

Coast Championship May Be Decided Saturday When Cards Meet Trojans

TWO OF LEADING ELEVENS TO VIE; CARDS FAVORED

Oregon, Upset Saturday By Bruins 12 to 7, Will Tackle Idaho; Beavers Play W. S. C.

By Russell J. Newland (Associated Press Sports Writer) SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17 (AP)—All the thrills and spills of last weekend's football upheavals were recalled today as far western fans picked over results that now are a matter of record, and at the same time looked forward to Saturday's schedule that will decide another leg in the coast conference championship race.

The two undefeated giants of the conference, Southern California and Stanford, will come together Saturday at Palo Alto in a game that may decide the title in mid-season. Between 80,000 and 90,000 rosters are expected to turn out for the clash that will pit the old master, "Pop" Warner, of Stanford, against his keener rival, Coach Howard Jones.

Not since 1926 has Stanford defeated Southern California in the great American college game. The 1927 encounter ended in a tie and U. S. C. won the succeeding four Stanford's Year.

Those who cheer for Stanford believe this is the year. Warner's Indians have improved consistently from week to week. Saturday they trounced the West Coast Army eleven, 26-0. Substitutes shouldered the burden of the work. On the same day, Southern California was hard pressed to eke out a 6-0 win over Loyola of Los Angeles although there is no doubt Coach Jones was conserving in every way preparatory for the big game a week from today.

Southern California's two conference wins to date were gained over Washington State and Oregon State by scores of 20-0 and 10-0 respectively. Stanford's one conference appearance resulted in a 27-0 victory over Oregon State.

Hears Play Huskies

California's Bears, defeated 7-2 Saturday by Washington State, in a contest that upset a lot of predictions, will face Washington's Huskies this weekend at Seattle. Washington's conference activities thus far resulted in a scoreless tie with Oregon. The Huskies were idle Saturday while their coach, Jimmy Phelan, scouted the Bears.

What Phelan saw was enough to make his team the favorite over the Bears. Washington State overtopped California throughout most of the game, scoring a touchdown in the second quarter; staving off three touchdown drives and then presenting two points to the opposition in a misplay that saw the center pass the ball out of the end zone to permit a safety.

Washington State's brilliant victory resulted from almost perfect team play, with sparkling individual performances by Ollie Arbelide, quarterback, and George Sargent, halfback, as contributing factors. Arbelide's 45-yard runback of a punt aided by great blocking accounted for the touchdown while Sargent added the try for point with a placekick.

U. S. C. Plays Beavers

The victory gave Washington State a 500 per cent standing in the conference and shattered California's hopes for the title. Next Saturday Washington State will take on Oregon State in what promises to be a tough battle.

A fourth conference game will pit Oregon against Idaho, at Moscow. Oregon's chances for the title received a serious setback Saturday when the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins snatched a thrilling win from the air by a score of 13-7. Until the last five minutes of play, the Northern team was leading 7-0. U. C. L. A. made a 79-yard drive for a touchdown but was still a point behind through failure to convert the extra point.

With seconds to play, Quarterback Frankovich tossed a pass from behind his goal line to Livesey, halfback. The latter caught the oval on the 31-yard line and ran to another touchdown while the gun ended the game as he passed the 50-yard mark. It was one of the most spectacular plays ever witnessed in that section and likewise upset all pre-game calculations.

Spaulding Bewildered

The end came so suddenly and unexpectedly that even Coach Bill Spaulding of UCLA did not realize his team had won and when Coach Callison of Oregon crossed the field to congratulate him, he was bewildered. As Callison walked away however, Spaulding saw what had happened and rushed after the Oregon coach to acknowledge his congratulations. Spaulding was busy with his players, preparing to send in a substitute and missed the sensational play that brought him the victory over Oregon for which he has been striving for five years.

A majority of the spectators were also stunned by the spectacular climax of the game and many remained for several minutes to gaze their composure.

Idaho Wins

Idaho won its first conference game at the expense of Montana by a 19-6 score in an encounter that was not expected to be determined by such a lopsided margin. The Grizzlies had been figured as practically even opposition for the Vandals.

In other engagements this weekend, Montana will line up against an old-time foe, Montana State, while U. C. L. A. will take on California Tech. Neither game will have a bearing on the conference race.

