

LaGrande Evening Observer

(Incorporated) An Independent Newspaper Phone Main 600

HAROLD M. FINLAY Business Manager Published evenings, except Sunday, at 1710 Sixth street, La Grande, Oregon.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF UNION COUNTY AND THE CITY OF LA GRANDE

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited.

National Advertising Representative M. C. MOGENSEN CO., Inc. 345 Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, Chicago, Detroit, New York

Table with subscription rates: Daily one month in advance 75c, Daily six months in advance $4.50, Daily, single copy 5c.

ADVERTISING RATES Display, foreign, per column inch 45c, Display, local, per column inch 40c

BACKGROUND OF MRS. ROOSEVELT'S BUSY LIFE SHOWS VARIED INTERESTS OF NEW FIRST LADY

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the new President of the United States, assumes her White House responsibilities no novice in public life and affairs.

To the right of one of her latest photographs she is seen helping salvation army workers to wrap toys for poor children.

FALK'S advertisement featuring a logo of a man in a hat and the slogan 'We Shall Not Fail Them!...' with a testimonial about a man's recovery.

Other Papers Say:

THEY'RE IN CAPABLE HANDS The people of Oregon must feel a sense of satisfaction and security in the realization that the higher educational institutions are in hands as capable as those of Dr. William Jasper Kerr.

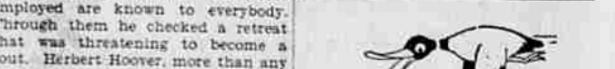

POET'S CORNER

CONSOLATION Oh! why should we weep for those that are gone From this life of sin and pain Or why should we mourn for the loved ones who Are camped on the Golden Plain!

Let Us Clean Your Winter Coats, Suits and Dresses

Standard Laundry 1418 Jefferson St.

HELP HE'S SHOOTING SUPER-X

Duck Shooters

You'll Find What You Want at THIS Store

Shooting's pretty good right now and those who are getting the best of it are using Western long range Super-X shells.

BOHNENKAMP'S

As we see it the next four years may bring conditions and circumstances threatening our very national existence. Already the forces of de-

NEWS of the CHURCHES

Rev. H. S. Fulton New Pastor Of Church of God

Rev. Carlos A. Plummer, Temporary Minister, Resigns - Other Churches Announce Programs.

Rev. Carlos A. Plummer, who has been temporary minister at the local Church of God, serving for several months, has resigned and expects to give more time to writing, especially poetry.

The local Church of God has chosen Rev. H. S. Fulton, formerly pastor of the church at Oak Grove, La., for pastor. He has spent 19 years in the ministry and is well recommended.

Rev. H. S. Fulton in the ministry and is well recommended. The public is invited to hear him speak Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. at the chapel on X and Spruce.

Churches in La Grande have announced many interesting programs for Sunday, as follows:

English Zion Lutheran Church (M avenue near Fourth) The subject of the pastor's morning sermon will be "Once a Christian Always a Christian," part of a series on "Common Errors in Religious Thinking." This service begins at 11 a. m.

Sunday school meets at 9:45 and will continue the study of India. The junior Luther league will meet at 3 p. m.

The senior Luther league will meet at 7 p. m. with Herbert Langen as leader. Elliott Finlay will speak on "Good and Evil in Newspapers."

First Presbyterian Church (Sixth and Washington) The Sunday after election, and O. M. Humphreys, who was to bring his report from the Spruce, on Sunday morning, has most kindly consented to postpone his report to next Sunday, Nov. 20, thus giving the minister, Rev. J. George Wain, this service to bring his after-election sermon on "Following One Another." This will be a companion sermon to the one of last Sunday on "Conscience at the Helm." Mr. Wain would be happy to have all who heard him last Sunday to be present this Sunday. Others are most cordially invited. The choir will sing the anthem "O How Amiable Are Thy Tabernacles" by Rogers. Tom Bruce, organist, will sing the offertory solo "I Come to Thee." Mrs. Harley Richardson at the organ console.

