The parade committee consisting of George Benson, James Moore and Gordon Barnard have secured the cooperation of most of the business men in town and they hope to make the parade one of the best drawing cards of the show. Following the parade, a program of events will be staged in the arena for which a charge of 50 cents will be made. No general admission will be charged but all track events will come under the one ticket.

Smart White Beach Model Has Compartments For Cigarets and Matches

IT'S simply amazing how many things combine usefulness with beauty. Dorothy Tree wears a white pique beach hat which does just that. There is a tiny pocket in the crown for matches and two strips of material on the brim are designed to hold cigarets. The pocket and the strips look like novelty trimming when Dorothy isn't carrying matches and cigarets in them.

HAY FEVER

Hay fever is neither caused by hay, nor is it a fever. This condition, which in technical language is an allergic reaction, has been called by a variety of names, such as rose fever, pollen catarrh, ragweed fever and June cold.

Hay fever, it is estimated, affects approximately 1 per cent of the population of the United States. In the greater part of the country three distinct hay fever seasons are recognized.

The first, which is due to the pollination of trees, begins in March and lasts to the first week in June. The second season is largely due to the pollen of grasses, and begins in the latter part of May, lasting to the end of July.

The third and usually the most severe type of hay fever is due to the pollen of weeds. This season commences about August 15 and lasts until the early frost.

Pollen, which is responsible for hay fever, consists of little granules, the products of the male sexual organs of plants.

Pollen granules vary considerably in size and shape. The smaller and lighter forms of pollen are chiefly responsible for hay fever. These pollens are wind-borne. The heavier pollen granules are usually carried from plant to plant by insects, by streams and in other ways.

Wind-borne pollens are produced in large quantities and are very widely distributed. Pollen granules have been found 15,000 feet above the ground, and have been carried as far as 15 miles.

Three factors enter into the hay fever case. First is a constitutional idiosyncrasy, rendering the individual sensitive to the proteins of the pollens. Normal individuals may be exposed to pollen without developing any hay fever symptoms.

The second factor is a predisposed tissue, such as the nasal passages or lungs, through which the proteins of pollen granules in one manner or another enter the body.

And the third factor that enters into the hay fever case is, of course, the pollen itself.

Winchell Has His Troubles In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 19 (AP) — Walter Winchell's keyhole drama is having a hard time getting into production.

First, he had an altercation (polite for fist fight) with Al Jolson, the blues singer, over the script. Next, one of the leading characters, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, left the sound stage of a Hollywood studio complaining of illness. And finally, Lillyan Tashman, who took Miss Joyce's place in the cast, had to relinquish her role yesterday to visit a hospital.

The third actress to try the part is Blossom Seeley, stage star.

Miss Joyce meantime has asked the academy of motion picture arts and sciences to intervene in her efforts to make the studio pay her a full six weeks' salary. She received payment, she said, for only two days.

Organizing N. R. A. In Oregon Is Planned

La Grande business and professional people eligible to operate under the Blue Eagle to 212.

Reports from Portland are that the president's recovery board late Friday elected Henry Van Duzer chairman, and a plan has been adopted to organize every county in the state to further the NRA work. Bert Eggleson, of Enterprise, is the Eastern Oregon member of this board.

In Washington, in order to block possible evasions of the NRA agreement, General Hugh S. Johnson today ordered a modification of the restaurant industry agreement to prohibit owners from charging employes for meals. The modified agreement also provides that "gratuities shall not be considered a part of the remuneration of any employe."

The wage section of the agreement now reads:

"The minimum rates and wages established in section 6 shall not be subject to deduction for meals furnished employes unless such was the practice in the restaurant prior to June 16th, 1933, and if such was the case the charge shall not exceed 25 cents per meal nor $3 total in any one week."

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER CHOOSE STRIPED ORGANDIE FROCKS

Pity The "Poor Rich Girl" Who Seeks Film Job

HOLLYWOOD — Monael Lindley doesn't feel sorry for herself, or she might go into detail about the tribulations of a "poor little rich girl in Hollywood."

