

Trojans Planning Defense Against Oregon's Passes

JONES DRILLING HIS MEN AGAINST AERIAL THRUSTS

Plunging Backs on Oregon Team Also Worry Trojan Coach With Important Tilt Near.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—If the University of Oregon seeks to gain victory over the University of Southern California Trojans this Saturday by means of an aerial attack, it is likely it will find a Trojan pass defense stronger than that displayed by the home team against the California Golden Bears last Saturday.

Coach Howard Jones has been drilling his men against a possible aerial attack and believes the Trojans have strengthened their defense which showed considerable weakness last Saturday when the Golden Bears completed several long passes.

Another problem which faces Jones is to stop the plunging backs of Oregon who will outweigh the local team. However, the Trojans have a line that has not been penetrated for a touchdown this year, the lone score against them having been made by California on a pass.

Gordon Clark, left half, was in the fullback position when the Trojans scrimmaged yesterday afternoon. Kenneth Bright, former third string half, was promoted to alternate half on the first team and will likely see action against Oregon.

John J. O'Brien Resigns Post At The University

EUGENE, Nov. 8 (AP)—John J. O'Brien, assistant football coach at the University of Oregon, resigned last night. He gave as reasons for resignation ill health and the fact that doctors had ordered him to withdraw from active coaching for a time. The resignation will take effect immediately.

O'Brien had acted as chief scout and end instructor during the past season. It was announced at Eugene no successor would be named this season. Oregon yet has no coach with the University of Southern California, St. Mary's and Louisiana State university.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor)

It may be open to debate just how much of it has been fostered by the new rules, but I have not known a football season since 1925 in which more and longer forward passing has been so conspicuous.

Passing offenses such as Southern California, Michigan, Colgate, Pittsburgh, Auburn, Columbia, Purdue and other powerful teams have generated this year surpass anything since that colorful season when Princeton and Dartmouth, with Swede Flanders starting for the Indians, filled the air with football and the enemy with consternation.

Possibly coaches have concentrated more on the development of aerial attacks because of the effect of the new "dead ball" rule upon running attacks. Ground no longer can be gained through the line or around the wings by the type of ball-carrier who would still be moving forward after being knocked off his feet or temporarily upset. Under the new rules, the runner is stopped, whether he is tackled, knocked down or stumbles.

Consequently the percentage of possible gain, with a pass is increased in proportion to the loss in potential running advance.

The big gamble is still there, in any kind of an aerial offense, but an increasing number of teams have shown ability to pull a "touchdown pass" out of the bag.

TOUCHDOWN PASSES

Taking, for example, just the few engagements I have happened to witness since the world series:

1. Chicago tied Yale with a spectacular 46-yard pass, Zimmer to Sahlin.

2. Pittsburgh whipped Army with the aid of two 40-yard heaves by Heller to Skladany.

3. Colgate started New York university's downfall with a 56-yard passing play, Ask to Pritts.

4. Columbia's only touchdown against Cornell was on a 46-yard toss from Montgomery to Matal.

Meanwhile, of course, Southern California's passes upset Stanford. Michigan's aerial attack has raised havoc and confusion among Hitchcock of Auburn has been pitching fast ones for touchdowns in Dixie.

A Hitchcock-Rogers passing play, covering something like 76 yards together, not only saved Auburn from being stopped by Ole Miss but took rank as one of the longest scoring plays of its kind registered this season.

RUNNING WILD

According to Statistician Parke H. Davis, there were eight scoring runs of 85 yards or better from kickoff during October football campaigning on the college gridirons. The runner, his college and the distance are noted herewith:

Here And There In Sport Life

A nine year record was broken when for the first time since 1923 Washington State failed to score against Southern California in the recent football game.

Bob McClure, 17-year-old University City, Mo., track star, who equaled the world indoor high school mark in the 60-yard dash last year, has entered Washington university.

In the first two games of the 1932 season Coach "Hunk" Anderson at Notre Dame employed 21 backfield men.

St. Mary's college alumni are sponsoring a special train to carry coast football fans across the continent to see the Gael play Fordham in New York Nov. 5.

