

La Grande Tigers Entrain for Trip to The Dalles Thursday

TWO UNDEFEATED ELEVENS TO MEET IN FEATURE GAME

Winner Will Rank Among the Topmost Teams in Oregon; The Dalles Preparing For Tigers.

The La Grande High school football team, scheduled to play The Dalles eleven at The Dalles Friday afternoon, will leave La Grande at noon Thursday by train, it was announced today by Principal A. L. Cralapp, who added that a favorable rate had been given the squad by the railroad company. Following the game, the Tigers will entrain and arrive here Saturday morning.

Word was received here yesterday by the La Grande High school authorities from the state board of control that the standing of The Dalles team as far as eligibility is concerned is excellent.

E. R. Quinn, E. O. N. coach, will referee the game and George Stadelman, former center at the University of Oregon, will umpire. Mr. Brumbaugh, of The Dalles, will be head linesman. The three officials were mutually agreeable to the coaches of the competing teams.

First Meeting in Years
This will be the first game between The Dalles and La Grande in many years, but if present plans work out, it will not be the last. There is a possibility that The Dalles may play a return game in La Grande next year, regardless of the outcome of Friday's contest.

Incidentally, the winner of the Friday game will rank as one of the leading teams in Central and Eastern Oregon, and undoubtedly will press its claim for the right to play Jefferson High in Portland Thanksgiving day for the state title.

THE DALLES PREPARING

THE DALLES, Ore., Nov. 16 (Special)—Plans for the making of The Dalles-La Grande football game the feature event of the year were announced Tuesday by I. N. Wiley, principal of the local high school who signed the Union county agreement for a game to be played at La Grande. The Dalles team, undefeated this season and boasting of the best record in Eastern Oregon, comes here Friday for a battle on Amodan field, the first invasion of local territory in several years.

Members of the Booster girls' organization today appeared before the Lion's club in their first attempt to launch an advance ticket sale this year. The girls are to make a house to house canvass today and will appear Thursday before the Kiwanis club at the regular noon luncheon of the organization.

Reports were received here today that approximately 200 fans from La Grande will accompany the team, which will give The Dalles the largest home game of the year. Local school officials are asking cooperation of The Dalles residents in supporting the game as the visitors were given a large guarantee to make the trip.

"If the fans of The Dalles will support the local high school team for this game the same as the fans of Hood River support their team, there will be no question as to the financial success of the contest," Principal Wiley said. "The La Grande team comes here with a clean record and if the Indians are able to upset them, The Dalles will have a record which Portland schools can not ignore."

The Dalles High school Indians, holding victories over Benson of Portland, Bend, Goldendale, Pasco, Milton-Freewater and Astoria have amassed 125 points to their opponents' 37.

DOC SNELL IS WINNER AGAIN—130TH STRAIGHT

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—A dynamite laden left hand that dropped his opponent for a five count in the third round, gave Doc Snell, Tacoma lightweight, a four-round knockout victory over the visiting Holland of Spokane. In the main event of the boxing card here last night, it was Snell's 130th straight win.

Snell dashed out at the bell in the first and landed a sharp left to Holland's body. For the remainder of the round and in the second, the Spokane boy managed to keep away from the hard hitting Tacoma, pecking away with light lefts and an occasional right to Snell's face.

In the third round Snell connected with two solid lefts to the jaw that dropped Holland to the canvas for a five count, the bell saving the Spokane lad from a knockout.

Leaping from his corner in the fourth Snell finished the fight in the solar plexus and gave Snell the victory. Snell weighed 138, Holland 137.

Pro Completes 20 Out of 35 Passes In Football Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—When Arnold (Flash) Herber of the Green Bay Packers, snaps his arm back to throw a forward pass, the odds are better than even money the toss will be completed.

National Professional Football league statistics reveal that Herber has thrown 35 passes, of which 20 have been completed, five of them for touchdowns. His closest rivals, Earl (Dutch) Clark, of Portsmouth, and Benny Friedman, of Brooklyn, have completed 18 in 46 attempts. Herber also leads in punting with an average of better than 46 yards. Clark is the leading ground-gainer with 419 yards.

