Many Sheep Are Coming Into Wallowa County

WALLOWA (Special)—The number of bands of sheep which have been brought to this county during the past few weeks greatly out-number the bands which are usually brought here for summer range. It is not known how many sheep are being ranged in the timbered areas of the county, but apparently the most of the range areas are quite well stocked.

The grass, in the late parts of the county which are used until well into the fall, is said to be quite good at this time and with those sections receiving heavy rains it is thought the forage conditions in most sections will hold out good for summer and fall range.

Closure-in pastures in the hills are drying up quite rapidly and some of the dairymen report a considerable falling-off in milk production from their herds during the past week or two. Irrigated pastures are just coming into their best at this time.

SOME GRAIN IS BURNING OUT

WALLOWA (Special)—The continued dry weather appears to have caused the squirrels to be more destructive to grain crops, than is usually the case at this season of the year. Some farmers in hill areas report the loss of from 25 to as much as 100 acres of grain. The most of this, it is believed, will mean a complete loss, inasmuch as the soil has become very dry and chances for rain to soak the soil sufficiently to cause the grain to make much of a growth again are held very slight. Only small damage has been done to spring-sown crops and with the season near at hand when squirrels usually begin holding, it is believed spring grain will not receive the damage which has occurred to fall-sown crops. Heavy showers of rain fell the last of the week, but reports from hill areas indicate that it was not heavy enough to be of any great benefit to crops. Some burning of this grain on this land has occurred the past week and unless considerable rain comes in the next week or two much of the wheat will be quite short, as will also be the case with spring-sown crops as much of the moisture has been sapped from the soil by the wind and warm weather.

HAYING THE BILL ON WALLOWA FARMS

WALLOWA (Special)—Haying has started at a number of farms and others state they will start cutting their first crops about July 4. In some places the alfalfa appears to be quite good. Some farmers have already engaged their hay hands and wages for this class of work is said to be $2 per day. A large part of the help will be paid in hay again this season according to reports. With a considerable number of the local men at the Innaha camp it is likely the most of the hay men here will be able to find work during the rush of the haying and harvest season. Grain farmers, most of whom are facing the possibility of short crops and prospects for low prices, are figuring on doing their harvesting as cheaply as possible with exchange of work and cutting with combines which will require little extra help.

Andy DeLong Of Rock Creek Is In Dairy Game

ROCK CREEK (Special)—Andy DeLong, prominent farmer of the Rock Creek section is again operating his dairy herd and 24 acres of his farm land in that vicinity. Mr. DeLong milks the Holsteins, and a nice herd he has.

He does not veal his male calves regardless of the advance price in beef but on the other hand raises them on his excellent pasture land and cares for them in such manner that he is able to dispose of them for breeding purposes.

Mr. DeLong had the misfortune a short time ago to lose his prize winning Holstein sire which he entered for exhibition last year and many years previous at the Eastern Oregon Livestock Show at Union. He has registered "stuf" and is very optimistic since he is enjoying good health and able to have a small garden in connection with his other daily duties.

Countrywoman's Club Will Hold Celebration on July Fourth

GRANGE HALL (Special)—Plans were made for a picnic to be held the Fourth of July at Mrs. Sara Anson's mountain ranch located on Whiskey creek west of La Grande, when the Countrywoman's club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. The club was in favor of making ice cream the feature of the potluck dinner which will be served at noon. Mrs. Reece McAllister, president, appointed committees to take charge of the different features that will be in order to make the affair a good old fashioned Fourth of July picnic. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung by all. Each person was called upon to tell of her most pleasant Fourth of July celebration. Mildred Flesman sang a number, with her sister, Marjorie, playing the accompaniment on the piano. A game, "Going to the Fair," was played. Song "Dear, What Can the Matter Be?" by all. In the guessing contest Mary Ellen Golden won the prize for the nearest guess to the number of sea shells in a bottle and in the singing contest the group who sang "Old Black Joe" won.
