"Anticlines" The geological survey says that an anticline is an upfold in rocks, and such a fold in deposits that are buried beneath formations of more recent geologic age that were not subjected to the folding cannot be detected at the surface. Such upfolds—called anticlines—are regarded as favorable to the accumulation of oil, and it is for this reason that oil prospectors endeavor to locate such structures.

Architect Was Right When Wren built St. Paul's cathedral, he was so mistrustful of stone near iron that he is said to have specified that no iron inside stone should be within nine inches of the air. His instructions were not carried out, and much damage has resulted. Over 1,600 iron cramps and dowels were removed from the main piers of the cathedral during recent repairs. Many of these, which caused much damage to the masonry, were found to lie within an inch or two of the surface of the stone.

Many Theories of Long Standing Upset by 1932 Presidential Vote

By Byron Price Not the least notable feature of the great Democratic hurricane of Nov. 8 was the manner in which it wrecked finally and completely some of the theories on which political planning has been based many years.

What becomes of the long-accepted notion that in this country there are two parties, fairly evenly matched, with a comparatively small group of independents holding the balance of power?

Or the tradition, established in Lincoln's time and reaffirmed in Wilson's, that the country will hesitate to fall to a president in a time of great national stress?

Or the idea that in a two-candidate contest for the highest office, the man who is in will necessarily be hard to beat because of the favors he has done and the organization he has built during four years of power?

Or the old conviction that the respective interests of the states have grown so diverse that never again will all sections unite in finding any one candidate preferable?

The answer is that all these assumptions are as dead as last summer's flower-garden. Every one of them was nurtured hopefully by the supporters of Mr. Hoover, and the worst defeated candidate of any major party in history.

An About Face The election returns are more decisive on that point when they are compared, detail for detail, with the figures for 1928.

It is in itself an astounding contradiction of the old political theories that the election of 1932 of all times could have taken place at two succeeding elections, and operated in exactly opposite directions.

Mr. Roosevelt's popular plurality approximates that by which Mr. Hoover won four years ago—something above six millions. In other words, not simply a minor group of independent voters, but a large group of independent voters, changed tickets between one election and the next.

And that figure, it should be remembered, is net. It takes no account of the undetermined numbers who changed the other way—that is, those who voted against Mr. Hoover last time, and supported him this time.

To put it in terms of state majorities, 34 states, or more than two-thirds the whole number, went Republican in 1928, and switched to Democratic in 1932.

Considered along with the breaking up of the solid south in the last election, the statistics mean that the bloc of independent voters has been increasing by leaps and bounds in recent times, and that an almost negligible number of states can be set down at the start of future campaigns as "safe" for either party.

Voting Habits Changing Of course it would be a mistake to draw too broad conclusions from two such extraordinary years as those of 1928 and 1932.

Each of these campaigns involved certain elements not usually present, and allowances should be made accordingly.

But certainly political axioms can be regarded no longer as axioms when they have been overturned twice in so short a time. The evidence is ample that voting habits are changing, and that the politicians hereafter must stop, look and listen, instead of talking too much for granted.

Just a Dreamer, But Wolverine Fullback Makes Them Come True

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—It is about time for gridders to wake up when Ted Petoskey, end and back on the University of Michigan football team, gets to dreaming.

Petoskey's dreams have a habit of coming true. In 1928 he dreamed, for most of his dreams are good ones.

One night he dreamed of returning a kickoff the length of the football field, and the next day he did it—caught the opening kickoff and ran 87 yards for a touchdown.

This was when he was playing with Spartan high school, and that particular play is still etched in Ted's being in a maize and blue uniform right now.

For Fielding Yost, Michigan mentor, saw the play. Ted Petoskey heard that Ted Petoskey, end and back on the Michigan squad, last year he placekicked nine points after touchdown.

Besides being a powerful runner, Petoskey is one of the best pass receivers on the Michigan squad. Last year he placekicked nine points after touchdown.

Besides football, Petoskey plays basketball and baseball, and letters in the three sports last year.

expressing the hope Germany would soon rejoin the conference. The French delegate, Rene Massigli, then announced France stood by its proposals of Monday for conscript armies in Europe and an equality of basis in armaments.

Sir John did not treat on the French plan for disarmament and security as it had been reported he would, dismissing the point with the assertion that the idea would require long study.

In acknowledging Germany's right to the same kind of armaments as others have, Sir John said he was speaking of kinds of arms and not of the best prevention. There is no known medical means of prevention. If a susceptible person comes in contact with influenza he almost invariably contracts the disease.

Live outdoors as much as possible and avoid crowded places. Wear clothing suitable to the weather and avoid dissipation of any kind. Simple nursing is the best prevention. Wash the hands frequently, particularly before eating. If you have influenza, however mild, go to bed and stay there until your physician says it is safe to arise. Remember that the exhaustion from influenza is usually out of proportion to the mildness of the symptoms, and great care must be taken to prevent injury to the vital organs.

Many Deaths Recorded Influenza deaths in Oregon 1922 to 1931 were as follows: 1922 387; 1923 241; 1924 123; 1925 209; 1926 228; 1927 263; 1928 363; 1929 366; 1930 204; 1931 200.

People die of influenza in Oregon in all seasons but the winter and early spring months are particularly dangerous. The signs and symptoms of a cold are always danger signals, especially when influenza is prevalent. At this time every sudden acquired cold should be regarded with suspicion and a physician consulted at once. Avoidance of contact is the best prevention. There is no known medical means of prevention.

American Opinion Voiced American official quarters gave the opinion that the British proposals ought to be sufficient to prepare the way for Germany's return to the conference if the Germans sincerely wish a disarmament agreement.

Now it has come to the long months of the disarmament conference and its scanty results. He said the delegates were in Geneva to reduce armaments and not merely to talk about them. Recalling the economic depression and the burden of debts, he asserted that reduction in arms would go to relieve the crisis.

"The time has come to take definite action for the reduction and limitation of armaments," Mr. Davis said. He warned that the condition of the world was critical and further delay was dangerous.

Sufficient Base Provided The American said he regarded the American, French and British proposals as providing a sufficient base for an early agreement on a disarmament treaty.

The Russian delegate warmly seconded the view that disarmament could succeed only on the basis of equal treatment. He said he desired the recognition of the principle of equality and the return of Germany to the conference.

Bissonette Back In Dodgers' Fold

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' worries over their first base problem, which were reaching their peak, were relieved today when it was reported they were attempting to buy Jim Bottomley or Pat Crawford from St. Louis, have been calmed somewhat by the reappearance of a sound arm in Del Bissonette.

Del, weighing 190 pounds and full of pep, dropped into the Dodger offices yesterday and proved by various tests that he had fully recovered from the operation for a leg infection that kept him in the hospital during most of the 1932 baseball season.

Great English Bells "Great Paul," the borden bell at St. Paul's cathedral, London, is the largest bell in the British empire. It weighs 37,433 pounds, while "Little John," the great bell of Nottingham exchange, weighs but 23,184 pounds.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel poor and sunk and the world looks blue and sad, swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you healthy, sweet and buoyant and all of nothing.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. Take Easily for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If it fails to do so, your liver, your food, doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, a amazing sweet and buoyant and all of nothing.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute, 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.