New York Giants Eager For Game With Collegians

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Tim Mara is ready to give Hiker Joy, assistant coach at Fordham, a chance to prove his assertion that college football is superior to the professional brand.
Mara, owner of the New York Giants of the National Professional Football league, has offered to match his team against Fordham on any suitable date, the proceeds of the game to be turned over to the mayor's fund for the relief of the unemployed.
Joy, who played pro football for some years after his graduation from Holy Cross, was quoted as saying a good college eleven would "run those pros ragged."

Major Leagues Are Not Looking Ahead, Speaker

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 16 (AP)—Tris Speaker, the "gray eagle" of baseball, has been pondering the status of organized baseball and today announced his conclusions.

"The trouble with the 16 major league clubs," he sighed, "is that they are not looking ahead."
"If baseball isn't encouraged in our minor leagues, colleges, universities, high schools, grade schools, vacant lots and city parks, where will the player of tomorrow come from?"
"The answer," he went on, "is simple. There won't be any players of tomorrow."

In Speaker's opinion there is no such thing as a lack of interest in the sport. Many colleges, he commented, have dropped baseball—not because the students don't want to play baseball, but because the expense of outfitting a team is too high. This state of affairs exists also in high schools, grade schools and even on the vacant lots, he added.

"The majors have got to do something and do it mighty quick," he said. "They have got to see that baseball equipment gets into our schools and on the vacant lots, let the majors supply the playing paraphernalia and baseball will come back."
"Don't think the game is gone. It needs a stimulant just like a lot of our business concerns."

Turning to the salary question, Speaker expressed the opinion that salaries are too high and must come down—and will. The baseball player, he quickly added, realizes this and expects it.
Speaker was once manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
"In my 27 years of officiating," remarked Dr. Eddie O'Brien, the referee, "I never had a tougher or more complicated game to handle than the Pittsburgh-Pennsylvania contest."
We were on the way back from Philadelphia, an hour after this sensational tussle, and the doctor still had his rule book tightly clutched in one hand, gestulating with the other and reading aloud from certain technical passages touchingly and appertainingly to the events he had just handled.

SOME TRICKY ONES

"Yes, sir," he went on, emphatically, "I don't think we missed a thing in this book this afternoon."
"Did you wonder what was going on when Penn partially blocked that kick, Pitt recovered and then Penn was given the ball? Well, the rules state: 'After the ball is kicked across the line of scrimmage (even if it is partially blocked), no player of the kicker's team may touch or recover it until it touches an opponent.'"

"Get it? All right. Did you also wonder why we called back that passing play in which a Penn tackle grabbed the ball out of the air for a long run after it had bounced off several other pairs of hands? Listen again to the rule: 'Forward pass... touching or being touched by second (originally eligible) player of passer's team—Loss of a down, the ball to be put in play at spot of preceding down. This penalty MAY NOT be declined.'"

"The pass had been touched by two Pennsylvania eligibles before it was finally grabbed by a third player in the melee. It was a tricky development. There was no doubt what happened but how many of the 70,000 in the stands, who groaned when we called the ball back, knew what was going on and why?"

QUESTS PITT CAPTAIN
Unless Jock Sutherland is saving it to baffle some of Pittsburgh's late-season opposition, including Stanford, the passing combination of Warren Heller and Paul Reider, Panther captain, seems to have been broken up.

It was one of the sensations of the 1931 season but Mike Sebastian, a hardy runner and blowing back than Reider, replaced the Panther captain early in the campaign, against Army, and successfully held the job at tight halfback.

Sebastian is one of those rare "pitch-runners" who can slash off the yardage when it is most needed. Some of the Pitt adherents think that if Mike had been given the ball in that celebrated goal-line drive in the last minute of play, the scoreless deadlock would have been broken.
Heller appears faster than Sebastian and is, of course, a superior passer, but no more elusive after being shaken past the first line trenches.

"Frosch" Stars as Illini Soph

A young man by the name of Frank Froschauer looks like he's going to get somewhere on the prairie of the University of Illinois before the year's over. Frank, shown above, is a sophomore halfback who was held out of early season games due to a shoulder injury. They put him in the Chicago game, however, and what he didn't do in the way of playing just isn't being done. He weighs 176, is six feet one inch tall and hails from Lincoln, Ill.