The Vesper hours are becoming popular. "Come with us," says the minister, "and enjoy the songs, sermon and fellowship." Time for the vesper is 8:30 p. m. Immediately following these services the young people take up their Christian Endeavor program, and all are invited to these meetings.

Sunday Bible school convenes each Sunday morning at 9:45. You will find pleasure and profit in the assembly and study periods. Parents are urged to come and bring the children. Meeting with more than 200 each Sunday is an inspiration.

Church of the Nazarene (Birch and Y) Arville Webber is superintendent of the Sunday school which begins at 9:45 o'clock. The morning service commences at 11 and the pastor will speak on the subject "Conquering and Still to Conquer." Frank Cain is organist. There will be a mission offering taken.

The young people meet at 6:45 p. m. and the lesson will be "Life of the Saints," with Crete Marie Foster as the leader. The sermon Sunday evening, beginning at 7:30, will be "The Abiding Virtues." Choir practice will be held Tuesday evening and prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

Baptist Church (Sixth and Spruce) At the Baptist church Sunday morning, Miss Isabel Williams will play a violin solo for the Sunday school general assembly. In spite of the rainy weather there was an increased attendance last Sunday. The new room for the young women's class taught by Mrs. P. R. Finlay is cozy and attractive. The young men's class, Elliott Finlay teacher, won the banner for attendance at church services last month. Next Sunday will be Junior sermon day. The pastor will present an illustrated sermon "Revering the Telescope." Juniors are especially invited to this service. The young people's topic is "Good and Evil in Newspapers." The evening preaching service will be evangelistic. Hours of services are: Bible school, 9:45; morning worship, 11:00; young people's meeting, 6:30; evening worship, 7:30. Thursday evening prayer meeting, 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Gospel Mission (2001 North First) Sunday school is at 9:45 and there has been a marked increase in attendance of late. It is reported. An interesting subject, helpful to all, will be discussed at the morning worship hour, beginning at 11 o'clock. Singing and instrumental music is scheduled. Elmer Carpenter will be the leader at the young people's meeting at 8:45 p. m. with special subjects to be discussed.

The sermon subject in the evening will be "The Seven Sayings of Jesus Upon the Cross." This service begins at 7:45. Prayer meeting will be held Tuesday. Friday an evangelistic order service will be held at 7:45 p. m. Four young people from Pasco, Wash., talented in music, will be present at the Sunday morning service. All are invited to attend.

First Church of Christ, Scientist (First and Washington) Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. is for children up to the age of 20 and all are invited to attend. Sunday services begin at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Wednesday evening testimony meetings begin at 8 p. m. "Mortals and immortals" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 13.

The golden text will be "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy; and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly" (1 Cor. 15:48).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will be the following from the Bible: "Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?" (Malachi 2:10).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortal man is the antipode of immortal man in origin, in existence, and in his relation to God. . . . Immortals, or God's children in divine science, are one harmonious family, but mortals, or the 'children of men' in material sense, are discordant and oftentimes false brethren" (pp 215, 444).

Meanwhile, ardently assisting her husband in his political career, she was rearing a family of five children. Though in Washington, she will continue to edit the magazine, on which her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, is her assistant.

Residence in Washington during the days of the Wilson administration, when her husband was assistant secretary of the navy, gave her acquaintance with Washington society.

To her social contacts in the famous executive mansion, when her uncle, the late Theodore Roosevelt, spent two terms, Mrs. Roosevelt's friends are expecting her to bring the impress of a vital personality.

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

Sermonette

Edited by Harriet R. MacDonald

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.—Matt. 22:39.

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

FRANCE HIDES PHONE POLES PARIS (AP) — Despairing of devising a beautiful telephone pole, the ministry of posts, telegraphs and telephones has ordered that no poles be placed so that they will "deface or diminish the beauty of artistic landscapes, ruins, sites and picturesque landscapes."

