Mr. and Mrs. John M. Miller Host And Hostess to Faculty Members Of Eastern Oregon Normal School

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Miller was the scene of an attractive event Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bedgley and Mr. and Mrs. Miller entertained with a dinner party for faculty members of the Eastern Oregon Normal school. A Thanksgiving motif was in evidence with miniature "horns of plenty" at each place at the dining table. A large replica of the Mayflower, the ship in which the Pilgrims came to America, was set among "ocean waves" decorating the piano in the drawing room. The menu was carried out with a musical accompaniment with Miss Jennie Peterson at the piano and R. L. Sken leading the songs. During the evening games were played, for each of which a ribbon was awarded to the winner. E. R. Quinn received the most and was presented with a grand prize. Guests for the evening were President and Mrs. H. E. Inlow, Miss Helen Moor, Miss Margaret Carstairs, Miss Hildred Atkinson, Miss Florence Day, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Geiser, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hanson, Miss Mildred Hawksworth, Miss Kate Houx, Miss Freda Kennedy, Miss Lethel Keisling, Miss Madeline Larson, Miss Arta Lawrence, Miss Mayme Coxarter, Miss Jennie Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sken, Miss Eva Wear, Miss Thelma Whealy, Miss Alma Whitmer, Miss Amanda Zabel, Miss Hope Inlow and Miss Sylvia Springsteen, of Pendleton.

Order of Rainbow Plans Activities

The Order of Rainbow for Girls met Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Masonic hall and made plans for a pop-corn and candy sale down town next Saturday afternoon. Misses Arlene Conrad and Helen Melville are chairmen of the sale. The Rainbow girls will present the program at Eastern Star on Nov. 23, and also are planning for their anniversary meeting on Nov. 26.

Episcopal Guild Plans Luncheon

St. Peter's Episcopal guild will meet at 1 o'clock on Wednesday for a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Clarence A. Kopp. Each member is requested to bring a covered dish. Members are urged to donate something toward the gift shop in December, for which plans are now being made. Ideas and patterns for gifts also are requested by the next meeting on Wednesday.

Alpha Club Meets At Siegrist Home

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Siegrist entertained on Thursday for the Alpha Evening club, while this week Mrs. Clyde Kiddle will be the hostess to the afternoon club, although a definite time has not been set. Mr. and Mrs. Siegrist entertained at dinner at 7 o'clock at their home, after which bridge was at play with Mrs. Walter Leisman and W. C. Perkins receiving the prizes.

Saturday Evening Club Entertained

Thanksgiving was the inspiration for delightful decorations at an evening party at which Mrs. J. T. Richardson entertained the Saturday Evening Bridge club Saturday night at her home. Bridge was played and the prize for high score was presented to Mrs. Grace Molliter. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

New Riding Club On First Outing

La Grande's newly organized riding club enjoyed its first activity yesterday when the members spent the afternoon on horseback. Rides also were planned for next Saturday and Sunday and those who wish to join the party may call Miss Mildred Standley, president.

Miss Barbara Hiatt Is Complimented

Miss Barbara Hiatt, whose marriage to Jeff Bean, of Klamath Falls, will be an event of Dec. 12, was complimented Friday evening when Miss Mary Bean and Mrs. C. Lloyd Welch entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bean. Miss Hiatt recently announced her engagement to Mr. Bean, a former La Grande resident, who is now stationed in Klamath Falls with the state police.

Comstock Family In Reunion Here

The Comstock family met in reunion this weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Lefell in La Grande. A dinner was enjoyed Saturday at 6 o'clock, followed by an informal evening. Members of the family returned to their homes yesterday. Miss Edna Comstock, of Portland, sister of Mrs. Lefell, arrived Thursday, while on Saturday her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Comstock, and another sister, Miss Lucy Comstock, of Nampa, came to La Grande, accompanied by Mrs. Lefell's sister-in-law and nephews. Mrs. Comstock and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Comstock, of Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Comstock, of Cove, also attended the reunion. Both Mr. Comstock are brothers of Mrs. Lefell.