COLLEGE PLAYER DIES

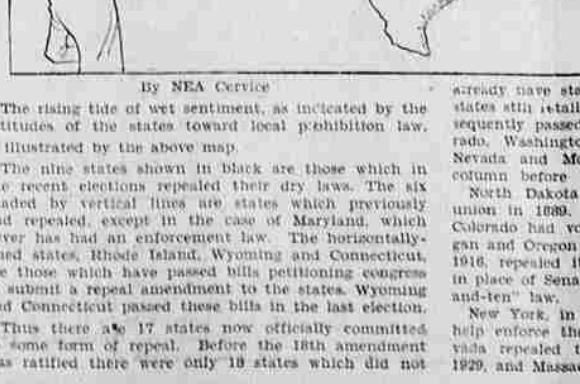

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 16 (AP)—Ralph McClure, 21-year-old Colorado college football star who was injured in last Saturday's game with Illinois, died in a hospital this morning.

Death was caused by a fracture of the cervical vertebrae, received when he tackled George Grosvenor, University of Colorado halfback, in the last period of the game.

Inspiring Mountain Peak

In the Caucasus are no fewer than six peaks higher than Mount Blanc, Mount Elbruz, 18,465 feet, is the greatest of them all. The old tales tell that Prometheus was bound to his rock atop Mount Elbruz, and even today there is an air of awesome mystery about the lofty, cloud-draped peak.

HUSKIES WILL BE AT TOP STRENGTH

Washington Eleven to Play Host to Southern Cal. on Turkey Day.

SEATTLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—When the University of Washington football team plays host to Southern California here Thanksgiving day, the Huskies are expected to be at full strength for a change.

Hill Smith, who with Dave Nisbet, make up one of the finest sets of wingers on the coast, is back in harness after a touch of influenza. Smith was out of the Washington State battle last Saturday but will have time to get into condition for the Trojans.

Capt. Bill O'Brien and Woody Ullin, rugged linemen who were banged up fighting the Cougars, are ready for light work again.
In spite of Southern California's impressive record and the fact that a victory over Washington will give the Trojans another conference championship, the Huskies are not conceding defeat.

"Every man on the squad is ready to shoot the works in the Thanksgiving day game and Howard Jones' men will have no soft pickings as they try to climb over us," said Captain O'Brien talking for the squad.
"We are not cocky at all; we have no reason to be, but we are determined and if the southerners beat us they will do it only after plenty of battle."

Mike Teaching Fight Tricks To St. Paul Cops

By D. R. Mackensie
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Mike the Phantom, teaching St. Paul policemen tricks new to them but old to him, has changed his tune.
He's fighting Kid Crime today by proxy—325 proxies, the St. Paul police department's personnel—anywhere it once was "poked him in the jaw," "clout him in the body," when the Phantom Mike Gibbons was in the hey-day of his middleweight boxing career, it's now "one-two-three, then kick him in the shins if necessary."

During a moment of respite from his sparring with pen and pencil mapping out a program, Mike outlined his ideas on the job of physical director of the police department to which he has been provisionally appointed to pare poundage from ponderous policemen.

The girls control business will be his biggest job besides teaching boxing, wrestling, disarming, running, kicking, and other tricks.
"I will teach the aggressive fighting," Mike explained, referring to the younger athletic officers. "When one of the boys meets a tough mug in an alley he doesn't want to box an hour to win a decision. He wants to beat him quick."

If fists fail, the Phantom suggests a kick in the shins. "There is a right way and a wrong way to kick a man," he said, "the right way being to shoot the foot straight ahead, not up, as in booting a football."
The old time flash of the ring is going to take a civil service examination later for permanent assignment to the job.

CHICAGO IS IMPROVING

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP)—Attention everybody who has said that Chicago is a crime center!

From midnight to 6 a. m., yesterday the police received only two crime reports, and they were very minor affairs.

