BYRD'S NEW ADVENTURE

Although, as President Roosevelt says, 12 branches of science will be served, the public will be interested in the forthcoming second expedition of Rear Admiral Byrd to the South Pole as a great adventure. The non-scientific will follow the hardships, read about the hazards and the narrow escapes with all the avidity of the romantic mind, giving to the scientific discoveries only passing notice.

Nor would the noted explorer and flyer have it otherwise. He says he would make the trip just for the adventure and that probably is his main reason for going. It is as an adventurer that the masses are interested in him. The world seldom makes popular heroes out of scientists.

And yet the expedition may make contributions to our fund of scientific knowledge which will make life easier, happier and safer for all of us. It will be equipped to solve some of the mysteries of meteorology and may learn something new about cosmic rays and radio interferences.

Polar exploration has ceased to be the reckless adventure it was before the airplane conquered the ice floes and before the radio made it possible to wander far beyond the frontier of civilization and yet remain in touch with the very heart of civilization. It seemed a much more dangerous feat when it meant being out of touch with the world for months beyond the reach of help.

SCHOOLWARD TURN CHILD LABORERS OF THIS NATION

By Alexander R. George
WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's school system, already crippled by lack of funds and facilities to care for normal educational needs, faces an extra burden this fall.

Thousands of children, released from the wage earners' ranks by elimination of child labor under the various industrial codes, are seeking their places in schools where classes have been overcrowded and where educational services have been eliminated or drastically curtailed.

Shorter Sessions Likely
Officials of the National Education association predict that owing to the shortage of funds and to widespread retrenchment, the average school year of 1933-1934 will be shortened two months, a curtailment double that of the preceding year.

Dr. William G. Carr, assistant director of the research division of the association, says that in the last school year more than 250,000 children were allowed to attend school only on a part-time basis and an additional 150,000 were housed in portable shacks.

Last Year's Schooling Inadequate
The records indicate, he says, that an exceedingly inadequate and brief educational opportunity, and in some cases no education at all, was offered last year to about 500,000 American boys and girls.

The number of children who will be released from child labor to return to school under the industrial codes cannot be determined definitely, educators say. Dr. Carr has estimated that roughly 2,100,000, out of 31,000,000 children from 5 to 17 years of age, are employed.

What would normally happen if some 2,000,000 young Americans were taken out of factories, mills and mines and from behind store counters and placed in schools?

New Teachers, Buildings Needed
Dr. Carr says that in addition to the opening up of their jobs to unemployed adults, at least 80,000 additional teachers and 20,000 new school employes of other types would be required adequately to instruct this new army in the schools. Hundreds of new school buildings would be needed.

Yet, owing to the lack of funds and to drastic economies in school expenditures, there has been delay, he says, in the construction of some 4,000 needed rural schoolhouses while more than 18,000 rural school districts are not making the necessary minor repairs to keep their buildings and equipment from deterioration.

Enrollments Rising
He points out that while the supply of educational opportunity is diminishing, each year there have been approximately 300,000 more children enrolled in the public welded in at Wagner's Hardware Co. Many deer hunters were in the hills today, most of them going out last night so as to be ready at sunrise. The season, which opened this morning, will continue until the evening of Oct. 25.

From Wallawa today came the following statement:
With fire hazard conditions still existing in many parts of the Wallawa national forest and since the opening of the hunting season will tend to increase this hazard, the campfire permit and no smoking while traveling requirements will remain in effect during the balance of the fire season.

Campfire permits can be secured at the following places: Wallawa forest office, sheriff's office, Enterprise-Wallawa Lake Wonderland hotel; secretary chamber of commerce, La Grande; forest office, Joseph; Colgate Creek ranger station; and Billy Meadows ranger station.

Shades of the Safety Pin! Boy, Page Mr. Mussolini!

All in favor of babies, including Chancellor Hitler, Premier Mussolini and our own late President, Theodor Roosevelt, would be "delighted," could they observe the thoughtful efficiency with which one handicap after another is being removed from the task of family raising. The very latest thing in this respect is the enterprise of "Diaper Hygiene Unlimited," a Cleveland concern that is wide-awake, in serving customers who'll know nothing of General Johnson and the N. R. A., for years to come.

Attendance of teachers is compulsory, which necessitates dismissal of all classes, and the general status of the day for students will be of a holiday nature.