Monael is a pretty brown-eyed girl with reddish-brown hair and slim figure who lives in a big hillside house, drives an expensive car and carries the air of refinement and culture that both house and car need.

All The Trimmings

She lives, in short, like a movie star who has "arrived." She has all the things that little girls out on farms in Iowa and Louisiana and Vermont imagine movie stars have, and Monael has always had these things. She was born to wealth, her father being a prosperous manufacturer in Marion, Indiana.

But the thing she is striving for is the "inward satisfaction" of achievement in pictures. In fact, for that satisfaction she is presently risking the things movie stardom is supposed to bring.

"Ever since I can remember," she says, "I've wanted to be an actress. There were complications, I come of Quaker stock, and my father was opposed to the theatre. To get me away from it and my ambition, I've been sent away to schools, girls' camps, even to Europe. But I always had to come back to it, because I knew that something inside me would burst if I did not. I couldn't stand not doing anything."

Getting Along Now

So she came back. She played in a few pictures in the east, in a little stock, in one flop play in Hollywood. She worked in Sennett comedies a while, won an occasional bit in other pictures, but her biggest boost has come from Helen Mitchell, in whose production, "Waffles," Monael has second lead to Sari Maritza. Parts in other Mitchell pictures are promised her. She is now dependent on her picture earnings, for the present at least, through an arrangement with her father.

The odd part of Monael's story is its disproof of the popular notion that an entree to upper cinema circles is the open door to fame. Through social connections she is acquainted with many of the screen's most noted figures, but that has not helped her any in getting movie jobs.

"You can't go to your friends and ask them to give you a part," she says. "Besides, most people think that a girl who doesn't really need the money is only looking for a thrill from pictures."

That's why Monael is Hollywood's "poor little rich girl."

FULLBACK KEEPS IN TRIM SERVING SUBPOENAS

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's football players keep in trim during the summer months with an odd assortment of jobs.

Don Elser, 215-pound sophomore fullback candidate, serves subpoenas at Gary, Ind., without an argument. Nick Lukats, hard driving fullback; Ed "Moose" Krause, All-America tackle, and Andy Pilney, great prospect from Chicago, drive trucks in New York and Chicago.

Other summer occupations include ice toting, road gang work and summer school.

Miss Mary K. Browne, former state golf champion of Ohio, declared she lost her title this year by not following the advice of her caddy.

YOUTHFUL RIVAL AIMS RECALL AT MILWAUKEE MAYOR

By Alvin Steinkopf

MILWAUKEE (AP) — When a lad named Fortney Stark was 7 years old, a hard-hitting socialist named Daniel Webster Hoan became mayor of Milwaukee.

That was 18 years ago.

Today this same Fortney Stark, now an energetic young man of 25, proposes to upset Hoan's political applecart and the popular notion that Milwaukee must have a socialist mayor.

He has announced himself a candidate for Mayor Hoan's post and through an organization which calls itself the Recall council has begun a movement to oust the veteran executive.

Pushes Recall Move

Stark must obtain 43,000 signatures for his recall petitions to reach the first step in his ambition. While the movement has been prodded vigorously, it still is far from that goal.

Political observers hesitate to predict the result of young Stark's campaign, for they say much has happened in the 18 months since Mayor Hoan piled up the thumping majority which kept him in the city hall.

Through a hundred political storms tall, sharp-featured Mayor Hoan has held fast to his office, preaching socialism while paving streets, building sewers and fostering education. Year by year he grew mightier politically until a socialist mayor and a nonpartisan council to do him battle became fixtures in the Milwaukee political picture.

In his seventeenth year as mayor Hoan was returned to office in April, 1932, by the largest vote of his career.

For this term Mayor Hoan disclosed a "four year plan" to set Milwaukee right amid the jumbled economic condition of the nation. To cut wages, he said, would be to sink deeper into the mire of the depression.

Favors Six-Hour Day

He urged a six-hour day for workers, advocating a general strike to achieve it if necessary, and advocated a temporary return to hand labor, an emergency measure he admitted to be a backward step.