Burns of San Diego, who signs himself an ex-ball player and fan and makes the mistake of giving us an argument on the 1925 world series between Washington and Pittsburgh. He writes: "You made the following statement in the San Diego paper: 'No team ever has lost a seven-game world series after winning the first two games.' How about the 1925 series? Washington not only won the first two games, but the first three games and then lost the next four to Pittsburgh. My memory of that series is very vivid for the simple fact that I lost $500."

HASN'T BEEN DONE
But not quite vivid enough. Walter Johnson pitched Washington to victory in the first game, but Vic Aldridge hurled the Pirates to triumph in the second. The Senators then won the next two games in Washington and appeared to have the world championship all wrapped up. The Pirates rallied, however, and took the next three in a row for one of the greatest come-backs in baseball history. The final game was a thriller, decided by Kiki Cuyler's two-base blow off Walter Johnson with the bases full.

We repeat, therefore, that no team ever has lost the world series after taking the first two games, when seven games were the limit.

Train Troubles

"Have you noticed," queries a navigator from Norfolk of the Virginian-Pilot, "that with folks reading road maps and tearing up timetables they worry less about catching trains than they used to?" "We have," informs the skipper. "Nowadays it's the train that's worrying about catching the passengers."

Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood of New York city describes a stuffed Pelecanus: "How little song there is in America at the present day, because our poets have no girls to them. They have no song in their soul. All they have is glass eyes and a frozen sneer."—Quoted in "Golden Book."

Snake Causes Darkness

When a snake found its way into the rotary converter of an electric station at Nettus, India, the entire district was plunged into darkness for four days. The serpent was killed instantly, but caused burnt-out electric coils, which necessitated much dismantling and the re-winding of complicated electrical equipment.

Great Britain issued the first adhesive postage stamps, the one-penny black of 1840 and the two-penny blue in 1840. The first postage stamp issued by the United States government was the five-cent red-brown (on bluish paper) head of Franklin, issued in 1847.

U. C. L. A. Will Welcome Bruins With Big Rally

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP)—There will be great rejoicing in the University of California at Los Angeles Campus today, for the conquering heroes are coming home from Oregon. The team which rewrote the old dime novel setting with a modern last-minute victory play version, will be royally received this morning. A huge rally is planned. The Bruins will be greeted at the Glendale station and escorted to the campus where nothing will be left unturned in making it known to Coach Bill Spaulding's eleven that his 12 to 7 triumph at Portland Saturday has put the collar occupant of the Pacific coast conference of yesteryears holdly in the fore.

Roseburg Boxer In Freak Accident

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 17 (AP)—Joe Corbett, Roseburg boxer, met with a peculiar accident Sunday while hunting in the Calapooia region east of Suohtrin. He had killed a deer and was carrying the carcass on his back, when he slipped and fell in such a manner that one of the prongs of the deer's horn penetrated his side, puncturing the right lung. He walked for two miles after being hurt before he secured aid. Although his condition is quite serious, he is expected to recover.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor)

The city limits of San Diego, Cal., begin away out in the brown hills. You can zoom along the concrete for miles before you strike habitation. The sporting interests of this thriving city cover an equally wide range. You can get an argument there on any athletic subject.

San Diego turns out athletes, like Bill Miller and Lee Ramase, as well as fans who do not hesitate to write or wire their views on current subjects. I recall distinctly a warm telegram of protest that "Four San Diegans" in relation to the well known quartet of Hawaiians, sent me during the Olympic games.

They did not like the intimation that American athletes remained out of the opening Olympic ceremonies, to save wear and tear on their feet, while our foreign rivals took up the march as a matter of patriotic obligation. If the visitors were willing to risk their dogs in a parade, the four San Diegans argued, there was no reason why the Americans could not be sportsmen enough to do the same thing.

Graham, of Kansas State, Is Leading Gridiron Scorers

By the Associated Press

Ralph Graham, Kansas State's galloping fullback, has taken the lead in the race for national football individual scoring honors.

The Big Six conference star has scored 72 points in four games to lead Louis Bush of Massachusetts State, who did not get into the game with Georgia Tech last week, dropped from first to third place with 58 points.

