COWBOY SHUFFLE OPENS ROUND-UP SEASON FOR '33

PENDLETON, Ore., (Special)—"Happy Canyon" opened for the first time this year Saturday night with a capacity crowd, dressed in the colorful costumes of the old frontier, participating in the 24th annual "Cowboy Shuffle." Queen Jean Frazier of the Round-Up, with Kathryn Collins, one of her attendants, reigned over the dance.

The shuffle, which is the "kick-off" for the season's Round-Up festivities, was preceded by the dress-up parade in which the merchants of Pendleton entered 40 floats of an historic character. The early day prospectors, cattlemen, covered wagon trains and saloons of pioneer times were depicted.

With the Round-Up a few days away, Pendleton folks have the city streets completely decorated and everyone is wearing silk shirts that give Pendleton a carnival air as the year's big event approaches.

The next affair at "Happy Canyon" will be the "Queen's Dance" with Bob Fletcher's Round-Up band on deck, Saturday September 16th. After that there will be nightly dances with Johnny Robinson's famous "Jantzen Beach orchestra in the pit.

The three days of actual Round-Up will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 21, 22 and 23. During the Round-Up the famous "Happy Canyon Pageant" with 300 Indians in the cast, will be enacted and dances nightly will permit visitors to become a part of the Round-Up. Round-Up tickets have been reduced this year to one-half the price of former years although the show will be as complete as ever, maintaining its national leadership. Winners in bucking, roping, and bulldogging at the Pendleton Round-Up are recognized as world's champions.

The white old fashioned house with "ginger bread gables" is no longer the home of an able-bodied, sprightly old man, it is a death house! A tall straight evergreen tree raising its black green limbs casts its eerie shadow over the old two-story structure, creating a terrifying impression of foreboding evil. The old house with bloody footprints leaving dark red stains on its floors and the white collar dog, yearning for a word from its master, could tell the story. But walls cannot talk!
