Oregon Frosh, O. S. C. Rooks Play to a Scoreless Tie

ITTLE CLASSIC FINDS NEITHER ABLE TO SCORE

Babes Hold Corvallis Team on One-Yard Line in First Half; Take Offensive in Last.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 22 (AP)—On a very muddy field, Oregon State rooks and Oregon freshmen staged a scoreless football game here last night. The game left little to be decided as to the merits of either team, as both were equally adept at sliding through the mud. The Rooks slid through for 83 yards from scrimmage and four first downs, mostly in the first half, one from the only completed pass of the game and another from a penalty. The Oregon babes skidded for 84 yards from scrimmage and three first downs, almost entirely in the second half.

In the first period, following the freshmen kickoff, which the rooks blocked and recovered on their own 47, punting almost at once, a poor kick by Milligan gave the rooks the ball on the freshman 23. Joslin and Patrick hammered four yards and Joslin then completed a forward pass to Oregon eight. The babes stiffened on their own one-yard line and took the ball on downs. It was the nearest either side came to scoring.

Orange, Cougar Teams Battling; Ducks in Moscow

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 22 (AP) — With heavy, sullen clouds holding overhead their threat of rain, the Orangemen of Oregon State and the Cougars of Washington State were ready to take the field here this afternoon in their Pacific coast conference football game.

Ball field, where the teams will clash, oozed with mud last night when freshmen of Oregon university and Oregon State slipped and slopped to a scoreless tie, but a good drainage system and some intensive conditioning this morning put the field in good shape again, and it will be fast, caretakers said, if those rain clouds will hold everything until dusk.

The Orangemen will have a weight advantage of some two pounds to the man over the Cougars in the starting lineups announced, and this was considered to be an important factor if the field is wet.

Washington State rules as a slight favorite by virtue of its 7-2 defeat of California last Saturday, but neither Coach Babe Hollingbery nor Coach Paul J. Schissler would make any predictions concerning the outcome. Hollingbery said he would rather meet California twice than face Oregon State, the school that always makes it tough for the Cougars. Both said they hope for a dry field.

OREGON AT MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Ida., Oct. 22 (AP) — The University of Oregon football team came here today to meet the University of Idaho Vandals as the main attraction of Idaho's annual homecoming celebration.

Rated the underdogs, the Vandals hoped to vanquish the heavier Oregon squad with a brand new aerial attack, evolved this week.

HUSKIES MEETING BEARS

SEATTLE, Oct. 22 (AP)—The undefeated University of Washington football team today placed its championship chances on the line in tackling the rugged Bears of California in the Washington stadium here.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 persons here the 19th traditional battle between expected to file into the rain-soaked horseshoe structure to witness the two elevens since 1904.

Occasional rain was the forecast for the day following yesterday's downpour but a dry gridiron was ready for the pigskin warriors thanks thanks to "old man bedcovers." Washington to "old man bedcovers," Washington covered the field all week.

The Washington Huskies entered the contest with an undefeated record to protect and a slight favorite to conquer. A victory would make Coach Jimmy Phelan's northerners a serious contender for the Pacific coast conference title and he said he had "hopes" of winning.

QUOTAS BOOST LIVING COST

NICE, France (AP) — A city committee of investigation has blamed the high cost of living along the Riviera to the French import quota system, finding that the price of foodstuffs has risen 100 per cent since the quotas were enforced.

PLAN MUNICIPAL DRUG STORE

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP)—The city council is considering establishment of a municipal drug store to supply free medicine to the needy and to be financed by taxes on prescriptions compounded at private pharmacies.

BRITISHER BINDS TINY BOOK

DARTFORD, England (AP) — Alfred Howman, a bookbinder, believes he has made the smallest book in the world, three thirty-seconds of an inch wide but hand sewn in full Persian calf cover. There is one letter on each page.

Takes Kickoff Back 107 Yards for Touchdown

Although his team was beaten, Captain Bob Gibb of Nebraska Wesleyan made football history by running a kick-off back 107 yards through the Oklahoma City University eleven. There have been only two longer runs in the last 11 years.

Sub Stops Great Nevers But Team Gets Real Laugh

This is the ninth of a series of articles in which O. W. "Red" Severence, noted official, relates the humorous and "inside" stories he has run across in a long association with leading football coaches.

By O. W. "Red" Severence
(Written For The Associated Press)

The late Knute Rockne, immortal coach of Notre Dame, had an uncanny ability of instilling confidence into his men by allowing them to work their way out of a tight spot without his advice.

But if it seemed that nothing short of advice from the coach's bench could save a game, Rockne could be depended upon to send in a substitute with the desired information.

The last predicament faced the Ramblers in their 1925 Rose Bowl game against Stanford as the great Ernie Nevers, All-America fullback, plowed through the Ramblers' line for gain after gain.

Jim Crowley, now coach at Michigan State college, was then one of the Four Horsemen.

"We couldn't stop Nevers that day," Crowley said. "He would crack through one side for five yards and then hit the other side for six more. We would pick ourselves off the ground and look over at the sidelines, hoping Rock would send in somebody to tell what was wrong with our defense.