The leader in each of the nation's nine major groups or conferences follows:

Player and College	Total
Big Six—Graham, Kansas State	72
East—Bush, Mass State	62
South—Kimwell, Auburn	58
Midwest—Monnett, Mich. State	44
Southwest—Koy, Texas	38
Rocky Mt.—Tolman, Utah State	36
Mo. Val.—Hall, Okla. A. & M.	36
Pacific—Smith, Idaho	30
Dig Ten—Sahlin, Chicago	24

21 TEAMS SEEK NATIONAL TITLE

Middle of October Finds Many Elevens on the Undeclared List.

By Herbert W. Barker
NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—A score or more of the nation's football machines stood forth today as logical contenders for sectional championships, with most of them hoping for eventual consideration in the chase for the mythical national title.

With the 1932 campaign drawing toward the half-way mark, these teams, on the basis of the won, lost and tied records, seemed to hold the edge:

Midwest—Michigan and Purdue of the Big Ten; Notre Dame.

East—Pitt, Colgate, Fordham, Penn. Harvard, Columbia and New York University.

South—Tennessee, Kentucky, Auburn and Virginia Polytechnic.

Far west—Southern California and Stanford of the Pacific Coast conference; St. Mary's of Oakland.

Southwest—Texas and Texas Christian.

Rocky Mountain—Utah and Colorado university.

Of these, Michigan, Purdue, Pitt, Colgate, Tennessee and Texas furnished most of the fireworks Saturday.

Pitt, playing a schedule clearly entitling the Panthers to national consideration should they evade through its undefeated, tramped Army's crack eleven, 18-13, fighting off a last-minute Army rally that put the ball on Pitt's 12-yard line.

Michigan, with the aid of Harry Newman's passes, tramped back Ohio State, 14-0, to keep its record unspotted. Purdue won over Dr. Clarence Spears' fighting Wisconsin eleven by the slender margin of Pardonne's successful try for point after touchdown, 7-6.

Tennessee took another stride toward the southern conference crown by whipping Alabama, 7-3 as two other prime favorites, Vanderbilt and Tulane, tied, 6-6.

Texas, coming fast now after a slow start, won its second successive sectional battle from a Big Six opponent, halting Oklahoma's Sooners, 17-10.

Any doubts as to the power in Colgate's machine vanished as the Maroons trounced Lafayette, 35-0, in a game Colgate had been expected to win by hardly more than a touchdown.

Other eastern surprises included the defeat of Yale by Brown, 7-2, New York university's show of power in swamping Georgetown, 39-0, and the fine showing of the Princeton Tiger in holding Cornell to a scoreless draw. Penn handed Dartmouth its first defeat, 14-7, and Harvard romped through Penn State, 46-13, although revealing a weakness against forward passes.

Of intersectional games, Holy Cross' victory over Detroit, 9-7, and Colum-

Texas Christian Wins

Texas Christian, joint favorite with Texas for the Southwest conference title, walloped Texas A. and M., 17-0, while Arkansas spilled Baylor, 20-6. Auburn's passes beat Georgia Tech, 6-0, in the Southern conference, and Kentucky romped through Washington Lee, 53-7. Duke soundly trounced Maryland, 34-0, and Louisiana State walked away from Mississippi State, 24-0 as Georgia and North Carolina played a 6-6 tie. Virginia Poly unbeaten in the conference, gave the strong William and Mary outfit, conquerors of Navy, a 7-0 beating.

Washington State and University of California at Los Angeles won the only returning to Rocky Mountain conference competition, spilled Brigham day the former beating California, Young, 29-0.

The Age of SELECTION Is Here. . . .

Our times are marked by one vast advantage over all past history — freedom of choice for the average person.

A young man now has a hundred interesting careers to consider. His grandfather had ten. Many paths are open to the scientist, writer, teacher, athlete, business man. When we travel, we often choose between rail and bus and car and plane. Every last thing we buy is one of many offered.

This is the Age of Selection. For advertising keeps us informed. Tells us the special benefits of this, the new features of that. Shows us how to build houses and how to make muffins. Explains why and where and when and how much.

As we read we learn how to discriminate, to recognize worth, to be sure of value received. Before we buy a car or refrigerator or a can of beans, we know what it is and what it offers. Advertising teaches us how to live by this year's rules.

Read the advertisements in this paper. They bring you up to date in this Age of Selection.