The depression he described as "the agony of a dying system, the last gasps of capitalism."

Then he set out to execute his idea in municipal affairs. There was no reduction in salaries, and such savings as were achieved were devoted to creating more city work.

Fortney Stark, secretary of the Milwaukee real estate board, issued persistent warnings that Hoan's "four year plan" took into account everybody but the taxpayer.

Incomes dropped and soon there was an impressive list of persons who failed to pay their taxes. Stark's appeal has been directed to the citizen who pays the bills.

Mayor Hoan has taken no official notice to the recall movement — or the youth who aspires to the mayoralty so long held by socialists.

Opposition, says the mayor, has come from real estate interests which are "caught" with large improved subdivisions which they cannot sell now.

The tax-raising improvements, he charges, were demanded by real estate operators, and delinquencies exist, he says, because the operators do not car to pay the taxes themselves.

The first great seal of the state of Washington was made by George N. Talcott, who is still living. For his model of the likeness of the first president he used a picture on the label of a cough cure.

The Stock Show—

With only a comparatively few days left to spread the news of the Eastern Oregon Livestock show at Union, August 24, 25 and 26, stock show enthusiasts are doing some very intensive advertising campaigning and exhibitors are hurrying some to get their animals ready for the show. The association is asking for co-operation on the part of every one that even though hurriedly arranged, the show this year — the Silver Jubilee Year — may be a success.

Countrywomen's Club—

The Countrywoman's club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anna Holman with her daughter, Miss Minnie, acting as hostess. There were 25 ladies present for the occasion. The first part of the meeting was a business session which was presided over by the president, Mrs. Mabel McAlister. After a short session it was decided that the regular meetings should be continued throughout the summer instead of being discontinued during the extremely busy season as has been the custom for the past several years. Mrs. Frank Wright and Mrs. Fred Wells had charge of a short literary program. Mary Jasper gave a piano number, "The Indian Dance." Mildred Fleshman read a poem, "The Baby." Edna Jasper played two selections on the piano, "The Dance on the Lawn" and "Waltzing Dawn." A song, "In the Garden of Summer Time" was sung by Edna and Jean Jasper. Miss Holman served lunch near the close of the meeting. The next hostess to the club will be Mrs. Fred Wells and she will entertain at her home Aug. 25. Mrs. Delbert Anson, Mrs. Dwight Fleshman, Mrs. O. C. Fleshman and Mrs. Arthur Golden were appointed to take charge of the entertainment for that meeting.

AT THE LIBERTY

Sunday-Monday: "Reunion in Vienna" starring John Barrymore, Diana Wynyard, Una Merkel, Frank Morgan; "Hollywood Premiere," all color musical revue; "Fine Points" with Bobby Jones; Graham McNamee Newsreel Reporter.

Tuesday - Wednesday - Thursday: "International House" with Stuart Erwin, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, W. C. Fields, Rudy Vallee, Burns and Allen; Cab Calloway and band, Col. Stoopnaggle and Budd; "Swing High," sportlight; "A Day in The Life of a Chorus Girl," act; Screen Souvenirs; Liberty News.

Friday-Saturday: "The Devil's Brother" starring Denis King, Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Thelma Todd; "Fish Hooky," Our Gang comedy; Liberty News; (Saturday night only) Race Night.

John Barrymore cuts a wide swath to greater popularity as the mad, impulsive, irresistible and stormy Hapsburg who returns for banishment to renew the memory of kisses that lingered after Vienna's glory faded.

As the dashing hero of Robert E. Sherwood's "Reunion in Vienna," Barrymore gives the most engaging role of his entire career. In the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, which opens Sunday at the Liberty theatre, Barrymore has an ideal characterization that matches his individual talents and personality as though tailored to his measure by the author, Robert E. Sherwood.

Diana Wynyard Scores

Diana Wynyard acquits herself none the less brilliantly as the lady for whose kisses the exiled archduke pines.