When we read of the burning love of the mystics of the middle ages, who of us does not wish that we could love God with the same wholeheart-

ed enthusiasm. But who of us does? How do we learn to love people? It is not the chance acquaintance whom we love devoutly. It is the person we meet again and again, the person we know. But can we know God? Surely not, unless we take time for knowing Him. Was it not because the mystics did just this, that their love was so "burning"? They dwell as much as possible consciously in His presence; they talked with Him at length, they thought about Him. His nature and His wishes. So they learned to know and love Him. Is not this way open to us? —M. M.

In God have I put my trust: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.—Psalm 56: 11.

THE NEXT SIX MONTHS

Now that the suspense of the election is over, everyone is wondering what will be the economic trend of the nation during the next six months.

Since Roosevelt was elected by such a large majority, and the Democrats were given overwhelming control of both senate and house of representatives, the new government will start out with the confidence of the majority of the people, which will be a most important factor in the re-establishment of normal business activity and trade.

However, the newly elected men will not take office until March 4, 1933 and in the meantime there will be another session of congress with the Republicans having a slight advantage in the senate, and Hoover in the president's chair. But this fact should not retard economic recovery, for under the present administration and its comprehensive program there has been definite improvement in many lines of business during the summer and early fall. Foreign trade, which had been declining steadily for the past two years, is now on the up grade again, and unemployment is decreasing somewhat.

It cannot be denied, however, that the majority of employers, and men with large sums of money to invest, are disappointed in the defeat of Hoover. And their uncertainty as to the future program of Roosevelt and his Democratic followers will be very likely to act as a brake on their activities and the re-employment of labor. They fear large raids on the treasury, resulting in further unbalancing of the budget and further increase in taxation; they fear artificial inflation of the currency and a consequent departure from the gold standard; they fear the lowering of the tariff on many industrial products, and the flooding of our markets by foreign goods. And their fears are by no means unfounded, for those very things would have occurred during the past year if Garner had had his way about it.

It would seem, therefore, that the election had not improved our economic situation a great deal. Confidence on the part of the common people is not going to accomplish very much if men with money are afraid to invest it in industries which will provide jobs.

But the situation is not hopeless. Things will go along as usual until next March, and what Roosevelt says and does between now and then will have considerable influence upon the attitude of the manufacturers and business men. Roosevelt has promised to effect a reduction of national expenditures, to balance the budget, and to maintain the national credit and a sound currency. If he can keep those promises, business and industry will have little to fear. As far as the tariff is concerned, we predict that there will be no drastic reduction; Roosevelt proposes to base any changes on the work of a "fact-finding commission free of executive interference;" if he does that, the commission will find that there are very few items on which tariff duties are too high, and the slight revision which is found necessary ought not to demoralize business.

Whether or not Roosevelt can keep his promises depends greatly upon the type of men he selects for his cabinet, and present rumors are to the effect that he will very soon announce the more important choices, such as the secretary of state, the secretary of commerce, and the secretary of the treasury. If he appoints men who will inspire the confidence of business leaders, the nation will be well on the road to recovery.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer WASHINGTON — At a time when most holders of ambassadorships and ministerial positions in Uncle Sam's diplomatic service were wondering what the future had in store for them, Ferdinand Lamot Belin was just getting started.

Belin is a career diplomat, and since 1917 has been a familiar figure in many capitals. He was out only for a short while, however, before he was back at the state department as chief protocol and ceremonial officer. He quit that post the next year.

IMPORTANT POST There are at least two possible reasons why a career man was selected on the eve of a presidential election for the Warsaw post. The first is the next few months might see significant developments on the troublesome question of the Polish Corridor.

Then, too, the fact that Poland is on the Russian border makes it a highly strategic position for this country. The United States, although refusing to recognize the Sovieta, nevertheless apparently keeps an eye on them. A trained observer, such as Belin, might be of great help at Warsaw.

