RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR SOME

Appointment of C. J. Shorb, of La Grande, as manager of the local branch office of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, a government organization set up to aid distressed home owners, indicates early opening of the office here, which will serve the greater part of the Eastern Oregon country.

Much detail remains to be attended to, of course, but it is likely that within a week or so, the wheels of the office may begin turning. Which means that by that time, if all goes well, applications for relief from mortgages that are too crushing for the home owner longer to bear, may be approved and forwarded to the Portland office for its action.

Many who apply for the federal aid for small homes will be disappointed; some will succeed. But it will represent one more example of relief going directly to the place it should go—the man who pays the taxes. The farmer is beginning to get in line for some allotment money, the country already has felt the benefits of R.F.C. loans to county relief committees, and now the home owner stands a chance to get his share—if his condition is so urgent as to require federal help.

Last fall we heard a lot about what would happen to the "Forgotten Man." And now it really begins to look as if the forgotten men no longer will be forgotten.

We are informed that the farmers of the U. S. A. are re-financing. We are going to consult a good farmer and learn how he does it so we may go and do likewise.

The bachelor comforts himself with the thought that disappointment in love has one consolation—it may have saved him a greater disappointment in marriage.
