POET'S CORNER

MY SON
 Be brave, my son, in the fight today
 'Gainst sin and pride and strife
 The things worth while are hard to win
 In this game called the "Game of Life."

Be true, my lad, if you'd win a place
 In the niche or Hall of Fame
 And whether you work or whether you play
 The rules are ever the same.

Be firm, my boy, if the fight you'd win
 And a victor's crown you'd wear,
 Play the game like a hero, with might and main,
 Don't give way to grim despair.

Be faithful, lad, if a crown you'd win
 In the race of life today,
 Forget the mistakes of the past, my boy
 And be true in all you say.

Be earnest, my boy, in every act
 No matter how big or small,
 For the God in Heaven lives today
 And watches over all. —J. H. B.

DOUBTS LIFE ON MARS

PASADENA, Cal. — The idea that human life might exist on Mars received a heavy blow when astronomers declared that observations indicated less than one per cent of the oxygen existing on the earth. Moreover, summer temperature was estimated to range from seventy-nine degrees to far below zero, Fahrenheit.

Markets, restaurants and hotels in Madison, Wis. are supplied with fresh lake fish daily by means of a chartered airplane which makes trips for a local wholesale company.

Forty-one foreign markets purchase American chewing tobacco, with the Philippine Islands the leading importer.

WHAT THE WELL DRESSED MAN WILL WEAR

Duncan Paiga Describes the New Style Trend

Looking forward a few months into the mirror of fashion, the careful dresser will note many unusual and desirable changes in the design of men's clothing.

The new drape styles, created for the comfort of the man who is taking

Shoulders are natural, but wide his work and recreation strenuously in these changing times, are a distinct departure from more closely fitting suits and overcoats seen in recent years.

To begin with, the so-called "lounge construction," that is destined to make the newer styles tremendously popular, has fullness in exactly the right places to insure maximum comfort and yet is molded to fit the figure and emphasize the curves and angles which make for distinction in the science of tailoring. No matter how busy you may be, the soft, easy drape of these new styles will give you a look of leisure.

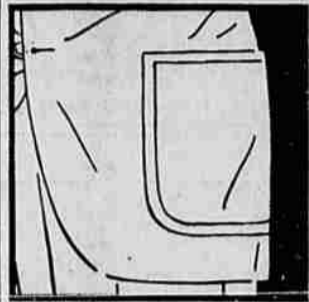

Shoulder padding, which would be out of place in these new drape coats, has been practically eliminated. The shoulder lines are natural and deep folds appear in the front of the coat. These features have been somewhat emphasized in suits of lounge construction by a new type of collar which sets farther away from the side of the neck and is, therefore, less upright and noticeably flatter.

This is illustrated in the figure above, as is also the high notched lapel, which serves to strengthen the note of fullness across the chest and the natural shoulder lines. The coat is sharply depressed at the waist and has but two buttons, only the top one of which is used.

Combined, these new features make the wearer look broader in the shoulders and narrower in the waist. An entirely new note is offered in pocket design. Special hand stitching is used on patch pockets to give the coat a distinctive appearance combined with a more informal touch, as illustrated below. This stitching, which is called "Franklin," is placed 3/4 of an inch in from the edge of the coat and vest as well.

A French word, "jetted," has been adopted to describe another unusually stylish type of pocket to be found on the newer coats. It has no flap, but the two edges are piped to give the opening a smooth, even line. Vests, this year are tailored to combine comfortably and stylishly with the drape coat and the new high rise trousers, which are given a decided fullness by the addition of two pleats on each leg. While the vest has six buttons, the lower one is designed to be left unfastened. The preferred fabrics will be worsteds, both finished and unfinished, and Saxenies. Popular colors, among the more discerning dressers, will be brown, grey and blue grey.

Patch pockets with Franklin stitching

Shy Mercury In View This Month In Evening Sky

By Robert H. Baker (Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—The shy planet Mercury can be viewed for a few evenings early in July, low in the northwest at nightfall as a rather bright star near its brighter neighbor, Venus.