AMERICA IS NOT WHIPPED; GOING AHEAD

I am so certain in my belief that I shall make this prophecy to you," said Senator Steiwer.
"I prophesy that before a great while conditions will be so improved that we will all be wondering why, in these trying times just passing, we came so close to losing our faith in ourselves and our country."

Regarding the prospects of the much talked of inflation, Senator Steiwer said: "With all due respect to the benefits of the agricultural recovery measures and to the NRA, I believe some further inflation is absolutely inevitable. There must come a conviction that will bring about further rise in price levels for the benefit of the grower — when he is able to profit and improve his condition, the whole country will rise forward with him."

The senator reviewed briefly the condition of chaos and distraction not only in the halls of congress and governmental Washington but over the entire country at the time of the change in administration last March. "The country was in a tail-spin," he said. "There was absolute lack of confidence everywhere. There was distress and no one knew where we were going."

Though it was inevitable that much of the program devised to correct our situation at that time is imperfect, it was necessary that legislation and efforts toward improvement and action of defense be taken, the senator said.
"It is a requirement of good citizenship in these recovery measures, not to look about for faults but to look instead for the good points of the program and to support those features wholeheartedly."

Byrd Hopes to Find New Antarctic Lands for U. S.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd, above, hopes to discover and claim for the United States vast areas of unexplored land lying between South America and the South Pole on a second expedition he will lead to the Antarctic this fall. The approximate location of land Byrd hopes to find and the route of his 1929 expedition are shown on the map. One of the expedition's two vessels will be the old U. S. coast guard cutter Bear, pictured here, famous for its rescue work in Arctic waters.

Newspaper Ads Help Railroad To Show Gains

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—M. H. Cahill, chairman of the board and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, said today that an aggressive newspaper advertising campaign figured prominently in traffic increases in August and during the first half of September.

"New business attracted to the lines as a result of our advertising, plus the improvement in the business situation and the success of our employe solicitation movement, encourages the hope that Katy will again be able to earn its fixed charges, despite the fact that during the first six months of the year our revenue, due to general conditions, was 12 per cent less than for the first half of the preceding year," he said.

A shotgun in the hands of Eldon McCormick, 18, his youthful brother-in-law, brought a halt to the career of Cecil (Fefe) Thornbrugh, alleged outlaw, shown above in a hospital at Ottawa, Kan. SWEDEN LOSES TOURISTS

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden has had fewer German tourists this year, because of the 200-mark limit imposed on travelers from that country, but the drop has been less than anticipated. Swedish travel agencies report. Two of the most popular tours in Sweden, it is pointed out, are by boat, the cost of which leaves very little left from the 200 marks to travel money.

KEENAN GETS LETTER FROM UNDERWORLD

$185,000 in Urchel ransom money which has not been recovered is being held intact to organize and pay off underworld forces for carrying out the death threats.

The stern-faced prosecutor, who has traveled the midwest in his fight on gangdom without ever calling for a personal guard, said it was not his intention to answer "cheap threats from human rats."

"That man is marked," said Keenan. "It may be a month, or it may be a year, but he can not escape the government forces."

Keenan said any effort to affect the United States government in the prosecution of certain individuals would be met "only by intensified prosecution."

ONE-DISH DINNER APPROVED IN GEORGIA'S RURAL HOMES

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—One-dish dinners now have wider approval on the tables of Georgia housewives. This summer than ever before, says Susan Matthews, extension nutritionist at the University of Georgia.

One-dish dinners, as outlined by Miss Matthews include a meat, a starchy vegetable, a root or other vegetable and a salad. They are often served from the dish in which they are cooked. Most of them, she says, and a small in themselves and need only bread and butter and a beverage to complete them.

WEEKEND GUESTS STAY FOR SUNDAY SUPPER

If your weekend guests are staying for Sunday night supper, why not make the Sunday luncheon a breakfast-luncheon and have the evening meal one easy to serve. Place everything on the table and let everyone select according to taste. You might serve one hot dish, such as chopped meat cooked in green peppers cut open, and hot rolls, buttered and a good. There have a dish with radishes, olives, hearts of artichokes and whole tomatoes filled with celery and covered with salad dressing. Another dish can contain solid sliced meats, and another potato salad, and another cole slaw. Cream cheese and pickled beets look attractive on a plate. For dessert, a nice home-made layer cake and coffee.

More than 1800 visitors were entertained at the annual Farmers' Week at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.
