The Sunday School Lesson in Rhyme

By Carlos A. Plummer

GIDEON
Judges 6-8.
When Israel was sore distressed
By hosts of Midian,
To save and give his people rest
The Lord sent Gideon.

He was a ruler great and true,
A judge of Israel;
A "mighty man of valor" too,
His many foes to quell.

Of God he was a lover true;
No idols would he own,
But sought Jehovah's will to do,
And worshipped him alone.

He cut the groves of Baal down,
His image overthrow,
And stopped his worship in his town
And all his country through.

With but three hundred men he went,
His countless foes to meet,
And with his few divinely sent,
Accomplished their defeat.

As they advanced in dead of night,
With lights and battle shout,
Their foes awoke with sudden fright
And fled in utter rout.

Thus he his many foes subdued,
By God's own angel led,
And forty years of peace ensued
Ere Gideon was dead.

There are no Luther League meetings during July.

The golden text will be "Sing, O heavens; and be joyful, O earth; and break forth into singing, O mountains; for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted." (Isa. 40:1-3).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1 John 4:16).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "People go to the ends of the earth in the sense of a corporal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and without Love, God, immortality cannot appear. . . . Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (p. 312).

Sermonette

Edited by Harriet R. MacDonald

But whosoever shall do and teach them (the commandments) shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. Matt. 5:19.

The majority of men and women today are dissatisfied with organized religion. They want something from it which they feel it does not give them.

But what they want, they themselves know only vaguely. They are likely to say that religion should be "practical," and not "theoretical" or "dogmatic," and this they suppose means that the churches should take a more active interest in helping the poor and unfortunate, or in seeking for a juster social order.

And yet when a church does what they ask; when it spends most of its energies in reform or social service, those who have been calling for more practical religion are some times the first to criticize it. What they see and hear when they do go to church impresses them as unreal—as having no vital relation either to their own lives, or to the lives of most of the church members.

We have no intention of reiterating the old charge that "church people are hypocrites." Only a small number of embittered souls believe that. And it is reluctance to face inner difficulties which is the real trouble with religion—reluctance to ask ourselves with utter frankness: "What do we believe sincerely enough to live by?"

"What do we want so much that we would surrender all things else to get it?" We must understand these words, however, in a new sense, and set out to put their teaching into practice with a more heroic honesty than we have yet shown, before we shall get the modern world to take religion seriously.

ed in the future. Not knowing what their labor costs will be, they find difficulty in quoting prices.

For these reasons, Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, was asked for a ruling.

It is understood the administration wants an increase in hourly pay and a decrease in hours per week for the western branch of the industry.

The code proposes 42½ cents an hour for the west with 40 hours ($17) a week in mills, and 48 hours ($20.40) in logging camps. For the south it proposes 22½ cents and 48 hours ($10.80)

This Roosevelt Will Go Far!

For excelling in studies at Groton school, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president, was rewarded by his parents with a trip to Europe. He is here shown aboard the liner in New York with his mother, who came up from Washington to bid him bon voyage. He expects to make a two-month tour of France, Spain, Switzerland and England.

New Flying A Gas Marks Big Forward Step

Heralded by the inauguration of a major advertising campaign, the new Flying A gasoline was placed on sale throughout the west this week to mark another important progressive step by Associated Oil company.

Colored amber for easy identification, the new Flying A is basically different from any other non-premium gasoline on the market today, and embodies an entirely new manufacturing method to provide performance closer to that of Ethyl than any other motor fuel, according to D. H. Fowler, district agent for the Associated Oil company, La Grande territory.

"Claims mean little today," Fowler declared. "Performance is what counts. With this fact in mind our research engineers, working in one of the finest laboratories in the west, at the Avon refinery, and conducting extensive road tests, perfected in the new Flying A a gasoline in which the motorist can actually hear and feel the difference in performance—one which is second only to Ethyl in its mileage per gallon and in its smoothness."

AUTO INDUSTRY AGREES ON CODE

DETROIT, July 28 (AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator here to confer with leaders of the automobile industry, announced today that director of the national automobile chamber of commerce had agreed on an industrial code which had as its basis a 35-hour week.

The code will provide for a minimum wage of 43 cents an hour for cities of 500,000 population, 41½ cents for cities under 500,000 and above 250,000, and 40 cents an hour for cities under 250,000. There will be no child labor.

Approval of the Columbia basin project marked the latest step in Mr. Roosevelt's tremendous program for development of the power resources of the nation.

Likely to Approve Bonneville. Allied closely with the Oregon Cooles dam project is development of the Lower Columbia river at Bonneville, Ore., with which the people of Oregon are more immediately concerned, and members of the Oregon congressional delegation have said they understood the president thereby eliminating differences between Washington and Oregon states as to which project should be developed first.

The Columbia basin project is first a purely an irrigation-reclamation idea, with water to be diverted by a gravity system to the deserts, but as conferences between the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, the war department and the departments of interior and commerce continued, on the subjects of allocation of water, gravity system versus power pumping system and the like, federal officials made it plain they thought development of power should be the primary consideration, and differences between the factions favoring the project were adjusted to that end.

The latter jumped from the truck without waiting to set the brakes and after setting the brakes on the trailer ran to another truck that was following closely behind. When he and the driver of the latter truck returned quickly to Pannan's truck, the assailant had disappeared into the sage brush.

Dr. C. L. Gilstrap, who treated Pannan when he was brought to La Grande, found that a gash three inches long and about one-half an inch in depth on his upper lip was his only injury.

Pannan knew of no motive for the assault, he said.

Eight cities have been added to California's police automatic typewriter system, bringing the total to 28.
