Swindling Game of 'Making Out Papers' Is Being Revived

SPOKANE, Wash. (Special)—Inland Empire farmers are advised to be on the lookout for promoters who are reviving the old swindling game of "making out the papers." These persons are offering to help farmers apply for benefits under the government's adjustment program and are asking as high as ten per cent commission.

"No farmer has to pay anybody for help in making out his application," says M. L. Wilson, chief of the wheat production department of the agricultural adjustment administration at Washington, D. C. "The organization of farmers in each county is in charge of the county agent or agent appointed temporarily. There will be ample time for the farmers to get full information from these men and every wheat man will also be given plenty of notice when the time comes for applying without charge of any kind," says W. J. Green, county agent of Spokane county.

Small Businesses Required To Conform To N. R. A. Agreements

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—What does the N. R. A. mean? The following questions were developed and answered Monday by officials of the national recovery administration. Are small businesses, employing only a few persons, required to pay stated wage scales and observe the hours specified in the blanket code? They are.

How are unchartered home industries, such as home laundries, affected by the N. R. A.? Where only one person is engaged in such industries he or she is not affected. Where more are at work, the business is expected to come in under the blanket code.

What about firms having curb service and employing several small boys or young men to serve cars at the curb? The minimum wage for a part time worker in such businesses is expected to be such that if the employ worked at that wage for a full week or 40 hours, he would receive the minimum weekly wage prescribed for him.

by the president's re-employment agreement.

Is an employer expected to discharge employes where he has been spreading work by means of the "share-the-work" movement so as to give regular work for a less number of workers? No.

Compensation of employes above the minimum wage group, whether now filed by the hour, day, week or otherwise, shall not be reduced, either to compensate the employer for increases that he may be required to make in the minimum wage group to comply with the president's re-employment agreement, or to turn this agreement into a mere "share-the-work" movement without a resulting increase of total purchasing power.

Is an employer who has signed the president's re-employment agreement abiding by its provisions if he turns off any of his employes? He is not complying with the spirit of the agreement.

Young Jim Bagby Inherits His Famous Father's Pitching Skill

By W. J. Davis ATLANTA (AP)—Happy days are here again for "Sarge Jim" Bagby, former big league pitcher who hurled the Cleveland Indians to their first and only American league championship back in 1920.

It's on accounts of the way Jim Bagby Jr., at 16, is making them sit up and take notice as he pitches almost airtight ball for the North Side Terrers, leading sandlot nine of Atlanta.

Little Jim, as the six-foot-plus youngster is called, came to his own the other day when he won the championship of the North Side league for his team by striking out 16 batters and allowing only two hits while he was about it.

"The other boys tell me that he has lots of speed and can throw a curve; I guess he must have both to strike out as many men as he does," Old Jim modestly commented. Driveway The Bull Pen Naturally, Jim is proud of his boy. Since he started out pitching a little over two years ago, Jim has taken a little time from his duties as proprietor of a laundry to instruct the youth on certain fine points. The Bagby driveway has been the bull pen where Jim Sr., expatiated on the art of control, a matter on which the elder Bagby doted.

"Old Jim was a smart pitcher," said Wilbert Robinson, former manager of the Brooklyn team and now president of the Atlanta Crackers. "And I want to say if that kid of his does prove a chip off the old block, he'll go a long way in baseball."

It might be recalled that Robinson's last pennant winner at Brooklyn opposed the Indians in the world series the year Old Jim was in his prime and lost. Naturally he thought well of Jim Bagby's pitching.

Two Runs In Three Games Speed, control and stamina are young Jim's three strong points. Bagby pitched three games for the Terrers this season, allowing but two runs and averaging ten strikeouts a game.

He is a right hander, like his dad. Jim, the elder, thinks he will be a bigger man than himself, however, and will have more speed.

"Well, if he's as good as his old man, that will be good enough," added Uncle Wilbert Robinson, by way of emphasis.

NEW WARNING IS ISSUED BY GEN. JOHNSON

(Continued from Page One) who are entitled to display the Blue Eagle. Later Modifications Likely The hope is that this board may speed study of the many pending codes and order into temporary effect as many of them as are acceptable. Later, all will be studied in public hearings, and modifications made if any are necessary before they are promulgated by the president and made permanent.

This move will augment the continuing attempt to get employors to sign individual agreements with the president to raise wages and shorten hours. One major purpose of the temporary codes is to apply them to groups which feel the blanket presidential agreement is to ineffectual for their purposes. Behind the two-day drive is the
