

EVANS PRESENTS DRAMATIC ECHOES AT EAST NORMAL

By Bess Duke

Slipping easily into the characters which he portrayed, Richard B. Evans, of Pendleton, presented "Dramatic Echoes" from the ages Tuesday night at the Normal school. Individually each of the eight characters which he depicted was excellently pictured, but collectively the program was a bit too heavy for one evening, leaving the audience moved but limp and exhausted as the curtains closed on the presentation of Oedipus from "Oedipus Tyrannus," a Greek tragedy of Sophocles.

Highlights in the program were the characterizations of Richard, the deformed Duke of Gloucester, in Shakespeare's "Henry VI"; Ivan Ivanovitch Topkatchov, in "The Tragedian in Spite of Himself," from the Russian Chekhov; and Oedipus Rex.

"Boyd Jackson deserves a part of the praise also for the effectiveness of this recital. The staging was superb with the lighting effects contributing a weird beauty to the horrible "Oedipus Tyrannus," a romantic aura for the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," and others in kind, the stage technician catching cleverly the mood of the piece.

Only one set of curtains was used for the entire recital, different effects being obtained through the color and play of the lights.

Between each of the numbers, Mr. Evans sketched the background for the next character. The costumes, designed by Mrs. L. Warner, of Eugene, were appropriate to the characters which Mr. Evans so ably represented.

The entire program included:

I. Richard, Duke of Gloucester.

Scene 1: The plotting of slaughter.

Scene 2: After the murder of King Henry.

II. Hamlet, Prince of Denmark.

III. Cyrano—from Cyrano de Bergerac.

"See that Ad up there at the Top of the Page?"

It's talking about Chesterfield—says it has a good reputation—What about it?

TALKING ABOUT the reputation of a cigarette—that's something new. I know about reputation of people... reputation of some other things... and, come to think about it, I should say that CHESTERFIELD has an A-1 reputation.

You know, it seems to have real merit. To me, for a cigarette 'To Satisfy,' it certainly has to be made right; and then it has to taste right. I just don't like them strong... they just have to be mild.

CHESTERFIELD has what it takes to satisfy. That's what people say about it.

They have what it Takes to Satisfy. Just Try them!