"Finally Nevers brought the ball down to the three yard line. Then our prayers were answered. Out from the sidelines dashed a big sophomore named McMullen, so excited at playing before 75,000 people he forgot whose place he was to take and simply told the referee, 'I'm for Notre Dame.'

"But we knew he was bringing information from Rock that would break up that one-man drive if it were possible to break it up."

"We held Nevers on the first play, called time out and huddled around McMullen to hear the news that would strengthen our defense.

"Stammering and stuttering, he finally gulped forth: 'B-boys, R-R-R-Rock said th-the trouble wa-was—'

"'Yes, go on,' we yelled.

"'He said th-the trouble was that you're no-no-not stopping th-th-that Nevers.'

"And the funny part," Crowley ended, "good old McMullen threw Nevers for a loss on the next three plays and Stanford lost the ball on downs."

Mummified Pigmy Found in Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 22 (AP) — Wyoming scientists are pondering deeply over their latest archaeological acquisition now in the temporary possession of Mrs. Cyrus Beard, state historian.

To all appearances the curious creature unearthed by a gold prospector is a mummified pigmy.

The archaeological freak is a human figure, in a cramped kneeling posture with arms akimbo, somewhat similar to that of the Oriental Buddha.

The strangest feature is its dwarfish size. With its shrunken legs bent sharply back at the knees and pressed tightly against its flanks, the figure, sitting upright, measures but six and one half inches in height. Its weight is about three quarters of a pound.

DUTCH SHELTER LEGIONAIRES

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Two vessels from the Mediterranean have brought four deserters from the French foreign legion to this port, picking them up from small boats off the African coast. Two of the fugitives were English, one was German and the other Estonian.

SPECULATE IN BANK BOOKS

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia (AP) — Buying up deposit books of a big local savings bank, now under liquidation, is the latest speculation here. The directors say the bank will pay in full, but middlemen are getting the books for around 45 per cent of face value and selling them to the bank's debtors for 75 per cent.

BEARCATS SWAMP ALBANY COLLEGE

Willamette University Remains in Conference Race By Winning 33 to 0.

SALEM, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Willamette university Bearcats sunk the Albany college Pirate's sloop in a mass of mud and water here last night for a 33 to 0 victory, thereby looming as definite Northwest conference football championship contenders.

Willamette and College of Puget Sound, the only undefeated conference teams, will meet here next Saturday in what appears to be the key contest for championship.

The beefy Bearcat forward wall charged Albany's line to bits while Oravec and Cannady raced through for five touchdowns. Willamette scored the first time it got hold of the ball. Albany punted to Oravec who spurted 65 yards down the side of the field to score. He crossed again the third quarter on a 10 yard canter.

George Cannady, sub halfback, piled up three touchdowns on 18, 42 and 60 yard runs. Albany was outpunted and succeeded in making but one first down except through penalties. Buchanan, who with Kampher made most of Albany's tackles, was the only Pirate who could make any yardage.

Stanford, Troy Meeting Today In Grid Classic

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 22 (AP)—Out to win their first game over the Trojans on Stanford soil since the resumption of football relations in 1918, Stanford's Indians face the strong University of Southern California eleven at 2 p. m. (PST) today in the far west's first big gridiron classic of the year.

More than 65,000 fans will crowd into the big Stanford bowl for the game that is expected to produce the outstanding challenger for 1932 Pacific coast conference honors. For the first time since 1928, the Trojans go into action as the "underdogs" against "Pop" Warner's big red eleven.

Defending conference champions, the Trojans have a decided weight advantage in the line, averaging close to 200 pounds per man, compared with 187 pounds for the Indians.

Stanford's impressive victories over two earlier opponents, Oregon State and Santa Clara, won many supporters over to its cause. Although comparative scores mean little, Stanford Southern California was hard put to win from the same team, 10-0.

While Howard Jones expressed belief that Stanford should be regarded as the legitimate favorite, the Trojan coach predicted it would be one of the hardest fought battles in many seasons. For the first time since the season opened, Coach Jones was able to call upon the backfield men he regards as his strongest since the opening game. One or more of the ball carriers have been out of play through injuries or illness.

"Pop" Warner, for his part, looked with mingled feelings at the 10-7 odds which favored his team and reiterated his contention that the Cards "have a chance."

"But," said Warner, "the breaks will decide the game, although Stanford has a fine spirit this year and the boys are set to go."

Confident the Trojans will continue their record and add to their string of 13 games unbeaten and untied, Southern California fans, some 20,000 strong, invaded the bay region yesterday and early today, jammed hotels and held numerous rallies, organized and unorganized, for their team.

Troy's great line, reputed the best on the coast, if not in the country, proved the chief source of confidence for U. S. C. rooters as they awaited the contest.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould

It takes a half-page in Who's Who in American Sports to tell just the salient steps and achievements in the remarkable career of Amos Alonzo Stagg, who has been compelled against his wishes at 70 to step out of the role of athletic director and football coach at the University of Chicago.

It would take a week to recount the deeds and stories associated with his career at Yale, where he was an All-America end and a famous baseball pitcher, or Chicago, where he was the chief figure in bringing Middle Western athletics up to the levels established by the old Eastern stalwarts.

