OREGON TACKLES TROJAN TEAM AT L. A. SATURDAY

Bruins of U. C. L. A. Playing Train-Wearry St. Mary's Gaels, Non-Conference Eleven.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11 (AP)—Southern California's two unbeaten football teams risk their records in games with powerful opponents this weekend, drawing Pacific coast grids to Los Angeles, where both contests will be played.

The University of Southern California Trojans will put their Pacific coast conference co-leadership on the spot in Olympic stadium Saturday when they take the field against University of Oregon. The Webfeet have proved tough sledding for other conference teams this season, winning two games, tying one and losing one. They go to Los Angeles with hopes of upsetting the favored Trojans.

In an Armistice day contest today, the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins will take no chance with their position at the conference top, playing the train-wearry St. Mary's Gaels, non-conference eleven. The Gaels, with one stiff football game and more than 6,000 miles of travel behind them, are underdogs for the first time this year.

The Bay region's conference members, University of California and Stanford university, will draw long breaths Saturday — one week before their annual "big game." The Cardinals have scheduled the often-debated California Aggies while the Bears clash with University of Idaho in a conference contest they are expected to win.

Seattle's contribution to the conference program will be the annual University of Washington-Washington State college battle. "Babe" Hollingbery's hard-hitting Cougars looked good in handling California a 7 to 2 defeat earlier in the season but they had a tough time with Idaho last week, scoring two touchdowns in a belated fourth-quarter rally to win 12-0.

Jimmie Phelan's Huskies, on the other hand, dropped a 7-6 decision to California, but came back strong to whip Stanford 18-13. They are favored in Saturday's game.

At Missoula Paul Schissler's Oregon State college eleven is expected to step into the conference win column for the first time this season. The Leavers play University of Montana, also without a conference win to its credit.

COMPLETES WORKOUT
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11 (AP)—After a week of serious defensive training and adjustment of offense, the University of Southern California football team turned out its final workout for its game with Oregon at the Olympic stadium tomorrow.

The chief worry of the Trojans has been the problem of devising a suitable defense to stop the three outstanding threats of the Webfoot backfield, 200-pound "Iron Mike" Mikulak, Stan Koska, who weighs 212 pounds and possesses area speed, and Mark Temple, a triple threat star of the first year.

With a strong and heavy forward wall in front, Coach Howard Jones expects to be troubled more than considerably by the Oregon running plays. The game, he believes, may be the hardest test his sturdy line has had all season.

Oregon arrives shortly before noon and will work out at the Olympic stadium in the afternoon. It is the prayer of the Webfoot followers that the prevailing warm weather will be vanished by tomorrow. A torrid day would be a distinct advantage to the Trojans.

Dorais is Using McCracken As A "Pinch Hitter"
By the Associated Press
Detroit—Earl McCracken, Detroit's 140-pound back, is ready to assure Villanova and all other opposing players who haven't run up against him yet, that he is by no means fragile. He has played little but that is because he has a trick of putting a scoring punch into his plays and Coach Gus Dorais prefers to send him in fresh when there is a chance for a touchdown.

Notre Dame, Ind.—"Hunk" Anderson, Notre Dame coach, predicts that tomorrow's battle between the "Irish" and Northwestern will be a toss-up. Long runs or successful passes by the backs of either team will probably break up the game he says.

Bloomington, Ind.—Two players from Illinois Edmonds and Sawicki, are expected to be in the Indiana backfield when the Hoosiers line up for their game with Illinois. Both of them hail from Georgetown, Ill.

Columbus, Ohio—Ohio State is well satisfied with the team that beat Northwestern last week but the coaches are rather afraid of overconfidence when their men face Pennsylvania. The only change in the lineup is planned sends Max Padlow in at end.

Providence, R. I.—Brown's sturdy football team not only boasts three sets of brothers but five of the six are members of the first team. Captain Bill Gilbane and his brother Tom, Roland and Larry Brown and Dave Allen are regulars. John Allen, a halfback like Dave, is on the second team.

Yale with being the first guard to pull out of the line and lead the interference. This was back in 1890 and was first used in the Yale-Princeton game played Thanksgiving day, Nov. 27, 1890.

William H. Lewis of Harvard was the first center that he saw use the rotary style of play on defense. Alonso Staggs, however, stated in his book some years ago that he employed a loose center when he was coaching at Springfield in 1890.

STAGGS' INVENTIONS
A. A. Staggs has contributed as many innovations to the game as, if not more than, any other coach. He is given credit for being the first to use, back in 1890, plays with the ends back of the line. He was also one of the first to employ the principle of the shift.
