"MEXICO, D. F." WASHINGTON — In compliance with the request of the Mexican government, the United States government has adopted "Mexico, D. F." as the designation of Mexico City. The letter "D. "I'm Putting Up Jams and Jellies," Says President Roosevelt's Daughter

By Anna Roosevelt Dall

I'm so often asked questions about jellies and like subjects, but, at present, my mind is miles away from those important world interests. Right now, a great portion of my interests is directed kitchen-ward. There's a reason, of course. I'm putting up some jams and jellies for winter, and having a grand time doing it. I'm surprised to discover that it isn't a colossal task at all, at least not with all the modern scientific aids to duty. The food markets are filled to the brim with gorgeous ripe fruits of every description. Yet I can't use more than a few boxes when they're ripest and best. So I'm capturing these beautiful colors and delicious tastes in jellies and jams. Quite as appealing as the marvelous ripe berries themselves are the attractive price tags on them. The price of food is a matter of concern to everyone these days. During my frequent visits to the White House I hear much talk of food economy and low-cost menus. Certainly one of the best savings to be effected now is in fresh fruits. If you know your science, jelly and jam making are no trouble. I wouldn't have time to make them if they were. Thanks to the short-boll method and bottled fruit pectin which insures jellifying, this ancient art has become one of the a.b.c.'s of kitchen accomplishments. Here are some recipes to follow:

Huckleberry Jam 4 1/2 cups (2 1/2 lbs.) prepared fruit 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar 1 bottle fruit pectin To prepare fruit, crush about 2 quarts fully ripe berries. Add juice of 1 lemon and grated rind of 1/2 lemon. Fill a large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 2 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in fruit pectin. Skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 12 cases (8 fluid ounces each).

Leganberry Jelly—Blackberry Jelly 4 cups (2 lbs.) juice 7 1/2 cups (3 1/2 lbs.) sugar 1 bottle fruit pectin To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and add fruit pectin. Stir constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

Washington itself is a reawakened capital. There is activity, hope and enthusiasm today where there was weariness bordering on despair a year ago. In gay atmosphere, hundreds of thousands of Americans are gathering at Chicago for a world's fair celebration which at one time promised to be a dismal failure. A bonus army has marched to the Potomac, but the incident was a singularly devoid of rancor or tragic consequences. Farm and food riots are fewer. The great roads have cancelled wage reduction proposals. President Roosevelt is in Washington. Whatever it may mean in terms of a new national awakening, newspaper editors report to The Associated Press that in many years "have readers been so intrigued in what their federal government is doing. And surely something has happened to the colleges, which in former years celebrated the June commencement season with many a dignified lecture. Read a collection of commencement headings from the New York Times for two days of this June, and note the emphasis on public affairs: "Liberty is for all," says Dr. Barbour. "Brain trust held liberating force." "Pegs of control stated at Smith." "McConaughy lauds Roosevelt daring." "Williams honors Justice Roberts." "Asa's nationalism as foe of education." These evidences of a revitalized civic conscience and a dawning national pulse may not be conclusive, but at least they are impressive. Captain Bob Bartlett sails on secret mission to Arctic. Wholesale prices continued their advance in May and June.

SECRET SOCIETY HOPES TO ALTER FUTURE OF CUBA

By J. P. McKnight HAVANA (AP) — Evolution of a political party strong enough to affect Cuba's future course, is the predicted destiny of the A B C secret society. Long relentless in its opposition to President Gerardo Machado, the organization has accepted the American ambassador, Sumner Welles, as mediator in the island's political impasse. New York Junta Dissolves Members of other opposition groups have been gravitating to its banner, one of the most notable actions in this direction coming when the revolutionary junta organized in New York a year ago was virtually dissolved. Its president, Dr. Carlos de la Torre, told the members they were free to join opposition groups in Havana in accepting mediation by Mr. Welles. The A B C's emergence as an active organization dedicated to the furthering of reform in public life would be looked upon favorably, it is known, by nearly all those now engaged in seeking to find the solution to Cuba's political problem. Furthermore, the same idea has long been in the heads of those actively directing the society's campaign.

Plan For 'New Deal' Critical not alone of the present administration's policies but also of the corruption that, they charge, has tainted almost every regime in the island's history as an independent nation, the secret organization hopes to help in bringing about a "new deal."

The A B C and its former affiliate, the O C R, claim between them an estimated 50,000 members and active sympathizers throughout the island. In large part their membership derives from the new generation, young professional and business men and educators who never before have participated in political activities. Organization closely knit. Necessity has mothered in these idealists a gift of organization, to the point that, despite the need for moving secretly, there is no other faction in Cuba which can approach the A B C and the O C R for compact unity of action.

Now its leaders are busy studying, estimating, devising into the past history of the island's public men, passing on their qualifications to hold office. The leaders of the future must be men who have had no previous connection with politics, they believe.

POLES CHEW GUM WARSAW — Introduced into Poland by American tourists, chewing gum, unknown in prewar days, has become so popular that the largest candy factories are now making it.

Finds Nugget Of Gold At Sumpter Valued at $157.50

BAKER (Special)—A gold nugget, weighing eight and one-half ounces, was discovered by E. W. Davidhizar and son, R. H. Davidhizar of Mosier, Ore., during the "clean-up" at the Buck Gulch placers near Sumpter. The nugget, valued at $157.50 and said by "old-timers" to be the largest ever found in the Sumpter district, was picked up in the race. Mr. Davidhizar has been interested in the Buck Gulch placers for the last 30 years and goes to the mine each year for spring mining. He started this year May 30 and quit Tuesday because of low water. Mr. Davidhizar, who operates a hydraulic on the property, said that in addition to the nugget the cleanup was very satisfactory.

ARMY TO GET 46 PLANES WASHINGTON — Forty-six attack planes, to cost around $1,000,000, will be built by the Curtiss-Aeroplane and Motor Company for the United States Army Air Corps. The planes, two seats, all-metal monoplanes with a speed above 200 miles an hour, are of the new type which has been called "the flying fortress." They will carry five machine guns and a bomb under the fuselage.