The Old Man was on Camp's first All-America team. When a Midwestern player first was inserted in this galaxy of gridiron honor the choice fell to a pupil of Stagg's, Hirschberger, the great Chicago fullback and kicker. Subsequently on Camp's All-America roll appeared other Maroon aces as Eckersadd, Steffen, Des Jardien, McGuire and John Thomas.

A GREAT PITCHER

More than any other living individual Stagg's name and influence is associated with the development of American football, whether rules, performances or principles are involved. Yet his earliest fame was greater on the diamond than the gridiron and he could have been a successful major league pitcher, in the opinion of those who saw him in his prime.

As captain of the Eli nine in 1888, Stagg set a record by striking out 20 Princeton batsmen. Within four days he also pitched and won two games against Harvard, fanning 17 Crimson players in one contest.

Stagg organized and coached baseball and football teams at the Springfield (Mass.) Y. M. C. A. college in 1890 before going to the University of Chicago two years later to direct the whole Maroon athletic program. He is the only surviving member of the original Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee, organized in 1904. He coached the American Olympic middle distance runners in 1924.

GRID LOSES STRATEGIST

The gridiron will lose one of its keenest strategists when Major Ralph Irvine Sasse, cavalryman and tank battalion commander on the western Front, leaves his post of head coach at West Point after the 1932 campaign.

Where Captain John McEwan used inspirational tactics and Captain "Biff" Jones applied the Cadets to rugged fundamentals of the old school, Major Sasse introduced the intricacies of the Warner system to Army football.

Sweden Plans State Control Of High Finance

By Elmer W. Peterson

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Steps to prevent another financial nightmare, such as Ivar Kreuger forced upon his country, are included in the program of Sweden's new cabinet.

There is no direct reference to Kreuger in the explanation of its aims by the Social Democrat party. The inference has been found, however, in this paragraph:

"The government is to take up in earnest the question of combining suitable state control of private dealings with regulation of the economic assets of the country."

Leaders of the Social Democrats are aware that their success at the last election was due, to a considerable extent, to the crumbling of the Kreuger idol. Thousands of middle class votes went to the party as a reaction from the Kreuger exploitations.

The new government expects to carry out its pledge by stricter oversight of the financing of large projects as well as loans to private enterprise by the state bank. For this purpose a new bureau may be set up.

The program of the new government also includes a "free trade policy as far as possible," action to aid the farmers, a change in unemployment relief policies, and a stimulation of private industry as an aid to the general economic situation.

To aid him in carrying out this program Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson, son of a stone mason, has assembled the youngest cabinet in Sweden's history. The average age of the cabinet members is 48 and Hansson himself is only 47. One of the two consultative experts, Professor Osten Unden, president of the University of Upsala, who has served as foreign minister and minister of justice, and now heads the government economy commission, is 48.

The new government has indicated that it intends to liberalize unemployment relief which now provides low wages on "made work" projects. It is expected that the unemployed still will have to indicate a willingness to work, and an out and out dole is not anticipated.

THE separated dumbbell knobs still felt real bad. One said, "This robs us of the chance to cling together everywhere we go.

"If you could just connect us we would be as happy as could be. But how you're going to do that trick, I really do not know."

"And neither do I," Scouty cried. And then he added, as he sighed, "We haven't any nails. I must confess that I am stuck.

"A piece of string might work all right, but still it might not hold you tight. And, anyway, we have no string. It seems we're in bad luck."

* * *

JUST then a faint voice shouted, "Hey! 'Tis well that I have come this way. I've heard your conversation and I'll gladly lend a hand.

"Someone must help me with my task. Just follow me, is all I ask." Then Scouty said, "I'll follow you, but just where will we land?

"And, also, kindly step in sight. How do we know that you're all right? Who are you? What's your name and what do you intend to do?"

A little bug then stepped right out to tell them what 'twas all about. It shouted, "I'm the sap bug and I paste things up like new.

* * *

"I'LL get my paste. It's very strong." Wee Scouty promptly trailed along and shortly saw the sap bug pull a paste jar from a tree.

Then they returned to all the rest. The bug cried out, "I'll do my best to fix the broken dumbbell. Watch real closely and you'll see!"

The rest then heard kind Scouty cry, "Oh, you just hold the jar up high and I will do the paste job." "That's all right," the bug replied.

The dumbbell heads were held real tight and everything worked out all right. Wee Scouty spread the paste on as they stood there, side by side.

COMMUNISM SOWN BY CAMPUS RADICALS IN CHINA'S SCHOOLS

PEIPING (AP)—Educational authorities here view with concern the growth of communism among Chinese students.

Almost every government university has its student "cell," it i said. The communists make a point of capturing key positions in student organizations.

When the Japanese occupied Mukden a year ago, the student associations of several universities formed an anti-Japanese society, but in less than a month it was brought under communist control.

Other familiar tactics of the radical students are tto attend public meetings and heckle speakers who voice hostility to communist theories.

To assist the authorities in handling the situation seven Chinese patriotic organizations here have banded into an anti-communist federation. They urge drastic action to root out the red menace in the schools.
