

Recent Advance In Butter Mart Spurs Movement

PORTLAND, Sept. 29 (AP) — Recent advance in the price of undergrade butter created a rather liberal movement in this direction from out-of-state points. Total receipts here recently showed a very liberal increase as a result. There was continued decrease in the local churning with centralizers keenly seeking butterfat supplies.

There was no change in the price list for the day; cubes being stationary on the open market as well as on the produce exchange.

Demand continues best for cubes below the extra grade, the latter being inclined to drag somewhat.

Storage withdrawals continue heavy which adds to the supply of fresh churning.

Trading in the egg market locally and along the coast generally suggests a rather firm tone with maintained values. In the midwest the situation appears a trifle easier.

Prices are continued on a weak basis for light and medium weight hens along the wholesale way and are generally 7 to 8c respectively with California values just about double that.

Very little, if any, change is suggested in the market for turkey prices which remain more or less on a nominal basis. The shipping demand is said to have been filled and local call is not sufficient to establish values.

In the market for country killed meats, there was no change of moment in the price. Veal is about steady as are hogs with lambs in good call for top stuff.

There is quite a good movement of new crop honey and fully steady prices are continued. Most sales of 12 ounce are around $3.10 and 10 ounce $2.85 case. This is for top quality.

Further price recession is generally showing in the market for tomatoes: the result of very liberal supplies and inability of the trade to absorb. Practically nothing selling above 20c box. Notes of wholesale trading:

New arrivals of artichokes are due, also brussels sprouts from California. Peach trading is still steady with practically no price changes.

Head lettuce is weaker and generally lower with a spread of 50 to 75c crate.

Cauliflower sales for shipping are slowly gaining but No. 1 quality is scarce.

Salmon and halibut prices are firm, but unchanged.
