Governor Meier Speaks For Oregon Sales Tax Plan

In response to several requests, the Observer is herewith printing the principal excerpts of a recent radio talk by Gov. Meier on the sales tax.

M. and Mrs. Taxpayer of Oregon

The sales tax bill will be submitted to you for your approval or rejection at a special session to be held July 21st. Preliminary to a discussion of the measure I wish to point out that this emergency bill is the outgrowth of a statewide movement to relieve the farmers and home owners of the state from the property tax—a tax that is so high that it has virtually become confiscatory. The measure is also designed to relieve counties which are threatened with bankruptcy on account of the rapid increase in tax delinquencies.

This deplorable situation is due to the fact that, in common with other states, Oregon and its 27 local tax raising bodies. In addition the state had a net bonded and warrant indebtedness of approximately one hundred and fifty-five millions of dollars—the second largest per capita indebtedness in the United States.

Recognizing that the day of reckoning is at hand, I immediately initiated a rigid retrenchment program in state affairs, with the result that I submitted to the last legislative assembly a state budget which was more than eight millions of dollars less than the appropriations recommended by my predecessor in office. This was nearly six million dollars less than the authorized appropriations by the 1931 legislature for the 1931-32 biennium.

Recognizing also that the bulk of the property tax represented local levies and that drastic reductions must be made in the expenditures of all branches of local government if any substantial relief were to be given the taxpayers, I organized the Oregon Taxpayers Equalization and Conservation League, which, with the support of and in co-operation with other local taxpayers organizations, accomplished substantial results for local tax relief.

Due to the economies achieved under this administration and the reductions achieved by the tax league, Oregon's total tax on real property was reduced along the first of the year from 50 cents to approximately 40 cents per $100 of value, or $3,000,000 of additional taxes for state purposes, the remainder of approximately 98 millions representing taxes levied by the local tax levying bodies of the state. More than 90 per cent of the entire property tax load continued to be made up of local tax levies.

May I be pardoned if I pause here to interpose the remark that had not these economies been achieved by the administration, with the aid of the various tax leagues and organizations, approximately $10,000,000 in additional taxes would have been imposed on the property owners of Oregon during the last biennium.

When the 1933 legislative assembly convened, my message outlined the plight of our owners of real property.

It pointed out that there is scarcely a piece of farm land in Oregon today which can be leased for a rental equivalent to the taxes against the land, and that the same was true with respect to the owners of homes in our cities and towns.

It pointed out that, since the foundation of our commonwealth, real property had borne the lions share of our tax burden, and expressed the opinion that real property could not long so without confiscation of the property and bankruptcy for our counties and municipalities.

I recommended that the legislature make a comprehensive study of every available source of revenue, including gift, inheritance, tobacco, income and sales taxes, with a view of adopting an emergency tax to relieve the heavy tax being borne by our farmers and home owners.

The administration's budget was submitted by the legislature, which after considering many taxes, economy and tax measures, enacted a general sales tax to provide revenue to relieve the owners of real property from excessive taxation.

I wish to make it plain, with all the emphasis at my command, that not a single dollar of the revenue to be derived from the proposed sales tax is to be used for additional expenditures. On the contrary, every dollar so derived will be used to reduce state and local property taxes.

So that there can be no possible misunderstanding as to the disposition of revenues to be derived from the sales tax measure, I want to call attention to the fact that the law specifically provides that they are to be used to reduce the last half of the state property tax, the 1933 1/2 mill tax on property for fund—bonus bonds, to create a fund of $250,000 for unemployed relief, and that the balance, until the tax expires by limitation July 1st, 1935, shall be divided equally between the state and counties.

Specific provisions of the state and county levies must use the 1/2 mill tax to their exclusive to replace taxes that would otherwise be levied on property.

Referring to the unemployment feature of the sales tax bill, I may call your attention to the fact that it has been the policy of the federal government to insist upon the states doing their share in the relief of unemployment before allocation of federal funds for this purpose. Because the sales tax is soon to be before the voters of Oregon, I am informed by Raymond B. Wilcox, vice chairman of the state reconstruction advisory board, that the government's request upon this state was deferred.

Obviously if the sales tax measure carries, we will have proved to the federal government we are entitled to our share of federal relief for unemployed.

In view of the fact that the sales tax measure constituted a new departure in our system of taxation, the legislature saw fit to submit it to the electorate for approval or rejection at the polls.

Since the submission of the measure, it has been subjected to so much misrepresentation, that even farm organizations, the particular class that the measure was drafted to aid, have seen fit to oppose it. In this connection, I wish to emphasize that farm products which are sold to dealers or to each other for resale, are exempt from the tax, that the personal property tax is removed from livestock, from implements, from growing crops, and that levies on farm property will be reduced both by the elimination of the state tax and by the division of the funds with the counties.

In addition to giving needed relief to taxpayers today, a lowering of the property tax will be conducive to the general prosperity of Oregon. High property taxes drive away industry, discourage land ownership and contribute to the general unemployment. We should put ourselves in a position now to attract property returns we can hold out inducement to home seekers, industry and capital, that we have a low property tax levy. It is a well-known fact that before one buys a farm or establishes a business or industry one first asks, what is the tax rate? One measure whether it is high or low—if it is excessive, prospective home seekers or investors will go elsewhere if the tax levy is too high.

So it is not only a question of relieving property owners to whom the property tax has become ruinous, but the future industrial welfare of the state is at stake. Failure to reduce property taxes will result in a loss of property, which will result in a loss of tax revenue. It is a well-known fact that the property tax is the main source of revenue for local governments. If the tax is too high, it will drive away property owners, and with them the tax revenue. This will result in a loss of revenue for local governments, and will result in a loss of services for the people.

Did time permit, I should like to take occasion here to refute in detail a misrepresentation that has been spread by political enemies regarding the effect that the sales tax measure would have on large retail business organizations. It is a well-known fact that the measure will result in a loss of revenue for these organizations, but it will also result in a loss of revenue for the state and local governments. The measure will result in a loss of revenue for the state and local governments, but it will also result in a loss of revenue for the state and local governments.

Heretofore student says "selective mating" is aiding race.

SOME SHORTCAKE DELIGHTS FOR EVERY SUMMER MONTH

THE shortcake procession begins, of course, with strawberries. But modern housewives serve a series of shortcakes all summer as the luscious fruits and berries come into market.

Which is it to be—a cake or a short biscuit? Tactful housewives whose families are divided on this point will keep recipes for both kinds on hand. A cherry shortcake is a gift from the gods. If large, sweet cherries are used they may be sugared and heated to boiling or simply sugared and used fresh.

Here is a quickly mixed cake shortcake:

- Fresh Cherry Shortcake
 - 1 quart cherries, seeded
 - 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
 - 2 teaspoons combination baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 4 tablespoons softened butter or other shortening
 - 1 egg, well beaten
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Sweeten cherries and heat to boiling. Cool.
- Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift together three times. Add butter. Combine egg, milk and vanilla and add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened. Then beat vigorously 1 minute. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans, or two greased 8x2x2-inch pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. To serve, spread softened butter between layers, and prepared cherries between layers and on top of cake. Serve hot or cold with whipped cream.
