COOLIDGE TO SPEAK FOR G. O. P. CAUSE

(Continued from Page One) quoting him as saying Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been in a "constant haze" during the past 12 years on tariff issues. The statement in part said: "There is just one issue that the opposition has brought out that I am not going to meet," said Mr. Roosevelt at Minneapolis on Aug. 13, 1920. "Senator Harding has been talking of the tariff. I can only remind him that the tariff issue has been a dead one for several years since the tariff commission was created and put to work." "In the present campaign Mr. Roosevelt in advocating repeal of the flexible tariff provisions has reversed himself on his position of 1920 when he emphasized the importance of an expert tariff board."

FIRESTONE FOR HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A prediction that business will improve steadily if President Hoover is re-elected in November was made today by Harvey Firestone, automobile tire magnate, following a talk with the president.

13 STOCK TRUCKS HELPED THROUGH FARMER PICKETS

(Continued from Page One) er, was given a police escort in St. Paul late last night after falling off a truck. Two pickets hurled clubs through a truck windshield. Near Dawson 150 chickens were freed from a truck because the driver insisted on going to market. Increasing farm product prices by preventing marketing of non-perishables is the aim of the pickets.

WILLIAMS DEAD BUT PUPILS KEEP FOOTBALL SYSTEM ALIVE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Henry "Doc" Williams, famed football strategist and inventor of the Minnesota shift, is dead, but the Western conference will see football this year much as he would have it played. Two exponents of Williams football, Bernie Bierman and Ossie Soles, now are head coaches at Big Ten schools, Bierman at his alma mater, Minnesota, and Soles at Iowa.

"RATTLESNAKE PETE" DEAD

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—Peter Gruber, whose knowledge of venomous snakes made him internationally famous as "Rattlesnake Pete," died at his home today. He was 76. He was one of Rochester's best known citizens and proprietor of a widely known museum and snake "ranch."

REED LAUNCHES ATTACK IN IOWA ON PRES. HOOVER

(Continued from Page One) administration. The result, he declared, was the springing up of large "superholding companies" whose stocks were thrown on the market "for gambling." He named specifically the Inland corporations, but said there were many other similar projects launched.

Foreign Trade Falls Off

He charged that as food administrator, Hoover fixed the maximum price of wheat at $2 per bushel in the United States, while in foreign countries it was selling at considerably higher prices.

Crowd Cheers Speaker

A crowd estimated by Coliseum officials at 5000 cheered the speaker throughout and broke into a long cheer as he finished with a tribute to Governor Roosevelt as the man to extricate this country from the morass in which it has been involved. Of what President Hoover termed "Fork barrel" legislation and contended committed the Democratic party to a policy of creating an unsound currency and unstable financial situation, Reed declared that "it is enough to say that if the Garner bill is 'in lard up to his eyes.' Indeed, he is the responsible author for that kind of legislation," he asserted recalling that "at a conference of governors in New Orleans in 1928, the president advocated adoption of a $3,000,000,000 public works program."

Senator Reed said the Garner bill 'simply puts this proposal of Mr. Hoover into effect.'

The opening sections of Reed's speech were devoted to picturing Hoover as a prophet. The former senator said the president in his Des Moines speech and elsewhere has told the people that he has plans to restore prosperity and that these plans will certainly work.

Pictures Hoover As Prophet

"It will be observed, however," Reed said, "that none of them can be demonstrated a trill after the election. What we are asked to accept, therefore, is Mr. Hoover's prophecies." He quoted "prophecies" he said the president has made in the past and then recited statements from various sources as to their "fulfillment," which he said showed Mr. Hoover's unreliability as a prophet.

"Surely the time has come when we should cease to place confidence in either the prophecies or the schemes of Mr. Hoover," Reed declared.

"If he has accomplished anything, it is the establishment of a series of capitalistic socialism," he concluded in rounding out this phase of his address.

"For I assert that it is as socialist in principle to take the moneys from the people by taxation and loan it and the government credit to assist great banks, trust companies, railroads and other large institutions, because they are in distress, as it would be to impound the national wealth to take care of the mass of men and women who also are in distress."

In referring to the body of Mr. Hoover's speech as a "series of incorrect statements and unjustifiable deductions," Reed added, "but there is one thread which runs through it all, namely, that it is the duty of the United States to sustain the financial structure of the world." He declared this to be the natural view of a man "who has spent 23 years of his adult life abroad x x x who came here with a scheme to reduce the price of American farm product, and who, without authority of law, carried his scheme into effect and thus laid the foundations for agricultural bankruptcy."

REED INVITED ATTENTION OF HIS AUDIENCE

"to the picture of Mr. Hoover weeping over the misfortunes of the American farmer," declaring the president never had been a farmer, but "had been a promoter of mines and mining stocks."

GARNER EXPECTS MODIFICATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, said today he believed "there is a distinct possibility that there will be some form of modification of the Volstead act to bring about the return of beer before March 4." "My guess," he said, "is that there will be some legislation for modification of the Volstead act when congress meets for the short session in December. I believe this will happen because of the demands of the Democratic platform and the statements by Democratic congressmen, many of whom are now up for re-election. It is practically certain that such legislation will be acted upon in the house." The speaker added that "of course, I can't speak for the senate."

SMITH TO SPEAK OCT. 13

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is to make his first appearance as a speaker in the Democratic campaign next Thursday.

She's Broke—No Joke!

Helen Menken's face may be her fortune, but when it comes to actual cash the famous Broadway stage star hasn't got a cent. And besides being broke, she is $20,000 in debt, so she has filed a petition in bankruptcy claiming that the dunning of her creditors is threatening to ruin her artistic career.

KLAMATH FALLS MAN GIVEN LONG TERM IN PRISON

(Continued from Page One) Hogue, was sentenced to serve 18 months in federal prison. Woodrow Triplett, 20, Klamath Falls high school youth, and employed by Hogue as a taxi driver, was sentenced to serve one year in a federal road camp, and granted a parole. The court said leniency was extended "because you did not take the stand, and testify to things that were not true."

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 11 (AP)—James H. Dearing, 75, justice of the peace at Oakland, Oregon, returned to his ranch at Green Valley, 11 miles northwest of that town, this morning after having been lost in the woods west of his place since Sunday morning.

Dearing went to his farm Sunday to investigate a small fire on a section of the ridge, and who entered a plea of blame, he left the farm, became confused in his direction and wandered for several miles in a westerly route to the head of Yellow creek, a tributary of the Umpqua river. Late in the afternoon he found a cabin with which he was familiar and picked up a homeward trail only to lose this when dusk fell. He continued to wander aimlessly throughout the greater part of Monday, after having camped at night, but late in the afternoon spotted smoke from a forest fire burning north of his ranch and set his course toward it. He arrived back at his ranch this morning about 8:30 o'clock. Although he had been without food since Sunday, he was in good physical condition.
