunity and direct their action toward the destruction of illicit traffic, the noted prohibitionist declared.

"Why do we have the 18th amendment?" the speaker asked. The country, he said, tried al lother plans and they failed; the nation tried moral suasion, education, county and city option, state control, but the liquor traffic failed to abide by the law of the American people for financial gain. Finally the amendment was reached by reluctance but was achieved not by what the people did to make it a reality but what the liquor traffic was, Dr. Poling said.

Dr. Poling does not believe that there is more drinking and rampant lawlessness now, although he recognizes the present evil which, he says, is better than license ever was.

Ridicules Statement

A three-cent tax on each bottle of beer consumed would amount to a billion dollars over night and wipe out the treasury deficit, some have said. Dr. Poling stated that the editor of the Christian Science Monitor found, after calculation, that if such a sum were to be raised with the tax that each family in the United States would have to consume 12½ gallons of beer a day.

To better conditions, he believes, all enforcement in the state of Oregon should not be withdrawn, but those that have been started should be completed. Dr. Poling urged his audience to vote this fall so as to retain the prohibition enforcement measure in the state police of Oregon since, he believes, the small corps of federal men will not be able to handle the situation.

"Repeal is not a prohibition question," the dry leader states, "but I am appealing to your patriotism when I ask you to vote against repeal. If enforcement is taken out of Oregon then it will be like a thief who has been captured but has no one to convict him. Repeal means literally secession." Dr. Poling declares, however, that he believes in the moral integrity of the American people.

Dr. Poling is a former Oregonian and believes that he is fully acquainted with conditions in the state.

Copied British Usage

The reason usually advanced for the dollar mark being put before the figures in American money is that the English colonists were accustomed to place the mark for the British pound before the figures, so did the same with the dollar mark.

First Exposition

The Centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876 was really the first in this country, although an Exhibition of Industry of All Nations was held in New York in 1853, with several foreign governments participating.

Register of Deeds Carl Prigden of Kinston, N. C., refused to issue a marriage license to a negro man, 95, and woman, 81, because they had only $4 of the regular $5 fee.

SECOND PARADE TODAY

SALEM, Sept. 29 (AP) — The second parade of the week marked the start of Corvallis and Beton county day at the Oregon State fair today. A special train brought the Oregon State college band, the Corvallis American Legion drum corps and several hundred visitors who formed into a line of March for the trek to the fairgrounds.

Salem day yesterday produced the largest crowd at the fair this week, with an estimated 23,267 in attendance. Perfect weather continues to lend much to the success of the event, while the rodeo and stampede attractions have been playing to almost capacity stands.

Janey Sooysmith, 13, of Portland, and Burdette Robinson, 12, Tygh valley, Wasco county, were declared by judges to be the healthiest boy and girl engaged in boys' and girls' club work in the state of Oregon. There were 11 counties in this competition.

The trophy cup for outstanding 4-H club Jersey exhibits at the fair was this year won by Stonewall Jackson, of Clackamas county, who won three firsts, a second and an eleventh, on five cows exhibited, and also received championship on senior yearling heifer.

State police last night closed 21 games of chance operating in connection with the Oregon State fair. Four dice and marble lotteries were closed previously. Police said none of the games would be allowed to reopen.

Mrs. Stoddard Is Elected Head Of Stake Primary

Mrs. David I. Stoddard was elected president of the stake primary association of the Union stake of the L. D. S. church at a meeting last night at Union. The new president will replace Mrs. Ellen Stoddard who has served for 30 years in that capacity. Mrs. Emma Wilde was elected first councillor, and Mrs. Clark Webb, second.

Sixty-three attended the association meeting, including all officers of each of the six wards.

Each class in the primary will learn a dance during the coming winter, and each was demonstrated last night by the play leaders of the various wards, and by miss Zina Zaugg, of La Grande, stake play leader.

Each of the ward officers was instructed by the presidents, after which the new course of study was started. This winter's program will include a study of the lives and compositions of famous composers in the field of music. Beethoven was studied last night, the discussion including a picture of his life and how he wrote the "Moonlight Sonata." Miss Barbara Hiatt, of La Grande, played the sonata.

Community singing and refreshments served by the stake board closed the program.
