With candy, sandwiches and ice cream, Kelly quoted Edwards as saying, he coaxed the boy to go for a streetcar ride with him. At the end of the car line, Edwards told the officers, he told Dalbert he lived "over the hills" and they set off afoot toward the brush-covered mesa. There he hit the boy with a rock. Kelly said Edwards told him, and left the boy until after dark, when he returned in a stolen automobile and took it to the waterfront.

Kelly said Edwards told him he mutilated the body with a butcher knife at the waterfront, threw it in the bay and placed several portions in a quart jar and threw them in, too. Divers furnished by the navy were to search for the jar today. Officers took Edwards over the route. They said they found clerks

Edwards told them, Kelly said, the rock was the one he used, and the napkin was one he took off the sandwiches he bought. Edwards produced a butcher knife, which police were holding. Last night from six automobiles, including a car which was stolen the night of July 18, Edwards picked out the stolen car. "I guess I was crazy," Edwards told newspapermen. The youth said he had taken two years of law in high school and would defend himself.