Ollie Arbelbide, quarterback for Washington State, is a brother of Garrett Arbelbide, who played three years at the end for the University of Southern California.

The death rate of Tennessee, 10.8 deaths per thousand population, is below the average rate the country over.

In the first four games this season Purdue's backs, all together, averaged 4.28 yards per try on running plays from scrimmage. The team had completed 12 out of 29 forward passes for a total aerial gain of 255 yards, an average of 8.8 yards per attempt.

Despite the high percentage of German names in Milwaukee, the 1932 city directory shows 54 John Smiths to 53 John Schmidts.

Clyde Hoover, freshman forestry student at Iowa State college, is paying his way by selling sorghum molasses from his farm to professors, fraternities and boarding houses.

The Minnesota Historical society, which recently celebrated its 83rd birthday, is nearly nine years older than the state whose lore it preserves.

The 1932 city directory of Milwaukee contains a Hug, a Kiss and a Goody.

Washington as Farmer

George Washington divided Mount Vernon into five farms. Each farm was a separate establishment with its own overseer, hands, quarters for slaves, farm buildings and stock. Over all the farms was a general steward or overseer directly responsible to Washington. The general rode over his estate almost constantly.

Adversity's Uses

Difficulties show what men are. Adversity is the test that proves the mettle of those encountering it. Trouble seeks out and tries to the utmost a man's latent abilities. Just as a gem is not polished without intense rubbing, so is man not developed without his numerous trials.—Grit.

Sugar Offsets Noise

Scientists investigating the effect of noise on indigestion have found that sugar counterbalances the loss of saliva caused by din.

Remarkable Elm

At Kingston, Canada, is an elm from which white currants, red currants and green gooseberries are gathered. The only drawback is that the fruit is bitter. The phenomenon does not come from man-made graft. The fruit bushes are rooted independently in crotches of the elm.

Stepping Stones

A walk of stepping stones is not as practical as a cement walk, but it has a lot more style and atmosphere, if you care about that. Stepping stone walks are not difficult to make in any country where stones are found.

Whales in the Delaware

In the time of William Penn whales were caught far up the Delaware river. The last one appeared at Chester about 1899. It was large enough to hold a chair in its gaping jaws.

Lord Mayor's Baton

London's most treasured civic jewel, as it is the oldest, is probably the baton, 18 inches long, cut from pure crystal and inlaid with gold, which each lord mayor holds in his hands for a few minutes once a year as a symbol of his authority. There is no record showing how old it really is, but the workmanship is of the Anglo-Saxon period.

First U. S. Postmaster

The Post Office department says that July 26, 1775, the Continental congress established the post office with Benjamin Franklin as the first postmaster general. On September 26, 1789, Samuel Osgood was the first postmaster appointed under the Constitution.

Not Very Speedy

The first railway trains in England and this country ran very slowly. Coal trains in England, for a time, moved at the rate of three and three-quarters miles per hour. The first American locomotive used for coal hauling was the Stourbridge Lion, which moved at a speed of ten miles per hour.

Cells in Human Body

All the common animals and plants, however widely they differ in size and appearance, are made up of very similar units, known as cells. There are hundreds of billions of these cells in the human body, each cell being so small that it can be seen only under a good microscope. The cells of one tissue differ markedly from those of another, but the cells of a given tissue in man are very similar to those of the corresponding tissue in even such a remote relative as a fish.

Copied British Usage

The reason usually advanced for the dollar mark being put before the figures in American money is that the English colonists were accustomed to place the mark for the British pound before the figures, so did the same with the dollar mark.

Time Alters Views

It isn't until a young man has been married long enough to have a daughter of his own that he realizes that three o'clock in the morning is entirely too late for any nice young lady to be out.—Exchange.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long-standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

MISSOURI REFORMATORY MAY INSTALL ATHLETICS

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP)—Inmates of Missouri's three reformatory institutions may enjoy a program of corrective and recreational athletics, financed by the $70,000 surplus in the treasury of the state athletic commission. Plans are under way to ask the next legislature for authority to use the fund, accumulated from fees paid the commission, for this purpose. Members of the commission were reported favorable to the plan.
