said his only connection in the matter, said he had supplied the board with all information he was authorized to, and took action in correcting any irregularities complained of. He said the secretary of state had reported full satisfaction over the investigation made at the college. At no time, he said, were there found anything to indicate dishonesty in the superintendent of buildings office, but that it was wholly a matter of loose methods which were corrected as soon as disclosed.

FARM HAND IS HELD IN COVE SLAYING

The sheriff and the state police sergeant left here about 5 o'clock last night and located the Jessel camp about six miles west of Shaniko about 1 a. m. They waited until about 5:25, when they approached the camp. As soon as opportunity presented itself, the sheriff, armed with a revolver, ordered Stevenson to hold up his hands.

"What's it all about," Stevenson is quoted as asking.
"Now Lewis, you know all about it," the sheriff said he replied. He did not question the youth at any time then or during the return trip as to the Allen murder, but District Attorney Carl Heim was to question the prisoner this afternoon.
Rumors heard in Union Saturday that there had been a murder at Cove were traced to Stevenson, according to the sheriff, who learned, he said, that the rumors had been current long before the finding of the body.

Evangelist To Aid With Drive Here This Fall

A. B. McReynolds, noted evangelist for the Church of Christ, was in La Grande Sunday and presented plans to the local church for conducting a ten weeks evangelistic campaign this fall. Mr. McReynolds is not to be in the local campaign, but his plans are to be used.
The plans include unusual methods of advertising and conducting services, and have won great success in other places. Rev. Paul De P. Mortimore, pastor of the Church of Christ, is very enthusiastic about the plans and expects great results, he says.
Nearly 100 Iowa cities and towns will hold luncheons Friday, September 15, to celebrate simultaneously the second annual "Iowa football day." Alumni of the state university organized the scheme.

NRA Heads Cheered By Bright Reports

with the new impetus born of favorable tokens.
Twenty-five large cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific reported a 10 per cent August advertising gain over August, 1932, after display lineage had declined steadily through July. The NRA termed it a definite reflection by "one of the most accurate business barometers . . . of renewed confidence on the part of the nation's business."
After this comment, recovery leaders from President Roosevelt down, settled anew to a multitude of problems at hand. Their activities included:
President Roosevelt summoned his recovery council to discuss the whole line of government endeavors, stressing the nation's credit needs.
Hugh S. Johnson called a public hearing on the troublesome soft coal code, pressing for a mid-week agreement with the added spur of threatening labor conditions in Western Pennsylvania.
Johnson sought to stop violators of industrial codes and re-employment agreements. The agricultural adjustment administration said prosecution under the law which provides both fines and jail sentences awaited textile manufacturers who blame profiteering prices on the cotton processing tax.

Garage Fire Extinguished

The fire department extinguished a blaze in a garage on a place at 1504 Seventh street belonging to Dr. A. L. Richardson at 10:20 o'clock this morning. Damage was not heavy. The place is occupied by a Mr. Draper.
Fire Chief C. T. Lindsey said the fire apparently started in a trash barrel.
Oregon's football team will have two captains for the first time this fall. Bernie Hughes and Mark Temple will share the honors.

Lighter Tiger Grid Team Due To Take Field

The 1933 Tiger grid team, as compared with last fall's Northeastern Oregon championship outfit, will be much lighter, but hopes are high that the eleven will be a scrappier, speedier one, and probably a lot more colorful.
First regular practice was held last night with 33 working out under Coach Ira Woodie. And, with class teams to begin practice soon, it won't be many days before 120 or more youngsters will be coveting around the gridiron. As usual, Woodie will take the best looking class team players for the main squad, which still can stand a lot of bolstering.
There are a sizeable bunch of veterans on hand, including Victor Bean, Earle DeBole, Ralph DeBole, Ralph Fieberg and Bud Reynolds, backs, and Jack Alvey, Olen Coolewell, Jim Halley, Norman Hognerson, Hughey Irwin, Louis Walden and Kenneth Webb, linemen and ends. That's 12 to begin with, one more than a full time.
Among the more likely looking prospects are Max Bean, Tom Blackman, Fred Gehring, Carl Hanson, Sheldon Hyde, Truman Irwin, Robert Koyler, Earl Peterson, Homer Snider, Kenneth Waldron, Roberts Webb and Charles Young. Several others were out for practice and some of them may make the grade.
"They're smaller this year, but we'll have something," Coach Woodie said after the practice, and it's easy to see he is not discouraged. As a matter of fact, in many respects, there is cause for enthusiasm — at least at this stage of the game.
Regular practice will be held daily from now on. The first scheduled game is a week from next Saturday, when Cove comes to La Grande.