TWO WARS RAISE BRAZZI TO RATING AS AIR POWER BR0 DE JANEIRO (AP) — Revolution in Brazil in 1930 and civil war in 1931 have made this country an air power.

Army circles estimate that effective army and navy planes increased by eighty in the civil war. In the latest conflict, the government purchased 40 airplanes in England, 20 in the United States, and acquired 20 rebel planes when the war ended.

Belin's health is sufficient to keep in American embassy in Warsaw on the longest night. But perhaps there is a deeper significance of the Belin appointment. Although he is a career diplomat, at the time of his appointment as ambassador, he had retired to private life. Twice he has resigned from the diplomatic service only to be called back again.

His first resignation came after the London naval arms conference in 1920.

Belin's health is sufficient to keep in American embassy in Warsaw on the longest night. But perhaps there is a deeper significance of the Belin appointment. Although he is a career diplomat, at the time of his appointment as ambassador, he had retired to private life. Twice he has resigned from the diplomatic service only to be called back again.

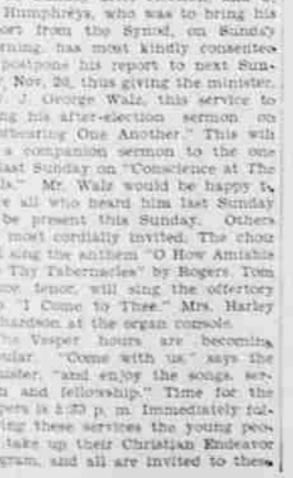

His first resignation came after the London naval arms conference in 1920.

OUT OUR WAY

I'D GO - SURE I'D GO - BE GLAD TO GO TO TH' STORE FER YOU, BUT SHE'S GOT MY LEATHER COAT AN' MY OTHER COAT - AN' YOU KNOW HOW COLD IT IS TO DAY

WHY IN THE WORLD, WHEN HE HOCKS THINGS TO YOU DO YOU HAVE TO TAKE THE VERY THINGS I WANT HIM TO HAVE? SO I'LL PAY YOU AND TAKE THEM OUT OF HOCK, HAH?

WOULDN'T I BE A NUT TO TAKE SOMETHING HE NEVER USES? I WANT MY MONEY BACK! I'VE GOT TO GET IT FROM SOMEWHERE, JUST SO I GET IT.

THE BUSINESS GIRL © 1932 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

By J. R. Williams

WASHINGTON — At a time when most holders of ambassadorships and ministerial positions in Uncle Sam's diplomatic service were wondering what the future had in store for them, Ferdinand Lamot Belin was just getting started. Belin is a career diplomat, and since 1917 has been a familiar figure in many capitals. He was out only for a short while, however, before he was back at the state department as chief protocol and ceremonial officer. He quit that post the next year. IMPORTANT POST There are at least two possible reasons why a career man was selected on the eve of a presidential election for the Warsaw post. The first is the next few months might see significant developments on the troublesome question of the Polish Corridor. Then, too, the fact that Poland is on the Russian border makes it a highly strategic position for this country. The United States, although refusing to recognize the Sovieta, nevertheless apparently keeps an eye on them. A trained observer, such as Belin, might be of great help at Warsaw. TWO WARS RAISE BRAZZI TO RATING AS AIR POWER BR0 DE JANEIRO (AP) — Revolution in Brazil in 1930 and civil war in 1931 have made this country an air power. Army circles estimate that effective army and navy planes increased by eighty in the civil war. In the latest conflict, the government purchased 40 airplanes in England, 20 in the United States, and acquired 20 rebel planes when the war ended. Belin's health is sufficient to keep in American embassy in Warsaw on the longest night. But perhaps there is a deeper significance of the Belin appointment. Although he is a career diplomat, at the time of his appointment as ambassador, he had retired to private life. Twice he has resigned from the diplomatic service only to be called back again. His first resignation came after the London naval arms conference in 1920.