Miss Fay Painter, of Pendleton And Willard Tubbs, of La Grande, United in Marriage

At an attractive wedding Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Pendleton, Miss Fay Painter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Painter, became the bride of Willard Tubbs, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride. Rev. Arthur G. Benson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, read the service. Mr. Tubbs is a member of the state police stationed in La Grande.

The rooms were beautiful with a profusion of lovely fall flowers. Intimate friends and members of the immediate family were guests for the ceremony.

The bride was charming in a smart band knit suit, of ashen-of-rose shade, worn with brown accessories and with corsage bouquet of pink roses. Her sister, Miss Margaret Painter, wore a becoming tailored frock of blue, with white trimming. Her bouquet was also of roses. Dick Brace, of The Dalles, was best man.

At the informal reception which followed the wedding, an elaborately decorated wedding cake was served. After a two-week wedding trip to Portland and Seattle Mr. and Mrs. Tubbs will reside in La Grande.

AT THE LIBERTY

Spencer Tracy has the type of role in "Me and My Girl," new Fox screen play, for which he has become one of the most popular players in films.

Sunday-Monday: "Me and My Girl," starring Spencer Tracy and Joan Bennett; Laurel and Hardy in "Me and My Pal"; "Bone Crushers" spotlight; Graham McNamee, News-reel Reporter.

Tues.-Wed.-Thurs.—Warner Baxter in "Dangerously Yours" with Miriam Jordan and Herbert Mundin; Thelma Todd and ZaSu Pitts in "Baggage of the Century"; Scenic; Liberty-Observer News.

Friday-Saturday: "Best of Enemies" starring Buddy Rogers and Marian Nixon; Our Gang Comedy "Kid From Barrow"; "Tom Tom Trails" scenic; Liberty News.

Joan Bennett and Spencer Tracy, who scored a composite success in "She Wanted a Millionaire," are again co-starring in "Me and My Girl," the Fox comedy-romance coming to the Liberty theatre next Sunday for an engagement of two days.

The story pivots around the adventures of a young New York detective whose flirtation with a shop girl leads to the arrest of a mercurial bank robber and killer and a reward of $10,000 as a wedding present.

The cast supporting the featured players includes Marion Burns, Henry B. Walthall, J. Farrell MacDonald, George Walsh, Noel Madison and Adrian Morris.

Who can resist a distinctive frock like this one, for morning wear? It is of striped bias or seersucker with a frivolous ruffle in white.

THIS dainty frock, easily made, is designed in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 38 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material, and 3/4 yard of contrasting material for the ruffle. To finish with bias binding requires 3 yards 1 1/2 inches wide.

To secure a pattern and simple sewing chart of this model, cut out this sketch and mail it to Julia Boyd, 103 Park Avenue, New York, with Fifteen Cents in coin. Be sure to enclose, on a separate sheet of paper, Your Name, Address, Your Size, the number of this pattern (No. 5397x), and the name of this newspaper.

members and their children were present.

Bridge was played in the afternoon, following a potluck luncheon, and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Claude Puckett, first, and Mrs. Ezra Holman, consolation.

Mrs. Lucille Price and Mrs. John Price will entertain in two weeks.

Home Department Holds Meeting

The Presbyterian Home department met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jennie Thompson and spent the afternoon making quilts for relief purposes. Mrs. L. Denham assisted Mrs. Thompson.

The devotional program was presented by Mrs. J. George Wals. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon.

Next Thursday the group will meet with Mrs. Mamie Lewis and spend the day tacking comforters. A potluck luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock. Mrs. W. C. Kelly will be the hostess at the next regular meeting on Oct. 5.

Millers Guests At Party

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, whose marriage was solemnized on July 2 but which was announced only recently, were complimented at a party at which Mrs. M. M. Miller, mother of the bridegroom, entertained assisted by Mrs. William Miller. A feature of the evening was a shower for Mrs. Miller who received a number of useful gifts.

Mrs. Miller received and read a humorous letter of advice written by George S. Burle on "How to Keep the Love and Affection of a Wife," to the amusement of the guests.

Those invited for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Miller, of Enterprise, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleaver, of Imbler, Mr. and Mrs. Guy McMillan, Miss Doris McMillan, Miss Gladys Miller, Miss Margaret Geddes and Mrs. Betty Schult.

Miss Galbraith To Wed Mr. Shell

Miss Katharine Galbraith will become the bride of Stanley Shell, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Shell, of Walla Walla, tomorrow in Portland. The wedding is causing a great deal of interest in both La Grande and Walla Walla county, since the young couple is well known in Eastern Oregon. Miss Galbraith has been entertained at a round of activities in Portland during the past few weeks.