Seeking Advantage

Opportunism is defined as the act, policy or practice of taking advantage, as in politics, of opportunistic or circumstances, or often of seeking immediate advantage with little regard for ultimate consequences.

Debts A Question

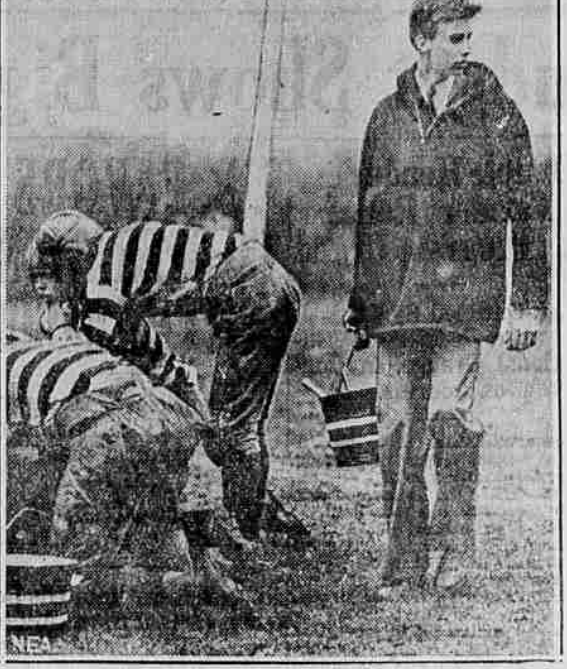

Another debt payment from Europe is due on Dec. 15, and there is much doubt whether the money will be forthcoming. Not only have both parties shunted this question aside in their campaign arguments, but the European politicians also have put their utterances under restraint pending the outcome of the American election.

The general problem of European rehabilitation, including the question of armaments; the puzzle of the far east, about to be raised anew as the League of Nations takes up the Lytton report; the inquiry soon to begin before a senate committee considering the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada—all these contain the fuses of highly explosive political controversy.

What About Relief?
And overshadowing it all is the approach of another winter's cold, with cries for help raised toward Washington from almost every community in the land.

Perhaps some genius will arise to separate relief from politics, but past experience reflects no such prospect.

Roosevelt's Son Is Waterboy

White House servants will jump to his beck and call after March 4, but just now John Roosevelt, son of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, is official waterboy to the football team at Groton school, Groton, Mass., where he is a student. Here's John on the job, bucket in hand. His brother, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., is right tackle on the Groton eleven.

Election Day Is Just a Pause In Rushing Stream of Government

By Byron Price
Those who feel inclined to have a sigh of relief because the campaign is over should remember that election day does not mean a cessation of politics.

Instead it merely marks a temporary landing along the bank of a rushing stream which flows on forever.
Whatever pause ensues is of the briefest. After election follows a period of readjustment almost as feverish in its activities as the campaign itself. Certain political debris needs to be cleared away, and party leaders must acclimate themselves quickly to new surroundings and new prospects.

To this rule 1932 is no exception. Problems of high policy challenge both parties. For the victorious party, campaign promises begin to press for redemption, and long-term planning must be resumed.
For the defeated party, there remains the critical question of how and where to make a fresh start.

The urgency of these matters arises largely from the constitutional provision which allows no real breathing space between the election and the reconvening of congress. Within less than a month after the ballots are counted, politics resumes its gambol on Capitol Hill. In this year, particularly, the drafting of legislative programs is a matter of the greatest political concern.

Problems Must Be Met

Urgent domestic and foreign problems, both domestic and foreign, have been shouldered aside for campaign purposes. Now they must be met.
A new deficit is gouging its way deeper and deeper every day into the fiscal policy of the national government. There is a growing undercurrent of conviction that new taxes must be provided with a minimum of delay. It would be hard to find any subject more heavily loaded with political dynamite.

New appropriation bills must be passed between now and July. Practically every member of house and senate, of whatever party, has told his constituents to expect reductions in government spending. How and where to prune must be fought out all over again.

Washington's Coat-of-Arms

The Washington coat-of-arms consists of a shield with a silver or white background, on the top of which are three five-pointed stars in red, with two red bars below. Over the shield is a coronet, above which rises a black raven.
