IT'S FAIR TIME

The annual Grange Fair and Home Products show will open in the L. D. S. Recreational hall tomorrow, and advance information indicates that the displays of vegetables, fruits, grains, Four-H club livestock and other articles will surpass showings of the last few years.

The show, besides encouraging quality production of farm products and home products, should serve as an eye-opener to hundreds of people who do not realize what this valley can produce. Those who have not patronized the show in former years should not fail to avail themselves of this opportunity; and unquestionably those who have seen the show before will return again. The Four-H club livestock will be on exhibit in the sheds back of the court house and will be one of the most interesting features.

In addition, an excellent program, including a band concert, speeches, etc., has been arranged for. The fair-show, as many call it, is one of the outstanding community events of the year, and is deserving of all the encouragement possible to extend.

VISIT STORE DISPLAYS

La Grande merchants, to give townpeople the opportunity to see the newest trends in modern fashions, present attractive window displays. The neat, attractive showings give to the city the prevailing modes in dress, furniture, jewelry. With business on the upward grade and the revival of buying, La Granders are urged to inspect the displays which the merchants are featuring. Make it a point to go window shopping the next few days. You'll shop "inside" as well to your saving.

DEMAND GAINING FOR FARM LANDS OVER NORTHWEST

SPOKANE, Wash.—Testifying to an increasing demand for farms in the northwest since the first of the year, a record land sale volume of $1,401,988 was attained by the federal land bank of Spokane, in the Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana territory, during the first eight month period of 1933. The largest sale volume was made of any August in the history of the bank, with $704,694 involved, topping the previous August record made during 1929 by over $19,000. President E. M. Ehrhardt said, "Apparently encouraged by gradually increasing farm commodity prices and the cash prospects of farm security liquidation, the public is responding with heavier cash payments on land in the interest of securing the best farm possible. They realize that the farm income is reviving and that land value will improve with better prices for farm products." The August sales volume classified by states is as follows:

(1) Washington	$90,051.51
(2) Idaho	44,650.00
(3) Oregon	48,973.00
(4) Montana	25,420.00

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer
WASHINGTON—While senators and representatives generally are complaining about the patronage situation and criticize Postmaster General Farley for not giving out more jobs, those close to "Big Jim" are convinced that he knows what he is doing. Quietly but nevertheless efficiently they say, Farley is building up a smooth-working political machine which will bring results later on when needed. That's his job. He is chairman of the Democratic national committee as well as a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet. Any man in his position would have felt the wrath of job-hungry Democrats. There were so many of the faithful out of jobs when the new administration came in that to attempt to satisfy all the demands was impossible. Everybody knows this, too—even the senators and representatives who have been yelling the loudest that the administration's patronage dispenser is stingy. He plays the game Farley plays the game of politics.

in a very practical fashion. He knows that as long as he is "boss" of patronage that he can keep 'em in line. His presence on Capitol Hill the night the special session was finally brought to a close was sufficient to throw a monkey wrench into the president's economy program, to fall in line. They deny that Farley threatened them with his patronage club, but the fact remains that he got what he wanted to the Capitol floor. He is relying on patronage, too, to build up a political machine that will function smoothly and efficiently in 1934 and in the presidential election year of 1936. He may have made his mistake, but he has a pretty good idea of his objective. NRA Given Free Hand While he is the "boss," he has given a free hand to the leaders of the "new deal" wherever possible. The NRA, for example, has been permitted to do very much as it pleased in recruiting its technical talent. The same is true in some of the other departments of government. The Republicans and some independents have obtained jobs. He hasn't exactly introduced any far-reaching reforms in the old system of distributing political jobs, but the old-timers say he has done about as well as any of his predecessors. The proof of his labors will come later.

Mrs. Roosevelt Wears Low Tan Sport Shoes
WASHINGTON—The low sport shoes worn by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt give full suppleness to her tall figure. They're smart-looking too. At her last press conference she was wearing a tan pair with tan mesh dress below a frilly, green print dress with broad bertha bordered in white.

Overcoats For Men Are To Be Bigger

Bulky, Loose-Fitting Swagger Coat Appears to Top List in Style Edict for Fall

By Jess Andrews of The Toggery

The overcoat that seems to top the list in the edicts for this winter is a bulky, loose-fitting swagger coat with an all-around belt. There are many variations of this style. Notable are the coat with sport details on the belt. These details are of the Norfolk order with box pleats, inverted under-arms pleats and Norfolk yoke. The raglan shoulder is a dominant feature of such coats. To the bottom of these coats there is a decided flare. Lapels are big and broad and are usually of the peak order. Most of them show novelty pockets and cuffs. Most of these coats are in heavy tweeds, Scotch and Shetlands. Some are in fine chinchillas showing irregular weaves. Polo coats still have a strong following, but it is believed that these will be confined to the lower priced lines as the ultra dresser is turning to something newer and less common. Polo coats are in heavy camel hair, but of the fleeced rather than the pile variety. Tweeds in big patterns are also popular in this type of coat. More conservative dressers will adhere to the box or ulsterette variety of garment in heavier worsteds, corduroys, meltons and nubby weaves. The fitted coat of the surcoat or pale. This variety is definitely a dress overcoat and will largely be confined to that function in the wardrobe of the man who has an extra coat for dress wear. Double-breasted coats have the preference even in coats of the semi-ultra and guard variety. The urge for patterns in suits is also evident in the overcoats and such patterns are of rather bold character. Plaids, large blocks and heavy checks as well as large Scotch treatments are seen.

