Falk's Kiddies Shoe Department Pleases Children

Like the musically lauded animal fair, the birds and beasts are all capering in the new kiddies' shoe department at Falk's La Grande store which is complete in every detail. Little red benches where the children sit to be fitted are decorated in animals, and a string of them, all sizes, parade across the top of the shoe case. A frieze decorates the wall at one end of the department and just push a button and a foxy trainman swings his signal lamp; Mr. Goat, the sheriff, arrests the engineer; Carpenter Dog saws a log; Mr. Bear pounds a nail with a hammer; Mr. Monkey carries a shovel while following on his heels is a mouse carrying a hod.

Undertone of Egg Market in Oregon Shows Improvement

Portland, Sept. 7 (AP)—Undertone of the egg market here was showing some definite improvement, lending new encouragement to the trade and producers. Prospects for a better market were now declared definite by those who follow the situation closely. Prices were unchanged for the day. Consumption and demand from retailers have been more pronounced since labor day and the quality of receipts was beginning to show some improvement. The peach market was fully steady at 85 to 90 cents. Receipts were right to meet the demand. Consumers apparently were realizing they cannot expect the disastrous prices of a year ago. Heavy supply of tomatoes were reported, and they ranged around five cents lower. Local receipts were larger.