Art Ramblers Club To Meet Tomorrow

For a final program featuring the bi-centennial of the births of George Washington, the Art Ramblers club has not selected the story of Washington as the theme of the program to be presented tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Neighborhood club. Instead, a period in American history following the Revolution in which Washington was a

Program Honors Birth of Haydn

Miss Hilda Anthony and Miss Ida McMeekin have arranged a program commemorating the bi-centennial of the birth of Haydn, the composer, which will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the La Grande hotel, under the auspices of the Neighborhood Music club, of which Mrs. H. N. Ashby is chairman. Assisting them will be Mrs. Florence Lynch Miller, violinist; Miss Helen Williams, pianist; Mrs. Ashby, vocalist; and Mrs. George Birnie and Mrs. H. H. Richardson, who will play a piano duet. "Scenes From the Childhood of Joseph Haydn," a musical playlet for children, by James Francis Cooke, will also be presented by a group of children. The public is invited to attend the program.

UNION PERSONALS

By Mrs. L. Z. Terral (Observer Correspondent)

UNION (Special)—Dr. and Mrs. George Hoffman drove to Portland, spent the weekend last week, and took in the homecoming football game between U. of O. and O. S. C. played at Corvallis. Mrs. Millard Stearns and Jim came down from Spokane Friday to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Bideler. Mrs. Jennie Adams left Thursday morning for Coquille to spend the weekend with her daughter, Hazel, who teaches school there. Mrs. Howard Wilson, of Lewiston, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, has been in most of the time since she arrived on Saturday. Dr. and Mrs. Ira Gillett stopped Tuesday for a short visit with Mrs. and Mrs. R. C. Lee on their way to New York. Dr. Gillett attended the recent Methodist conference here and told of their missionary work in Africa. He and Mrs. Gillett will return to Portuguese East Africa about Christmas time. Dr. E. S. Martin, of Portland, district superintendent of the American Sunday School union, gave the address at the morning service at the Methodist church Sunday. As a compliment to Mrs. Vera Wright and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Nodine, who are leaving soon to spend the winter in California, Mrs. J. P. Hutchinson and Mrs. Mary Hutchinson entertained at a delightful luncheon at the Union hotel Thursday. The long table arranged for Mrs. Wright and her mother, was of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns alternating with tall yellow and green tapers. After the guests were seated, Hon. Dunham Wright, "Sage of Medical Springs," appeared in the dining room and greeted the crowd with a few reminiscence remarks. The afternoon was spent in bridge and other games. A prize for the best bridge game was won by Mrs. Nodine. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Nodine, prize for high score in bridge to Mrs. Tex Knight, low to Mrs. Grace Powell and the prize for the contest game to Mrs. A. I. Bideler. Those in attendance besides the honor guests and hostesses were Mesdames S. E. Miller, Walter Cook, Edith Eby, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Geo. Baird, J. H. Jacobs, Louis Burwell, C. E. Lawson, Edna Busick, J. R. Jones, Grace Powers, Ella Holly, Clarence Rosewall, Will Hutchinson, Lew Bideler, D. E. Richards, P. M. Littler, John Martens, T. T. Cook, Merton Davis, F. N. Fox, L. Z. Terral, Tex Knight, Fannie Bidwell, Dick Benson, A. I. Bideler, Lynn Collins, Ray Coles, Cassie Graham, Mrs. H. H. Conklin, C. I. Hess, Will Vogel and the Misses Alice Caldwell and Estella Levy. Members of the Carnation club and a few invited guests enjoyed a happy afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Miller Friday. Late fall flowers were in profusion about the rooms and the dining table with a beautiful bouquet as a centerpiece and tall white tapers surrounding it. After a perfect meal the guests spent the afternoon in playing bridge. Guests other than members were Mrs. Elizabeth Nodine, Mrs. Vera Wright, Mrs. J. P. Hutchinson, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. Ella Holly and Mrs. L. Z. Terral.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society met at the home of Mrs. J. J. Brown Wednesday afternoon with 23 members present. Following the business session, a program was given on the subject of "Jesus the Maker of Missions." Several members took part in the program. Mrs. Viola Parker gave a very interesting series of talks on "The Future of the World" which is being studied by the society was given by Mrs. L. Z. Terral. The hostess assisted by Mrs. D. H. Crouter served a very tasty lunch. One of the very delightful social affairs of the winter season was held Wednesday evening when about 20 members of the Baker chapter visited the lodge. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion with baskets of flowers and autumn leaves. Following a short business session, Mrs. Carrie Jackson, past worthy grand matron, gave a review of the history of the Eastern Star in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. Silven and Mrs. Brown, matron and patron of the Baker chapter, gave short talks. Mrs. Jackson presented a bouquet of flowers in a new and impressive floral ceremony. The program was concluded with songs sung by Mrs. Edith Phy and Mrs. Merton Davis. The former played her own accompaniment for the "Swiss Song" and "Beaming with All Those Endearing Young Charms." Mrs. Davis, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Tex Knight, sang "There's a Long Trail" and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise." A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening. About 50 members were present.

