TRICK ROPING EASY FOR CLANCY

With a good natured grin, a Texas drawl and a well-trained roping hand, Fred M. Clancy Jr., 26-year-old trick rider and roper, has appeared in rodeos and horse shows throughout the south and west during the past 12 years. In between jobs he roams about seeing the country and it is one of these between-show trips that brought him to La Grande where he is stopping at the Arthur McCall farm near the city.

The young showman is the son of Fred M. "Foghorn" Clancy Sr., of Fort Worth, himself a rodeo promoter who has arranged some of the biggest shows of the south. Candy Hammer, Hort Campbell, Bassett Blakey, Al Chase, and other names that are well-known to exhibition riders and ropers, are among Mr. Clancy's list of employees.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 16—Have seen three brand new pictures. There is an epidemic of every female in every new picture now to try and act like Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong." So if you can't see all the new pictures, why, just go see Mae's and then you will have seen 'em all. They even got me going around saying "You can be had."

For Harmony, Efficiency and Business-like Conduct of La Grande's School Affairs

There has been a greater necessity for harmony and complete understanding of school and child education problems upon the part of the school board membership. Matters of grave importance in best conduct of our city schools under a necessitated slim budget will require not only this harmony and understanding but clear, careful business judgment as well that will give to the community the best school service possible.

With this feeling, this newspaper believes it expresses the hope of every interested citizen of the community that candidates be selected at Monday's election who will have received the careful consideration of every one going to the polls. That the qualifications and characteristics of each candidate will be carefully studied and decision reached in each voter's mind that in giving the vote to the individuals of their selection, that they will have cast a vote for harmony and efficiency in manipulation of school affairs bound to keep the educational facilities of this community in complete step with the new progress of the times.

Next Monday the citizens of La Grande will select at the polls from a group of five proposed, three candidates to join with two hold-overs in the manipulation of school affairs for the coming terms. This newspaper believes that probably at no other time in the history of school operation in the city of La Grande has
