COVE PERSONALS

Gene Gassett and Bertrand Wardell won a tie in the Eagles broadcast held in La Grande Monday evening with the Blue Mt. Cowboys and will get a trip to Portland. Everyone in Cove has heard and enjoyed the songs of these boys who are both natives of Cove. They have the best wishes of everyone in their future
 radio work. Two of the Blue Mt.
 Cowboys are also Lower Cove boys, Hughes and Ernest Gray, and Cove is quite proud to claim four of the seven winners in the contest.

Miss Berta Barker is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Keller Strangham and family, of Enterprise, for several weeks. She left Cove Sunday.

A large band of sheep belonging to John Peterson, of Union, were traifed
 through Cove Thursday on their way to the Little Minam where they will range during the summer, with one camp stationed on the Big Minam near the Horse Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baird and son, Graham, and Miss Jane Dinstan of Baker were guests at the J. R.
 Price home Saturday, remaining until Sunday. Jack McIntire and his mother with the Baker people were all dinner guests Sunday which was Mr. McIntire's birthday. Mr. Baird is county judge of Baker county.

Mrs. Blaisdell, who has come from California to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Keith McCool, is visiting a sister in Washington. She will make an indefinite stay.

Rats Overrunning Province of Anhwei

SHANGHAI, July 18 (AP)—Hordes of rats are overrunning the southern part of the Anhwei province in East Central China. Chinese reports from Wuhu and other cities in the province said today.

The rats are infecting the water supply and are destroying crops. A famine during the coming winter was predicted as a consequence.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

WHEN Shrimpy let the sword-fish go, he said, "Well, after this you'll know that you should never play mean tricks on visitors down here.

"The lads I've found are Tynmites and they came here to see the sights. From now on, you let them alone. Don't even come real near."

And then the fish swam out of sight and Cobby said, "We'll be all right because of Shrimpy's rules the sea. The fish are scared of him.

"We'd best not separate, I guess, 'cause we might get into a mess. I want no big fish chasing me. Gee, how fast they can swim!"

KIND Shrimpy said, "Don't worry, son. I will make sure that nothing's done to spoil your good time while you're here. Where would you like to go?"

"I might suggest most anything, but first of all, let's meet the king. Whenever he sees little folks it fills him full of cheer."

"Oh, gee, do you mean King Neptune? I hoped we'd meet him."

pretty soon," cried Windy. "He's a fine old man, so I have often heard."

"Lead on and we will follow you. There's nothing we would rather do. To turn down meeting such a man would really be absurd."

THEY hadn't traveled very far (1) Shrimpy shouted, "There you are! Old Neptune's sitting on his throne. It's made of shells, you see.

"Now, don't be backward. Not at all! He will be glad you've made this call. To shake hands with you lads will make him happy as can be."

The king then spied the Tynies and he smiled and promptly waved his hand. The Tynies all rushed up to him and dropped down on their knees.

"Through your land, 'neath the sea, we're bound, to see what nice things can be found," said Goldy. Then the king replied, "Do anything you please."