At the monthly meeting of the library board held Monday the report of Mrs. George Baird, librarian, showed a circulation of 1366 during October, an increase of almost 200 books over the preceding month. For the month of October last year the circulation was 808 and the next month began to show a decided increase which reached its peak in February with a circulation of 1890 books for the month. To stimulate books for the month, the library board decided to hold open house next Friday afternoon in observance of national book week which comes next week. Further details will be worked out soon.

Circuit Court Term Begins In Wallowa County

By W. L. Flower (Observer Correspondent)

ENTERPRISE (Special)—The Wallowa county grand jury returned seven true bills and five not true when it completed deliberations Thursday evening. Circuit court convenes at Enterprise, Monday, Nov. 14 with J. W. Knowles presiding. It is not known at this time how many of the criminal cases will be tried, but several will be ready and a rather long session of court is expected. The Enterprise High School Savages defeated the Wallowa High School Cougars, 29-0 on Armistice day. The game was all Enterprise with Wallowa only once threatening. This completes the schedule for the season. Enterprise has lost only one—to La Grande—and they were tied once 0-0 by the Eastern Oregon Normal school freshmen. It has been a very successful season with much interest and a team that was runner up for the district championship which it won last year. Orville Millard will leave today, Nov. 14 for Grants Pass where he will be associated with W. T. Miles as deputy district attorney. Mr. Miller was elected state representative from Josephine county on the Democratic ticket and will be occupied with matters at the session to convene in January. It was necessary that he have an able assistant and Mr. Millard was recommended to him as a rising young lawyer who for several months had been associated with E. R. Ringo, candidate for circuit judge at the recent election but who was defeated by J. W. Knowles. Of great interest is the fact that W. T. Miller is a brother of A. B. Miller, re-elected sheriff of Wallowa county at the recent election. Mr. Millard was born in Enterprise and raised here, graduating from the grade and high school and studying law at the University of Oregon law school at Eugene. He passed the Oregon bar in 1929. For some time he was deputy county clerk of Wallowa county. His mother, Mrs. Bertha Millard is librarian at the Carnegie library in Enterprise and a sister, Miss Annie, is employed in the Enterprise postoffice. Naturally Mr. Millard's many friends feel that the advancement has been merited and wish him lots of success in his new field.