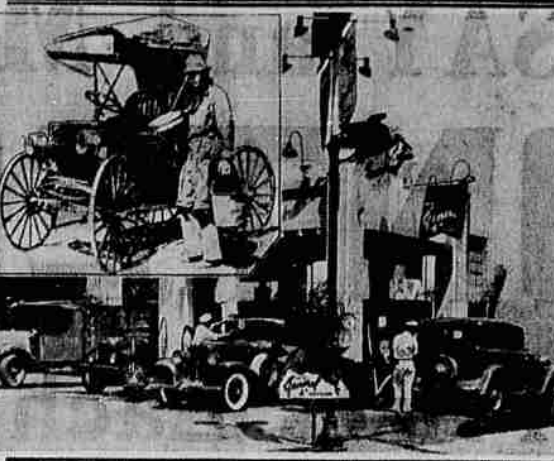

Miss Nelson Is Complimented

Miss Marian Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Nelson, who is leaving tomorrow for Tacoma to enter nurse's training at St. Joseph's hospital, was honored with a farewell party and handkerchief shower at which the James E. Page auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans entertained last night at the Nelson home. The evening was spent in conversation, games and music.

Mrs. Floyd Sherwood sang a group of vocal solos. Mrs. Charles Gump described the travels of Miss Jane Gavin, her sister, in Europe, while Miss Mary Cook described the World's Fair at Chicago.

Refreshments were served. Purple and white asters decorated the table, and the rooms were gay with a profusion of gladioli and red roses.

Service Progress Portrayed

The younger generation doesn't remember the grand-daddy of our present automobile pictured in the upper left-hand corner. General Petroleum corporation uses it here to form a striking comparison with the cars, service and gasoline in vogue today. The ancient model shown is of the vintage of 1902.

Modern Methods Aid Motorists

Those who think today's automobile is a far jump compared with the car of 30 years ago, should stop and consider the contrast of automobile service and of gasoline in the same period.

A picture recently was submitted to General Petroleum corp. of a 1902 model automobile being serviced in those days of long ago. Compared with the dapper service attendant of today, the man who serviced a car in 1902 merely pulled a linen duster over his greasy clothes, caught up a five-gallon bucket, drew the gasoline out of a barrel and poured it into the tank of the car through a funnel. Sometimes the car ran—sometimes it didn't.

To contrast this, the above picture shows a modern General Petroleum service station such as how is dispensing that company's new General Four-Star gasoline all over the Pacific coast. The comparison was engineered by M. D. Lech, Oregon division manager for General Petroleum.

"The difference in gasoline now and in 1902 is as marked as the changes which have been made in automobiles and service stations over the past 30 years," Lech said. "The new General Four-Star gasoline, for instance, will not only do things unheard of in the early 1900s but the gasoline used at that time would hardly be recognized as a fuel for the modern motor."

"It is only because of the tremendous progress achieved in the scientific refining of gasoline that the modern high compression motor has been made possible."

Miss Veda Houx with a handkerchief shower Thursday just before her departure for Southern California to spend the winter. Those in attendance were Miss Jean Williams, of La Grande, Misses Thelma Anderson, Veda Houx, Laverne Houx, Phyllis Hancock, Iva June Allen, Velma Richards, Jean Koger, Mildred Gaultier and Maxine Towle.

Miss Florence Severs, once of Cove, but now of Detroit, Mich., was here Tuesday on her way back to Detroit. Her sister, Mrs. J. D. Stout, of Portland, was with her. Miss Severs had been in Portland and had visited a sister, Mrs. Roberts, in Tacoma, and a brother in Yakima. She was a teacher in the Cove High school for a period of four years. While here they were guests at the L. E. Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Orton and their boys, Miss Bess Goyette and Mrs. Sweeley Gordon Barker and Parker Severs are leaving for Salem to work in the hops.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wright, who live in one of the mining districts in the southern part of the state, are with Mr. Hag and also Mrs. Valentine.

Mrs. Ethel Coles, of North Powder, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Herman Haefel.

Miss Eva Roberts, of Salem, came Saturday and spent the vacation with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Roberts, and sister, Miss Eva. Leonard and Marian Boekgren, who have been spending some time with their grandmother, Mrs. Lottie Boekgren, have returned to Wenatchee, Chee.

On the Minam last week, they went out Sunday and Mr. Hefty came home leaving Mrs. Hefty and the boys with the Lawsons. He went back for them later in the week.

WALLAWA PERSONALS

Harley Allen, Portland attorney, is in Wallawa spending his vacation with relatives. Mr. Allen is a former resident and at one time was city attorney here.

Mrs. Albert Curry and children, of La Grande, returned to their home Wednesday after visiting several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McClanahan.

Mrs. McCall, of Stanfield, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Prizell, for the past two weeks, left Wednesday for her home.