LOCAL BRIEFS

From Portland— Lawrence Wiggins, of Portland, is transacting business here today.

Happersetts Here— Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Happersett, of Portland, are spending a week in La Grande visiting their son, Sydney Happersett, and their daughter, Mrs. Raymond O. Williams. They are former residents.

Week End Here— Misses Frances Kelly and Myrtle Jane Pyle, who teach in the Baker schools, spent the weekend in La Grande as the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kelly.

Returns Home— Rev. Carlos A. Plummer returned Tuesday from Cove where he spent several days visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gibson.

Enjoyable Trip— Mrs. G. E. Walker and daughters, Dorothy and Helen, and grandson, Billy, have returned from a week's visit at the J. W. Dunbar home in Kelma. They report an enjoyable trip. Paul Walker, Mrs. Walker's son, accompanied them to the Washington city but found employment there and will remain for awhile.

HOUSEKEEPING TIPS
A pale of sweetens comes in handy when the children's shoelaces are refractory. When poaching eggs put one teaspoon of vinegar in the boiling water and the eggs will hold together much better. In mixing cake batter add the flour first and then the milk and this will make a smoother batter. Honey put in grapefruit in place of sugar gives a flavor as well as the necessary sweetening. Prepare your grapefruit with the honey and then place in the ice box several being shown in the program which will open the annual show. On Friday afternoon the entire afternoon program will be turned over to the poultry division, with H. A. Cosby, in charge of the poultry department of Oregon state college, as the principal speaker. His address will cover poultry problems and co-operative marketing, and will be of equal interest to the commercial poultry raiser and the poultry fancier.

Use Two Floors
Many exhibits are to be arranged in the basement this year and all who attend the fair are urged to inspect the basement displays. The fair is held for the benefit of the general public and the officers and members of the various committees are doing the work gratis. The public is urged, therefore, to co-operate in doing its part to make the fair a success.

CONGRESSMAN WALTER M. PIERCE and G. L. Hyslop, dean of soils at Oregon State college, will be the principal speakers at the Friday evening program at 7:30 o'clock in the tabernacle. Musical numbers are being arranged.

Chairmen of the various committees include J. D. Woodell, grasses exhibit and special displays; J. A. Gaskill, grains, grasses and storage crops;

City C C C Boys Gain Most
NEW YORK—Recruits from the sidewalks of New York gained a pound each more than youngsters from western New York state during service in Civilian Conservation Corps camps of the first New York district. Average gain was 7.93 pounds, with a top gain of 25 pounds, among 1000 youths.

NEARS MEN'S SWIM RECORD
DETROIT, Mich.—A woman has come within four minutes of equalling the men's record for swimming around Belle Isle, Swearingin, the 12-mile distance, Miss Irene Livermore was timed at three hours and 40 minutes, a new woman's record.

PARIS (AP)—"Hedgehog velvet" is among the novel fabrics launched this season. Worth shows an ensemble made of the new fabric which is a heavy black velvet with short white hairs woven into it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's cities gradually would be supplanted by long lines of houses and buildings running across the open country under the scheme called "Roadtown" proposed by Edgar Chambless of New York.

Roadtown works somewhat on the principle of a skyscraper apartment house laid down on its side. The houses, stores, theatres, churches and other buildings, laid side by side, would be connected by a continuous roadway running beneath, through their first stories. Lawns, gardens and farms would cover the land on both sides of the lines of houses.

Farm And Factory Work
Families living in the houses would find employment on the farms and in de-centralized factories located at intervals along the lines of dwellings and in garages that provide home workshop factories.

The Roadtown scheme, advanced as one of many housing reform plans submitted to the government, has been endorsed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other officials.

Farmers and industrial workers alike could live in the Roadtowns which would combine the advantages of city and country life and do away with the congestion and dirt of cities and the isolation and comparative primitiveness of many farm homes.

The central roadway, running under the lines of buildings, would provide a place for laying sewers, hot water heating lines, water pipes, gas lines, electric light, power and telephone lines. Protected from the weather by the buildings above, the streets would be less expensive to maintain and the utility lines less expensive to maintain and install, the sponsors say.

"A skywalk" or open-air promenade would run along the tops of the lines of buildings, playgrounds, tennis courts and other recreation facilities would be located at intervals. Flights of steps would connect the street with the buildings above and with the outside, and small elevators or dumb-waiters could be used for delivering goods from the street level to the buildings.

The house line would be about 25 feet wide and one or more stories high depending on whether the emphasis is laid on suburban or farm life. Chambless believes, however, that if the scheme is put into operation, the average Roadtown would be two stories.

Among the advantages cited for Roadtown are cheap cost of building the units, socialization of the land, diversification of industry, revival of home industry, return to a more natural life, maintenance of America's original ideals with all men independent and self-supporting.