It is reported that John Jenkins, manager of the Enterprise Penny store, has been transferred to Baker. His successor has not as yet arrived. Jervis wished he had not asked Nan whether she would mind if he were dead. When he had been wishing it with all his heart for a quite long time, she drew a sobbing breath. "I'm sorry," he said. "I'm not used—to anyone—minding about me." She looked round at him then with something in her eyes which blotted out everything that he had thought or believed about her before this night. It was something quite impossible to mistake. There were tears in her eyes, and behind the tears a shining. He got up in confusion, went over to the bed table, poured out a glass of water, and came back with it in his hand. Nan took it gratefully, but her hand shook. He found himself guiding it. She drank about half the water and gave him the glass again. When she spoke, it was in her natural voice. "Thank you, Jervis." Then, after the slightest pause, "I'm all right now—it's gone." She threw out her hand with a childish gesture. "Oh, isn't it lovely when bad dreams go like that?" "It's quite gone?" "Yes." "Can you go to sleep again?" She said, "I'll read." "Have you got a book?" "Yes." He stood there, not knowing quite what to do. He felt as if he had never seen her before, and yet as if he had known her all his life. He said, "Nan," in a tone which she had not heard from him before. She pushed back her hair and smiled at him. "I'm really all right now. I'm dreadfully sorry I woke you." "Would you like me to leave the door open?" "Oh, no—I've got Bran." A perfectly absurd anger flared up in him. She had Bran, had she? Well, let her have Bran! He certainly hadn't the slightest desire to force himself upon her. He polite voice, and strode to the door. As he shut it, he caught a glimpse of her settling herself against her pillows. His room seemed very dark. He went over to the bed and sat on the edge of it, watching the line of light under the door through which he had just come. His spirit of anger died. He was moved and puzzled. He could not remember anyone having cried for him before. It moved him a good deal that Nan should have cried for him this afternoon. She had sat on the dusty grass and cried because she thought he was dead. It was an astonishing thing to have happened; and yet it was less astonishing and less moving than the look which she had given him just now. When he thought about that look of Nan's, a sort of piercing sweetness and warmth penetrated to the very depths of his consciousness. He was quite unable to think clearly about it, or indeed, to think about it at all. The whole experience was as yet a matter of feeling; it had not been transmitted into thought. He sat quite still for a long time, watching the line of light beneath the door. When at last it went out, he got up, stretched himself, and went into bed. He lay on his right side and watched the moonlight. The moon was not full, and the light was pale, not bright. The window framed it, and one black bough of the tall cypress at the corner of the house; the bough crossed the window like an outstretched arm.

He lay looking at it, and all the time that warm sweetness pierced deeper and deeper. He began to slip away from the moonlight into a more enchanted place. There was a dream waiting for him—a warm, sweet dream, full of color and light. But when he had almost reached it, something pulled him back. He was Raymond Nunner and Ralph Wilcoxson, of Portland, visited by F. G. Potter a few days last week. Raymond lived for several years with Mr. Potter and left here about five years ago. He is now married and lives in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Garrett spent Sunday and Monday at C. P. Carper's. David Garrett is moving to the old Curtis place which he recently bought. Melvin and Orval Carper left Tuesday for the Truman Poulson ranch on Upper Powwaska where the boys are to do some plowing.

Mrs. Alice Smith and Mrs. Sybil Carper attended the teachers' institute at Wallowa Saturday. Raymond Nunner and Ralph Wilcoxson, of Portland, visited by F. G. Potter a few days last week. Raymond lived for several years with Mr. Potter and left here about five years ago. He is now married and lives in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Maudie Henderson and daughter, Emma and Doris, went to Enterprise Wednesday. Vesper Henderson, and sons, Roy and Ray, Jack Smith and John Doud have hauled in a few logs and are sawing out some lumber.

A Mr. Hammett and Edd Anderson, of Enterprise, have bought the Kenworthy sawmill and were hauling it out last week. The heavy rains are making the new road grade almost impassable. Ivan Carper started out Tuesday with a load of wood and got stuck in the mud. He left the load there and returned home the same day. He will get an extra team and try again when the weather settles.

Mr. and Mrs. Tex Williams visited at C. P. Carper's Monday. Melvin and Orval Carper bought four nice three-week-old calves from Mrs. Nellie Fishman, giving her $5 for the four.

Many of the farmers are plowing and some are seeding rye. A few have planted their fall wheat. The grass is starting and if the warm rains continue there will be plenty of grass until it freezes up.

Frank Lindsay built a cow shed last week and is now doing some plowing. Ivan Garrett was helping Obe Swearingen chop wood two days last week. Obe has several hogs and he does his own chopping.

Henry Carper was down from his home at Maxwell Tuesday to serve on the election board.

John Barton killed another bear last week. It was in his father's orchard after apples when he shot it.

MOTHER'S MILK. One of our leading authorities has joyfully said, "Happy is the baby who enjoys his inalienable right of nature's food supply, his own mother's milk."

A mountain of facts has been accumulated throughout the years, showing that breast-fed children are not only happy but healthy