Nearest of all planets to the sun and the swiftest traveler of all, Mercury speeds around the sun at the rate of 36 miles a second, twice as fast as the earth revolves, completing its circuit once in 88 days. Its orbit is nearly edge-wise to the earth.

Mercury is usually so near the sun that it is lost in the sunlight. Most people have never seen it.

But now it is at the eastern end of its swing, setting low enough after the sun to remain above the horizon until the sky darkens. Even so, it sinks out of sight not very long after sunset. One must look for it in the twilight.

Mercury is the smallest of the bright planets. Its diameter, 3100 miles, is only half that of our large moon. It is an airless, waterless, lifeless world, subjected to intense heat on the side continually turned toward the sun and to extreme cold on the other.

CATFISH PREDICT QUAKES

TOKYO — According to two Japanese scientists, catfish know when an earthquake is due, becoming very "jumpy" about six hours before a shock occurs. During a period of observation of several months, it was found that the catfish had been correct in eighty per cent of their earthquake predictions covering the occurrence of 178 quakes, of all degrees of severity.

Local Lads Show up Exceptionally Well; Walla Walla Out For Northwest Championship.

The Union county American Legion junior league team, playing its first practice game of the season against the strong Walla Walla junior league nine, lost at Walla Walla yesterday 6 to 4.

The closeness of the score and the showing of the local boys led fans to believe that the team here will be in the running when the official play-off begins. Walla Walla defeated Seattle, last year champion, two out of three, defeated Pasco and Dayton, and also won several other games.

Tomorrow morning the juniors will play the Midgets, a team at Enterprise. The game will be played in the Wallowa county seat.

Raymond O. Williams, in charge of the team, was accompanied by Walter A. Bean to Walla Walla. The lineup yesterday was: Cecil Walden, catcher; Ray Knezevich, pitcher; Lyle Crouser, first; Chase McCoy, second; Harland Pratt, third; Sheldon Hyde, shortstop; Fred Leonard, left field; Arlen Beck, center field; Ralph Friswell, right field. Others on the team are: Robert Arnoldus, John Friswold, Morris Robertson, Tom Blackman and Charles Young.

HELD UP, SHOUT AVOIDS LOSS

NEW HAVEN—A 20-foot horned dinosaur, Monoclonius, which lived about 60,000,000 years ago, has been restored and placed on exhibit in the museum at Yale university by Prof. Richard S. Lull, director.

The restoration was made in such a way that one side reveals its skeletal structure and the other, with the flesh synthetically reconstructed, presents a life-like appearance.

PORTLAND DROPS SERIES TO OAKS; IN THREE-WAY TIE

By The Associated Press

Despite an introduction to Seattle twilight baseball that cost Sacramento its first series since the last May, the Senators still led the Coast league by a 4-game margin today.

The Selons dropped 4 of the games to Seattle but maintained their first place advantage due to Oakland's manhandling of the second-place Portland club. Hollywood and Los Angeles pulled up on even terms with the Beavers through early victories last week over the Missions and San Francisco.

Sacramento lost its final twilight game Saturday night, 12-1, and recovered to take yesterday's doubleheader, 8-5 and 6-2.

After taking a 101 walloping Saturday night, Oakland came back to take both ends of yesterday's twill from Portland club. Hollywood and Los Angeles pulled up on even terms with the Beavers through early victories last week over the Missions and San Francisco.

Beaten 4-3 on Saturday, Hollywood won both ends of yesterday's doubleheader with the Missions, 7-6 and 3-1, and the series, 6-2.

Los Angeles licked San Francisco 10-5 Saturday and made it straight with a 5-1 win in yesterday's opener. Jimmy Zinn gave the Seals some 8-1/2 pitching and their victory of the series, 6-3, in the inning second game.
